FINISH LISTING WHAT CHICAGO HAS AND HASN'T

Leaders Hear Plea for Tax Reform.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

With its equipment, resources and weaknesses accurately sounded, its goal in commercial and cultural supremacy clearly fixed, Chicago passed last night into a new era of more conscious achievement.

Inventory week of the Chicago Association of Commerce, which has brought forth the most orderly and complete presentation of lines of progress and overlooked possibilities, ended with a banquet at the Hotel Sherman in which the torch was passed on by the older captains to the junior members of the association.

Twelve Ex-Presidents Attend.

Twelve past presidents of the association were present, including John G. Shedd, the first president. President William R. Dawes was toastmaster. Mayor Dever was a guest of honor.

Expressing appreciation for the good qualities of the Dever administration, Mr. Dawes said that the city government cannot be expected to do all the things that are asked unless the people are ready to pay the bill, and that the time had come for a broader policy of taxation in Chicago.

The mayor said that the average home owner, paying $100 taxes, got his money's worth in police, fire protection, lighting, health, library and education, and that there was no reason for pessimism.

Dever Cites Annual Growth.

"The city revenue is the most important thing with which we have to deal now," he said. "We are taking on a new population each year of [illegible]. We have 300 fewer police than we had four years ago. Chicago must have money to go ahead. Lack of a tax system that will give adequate revenue is what is slowing the city."

He defended the moral reputation of Chicago, saying that he was not deeply annoyed at temporary and sporadic outbreaks, and that there is no reason to be disturbed.

Mr. Shedd said that there were no bounds to the optimism with which he looked at the future, passing into the hands of the younger men. The new leaders, he said, must be equal to the task outlined by the inventory, and there is material in abundance.

Urges Running Inventory.

Harry A. Wheeler, former president and vice chairman of the anniversary committee, said that there should be immediately set up, preferably under the auspices of the Chicago Association of Commerce, adequate machinery for the industrial and commercial physical survey, for charting the commercial activities of the city and carrying a running inventory of the gain or loss in number of commercial units, their annual production and the degree of efficiency under which they are operating.

"When we realize what could have been done in the more symmetrical development of our industries and commerce and our public service by an adequate knowledge of their necessities for orderly development, we must realize how vital is the importance of this actual and continuous survey here suggested," he said.

Prof. J. Paul Goode of the University of Chicago presented the geographic background of Chicago and emphasized the ideal of "making Chicago the intellectual capital of America."

During the day two conferences were held at which surveys on construction, foods, chemicals, and drugs were discussed. The range of the ideas presented was wide.

Wacker Urges Revenue Reform.

Charles H. Wacker, chairman of the Chicago Plan commission, said that the most important thing to do today is to get money to carry out the building [illegible]

"The city's position is serious," he said. "Its present legal debt incurring limit is $90,000,000 and all this has been used. Further, it may issue only about $6,000,000 bonds a year through retirement of bonds outstanding, and through increase in the value of taxable property.

"Against this condition President [illegible] of the board of local improvements is quoted as saying the courts are expected to fix the city's share of costs of public improvements now contemplated at $31,000,000.

"The constitution limits the indebtedness of a municipality to 5 per cent of the assessed value of its taxable property. The legal limit of indebtedness, therefore, could be doubled by

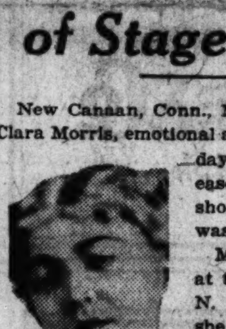
Clara Morris, Former Star of Stage, Dies

New Canaan, Conn., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Clara Morris, emotional actress, died today of heart disease following a short illness. She was 79 years old.



CLARA MORRIS.

Miss Morris died at the home of C. N. Herold, where she was visiting She came here four or five weeks ago from her home in Tuckahoe, N. Y., where she had been living for several years with Mrs. Ada C. Murphy.

The famous actress for the last twenty years had been confined to her room. She had no near relatives.

Great Emotional Actress.

Miss Morris, who was Mrs. Frederick C. Harriot in private life, was one of the great emotional actresses of the English-speaking stage a number of years ago, and for more than twenty-five years she enjoyed much popularity and prosperity.

The actress put so much energy and feeling into her rôles, however, that she suffered a complete nervous breakdown at the height of her career, and it was only after a long retirement that she was able to return intermittently to the stage. In 1894 she found it impossible to continue acting and for several years devoted her time to writing, chiefly on theatrical subjects.

During the latter period she suffered many financial reverses and in 1907 she became temporarily blind. During her prosperity Miss Morris had purchased "The Pines" at Yonkers, N. Y., formerly a part of the Edwin Forrest estate. A number of benefits enabled her and her husband to live long after she had retired from the stage, but in 1910 they were threatened with eviction for failure to maintain interest payments on mortgages.

Admirers Come to Her Aid.

This aroused much feeling among older theatergoers. A subscription was started and a considerable sum raised, but before any action could be taken the mortgages were paid off by S. W. Harriot, Miss Morris' brother-in-law.

The cares which had darkened her later life were considerably dispelled in October, 1915, when Miss Morris received a life interest in $50,000 from her brother-in-law's estate. A few years ago her memoirs were published and widely read. The receipts from these writings aided her comeback from poverty.

Miss Morris, whose maiden name was Morrison, was born at Toronto, Canada, on March 17, 1846. When she was thirteen years old she made her first appearance on the stage at Cleveland, O., in "The Seven Sisters." Her first New York appearance was with the late Augustin Daly on Sept. 13, 1870, when she played the role of Anne Sylvester in "Man and Wife" and scored an immediate success.

Notable among the later plays in which she appeared was "Denise," "Renee," "Helene," and "Claire," the last her own adaptation of the novel "Eva," by Richard Voss. Mention must also be made of her effective playing of Sister Genevieve in "The Two Ophans," when that piece was revived with an "all star" cast in 1904.

These were her last performances and for them she returned to the stage after several years' retirement. Her last public appearance was in the sleep walking scene in "Macbeth," at a benefit performance given for her by the Twelfth Night club at the New York theater on April 16, 1909.

HINES SUCCEEDS EVANS AS HEAD OF NAVY STATION

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Announcement that Capt. John F. Hines, at present a student officer at the naval war college at Newport, R. I., had been selected to succeed Capt. Waldo Evans, as commandant of the Great Lakes naval training station at Chicago, was made by the navy department today.

Capt. Evans who has been at the Great Lakes station for several years, will retire from the service Nov. 24. Capt. Hines has been instructed to depart for Chicago in time to arrive before that date.

Capt. Hines entered the service in May, 1888, and has had twenty years of sea duty. He is 55 years old.

PRESIDENT HAS HIS OWN DOCTOR SEE HIS FATHER

Plymouth, Vt., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Maj. James F. Coupal, personal physician to President Coolidge, came here today at the behest of the executive and was received immediately at the home of the President's father, Col. John C. Coolidge, who has been ill with heart trouble.

He said afterwards he had found the patient better than he had expected in view of what he had been through the last week. Dr. Albert M. Cram had previously stated that Col. Coolidge's condition was improved over yesterday.

Call Alienist in Death Quiz on Allen Baby

Mrs. Grace Haas Allen and her husband, John R. Allen, were questioned until a late hour this morning by State's Attorney Crowe and his aids, who are seeking a solution of the mysterious slaying of the Allen baby, John R. Allen Jr., five weeks old. The husband and wife were questioned separately.

During the morning Dr. William O. Krohn, the alienist who has testified for the state in numerous cases, including the Loeb and Leopold trial, was called into conference. Mr. Crowe refused to state why Dr. Krohn was called, but it was understood that a psychopathic question had arisen that made it advisable to consult him. Later he questioned Mrs. Allen alone.

Another development of the morning was the announcement by Dr. L. K. Eastman, coroner's physician, that he had been directed by Coroner's Chemist W. D. McNally to exhume the body of the baby for further examination. This followed a significant announcement made earlier by Coroner Oscar Wolff.

Chloroform in Liquid.

Baby Allen, who was found dead in his crib in the Allen suite at the Belmont hotel Tuesday night, was killed by chloroform, given in liquid, not by inhalation. The chloroform was introduced in the baby's milk, Coroner Wolff said.

This was shown, the coroner added, by the chemical analysis made of the infant's organs by Dr. William D. McNally, coroner's chemist.

In her statement to Mr. Crowe, Mrs. Allen told the following story about how her baby was fed the night of the tragedy:

"Either the nurse, Miss Frogren, or myself had prepared the baby's bottle," Mrs. Allen said. "First Miss Frogren gave him an ounce or two of the milk, and then I took him and the bottle into the bedroom, alone, where he had the rest of the contents of the bottle."

Hospital Witnesses Called.

Mr. Crowe was assisted in the examination by his assistants, George E. Gorman, Joseph P. Savage, and Robert E. McMillan, each taking turns at questioning the witnesses. In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Caroline Frogren, the baby's nurse, was in the state's attorneys office during the night. Witnesses from the West Suburban hospital who were in attendance on Mrs. Allen when the baby was born also were summoned.

An intense dread of child birth was felt by Mrs. Allen, Assistant State's Attorney Savage has learned, a dread which some months before the baby was born brought the mother to a nervous breakdown, which necessitated her being sent to a sanitarium.

Mrs. Allen, though very tired, wan, and sad over the death of her baby, did not become hysterical under the questioning. She answered all questions readily and said she wished to do all in her power to aid the inquiry.

The prosecutors were kindly and considerate in their attitude, assuring both Mr. and Mrs. Allen that they wished to accord them every possible courtesy.

ALCOHOL BOSS SHOT TO DEATH IN DRUG STORE

Deputy Sheriff Dies in Second Shooting.

Bootleggers' pistols cracked again and two men, one of whom sought to seize the Gennas' position of leadership in the alcohol cooking business on the west side, were killed.

Abraham Goldstein, 1158 Hastings street, otherwise known as "Pete the Peddler" and reputedly a close friend of Samoots Amatuna, was shot through the head in a drug store at 1400 Blue Island avenue. As he fell dead across the counter two men ran out of the store and escaped in a large blue automobile.

Deputy Sheriff Dies.

The second shooting occurred at Elm and Larrabee streets. Marion Mascarelli, 1116 Larrabee street, poolroom owner and deputy sheriff, was shot seven times by three men. All escaped unscathed, although Mascarelli emptied his revolved at them.

No fewer than six men witnessed the shooting of Goldstein, but when the police arrived the only one left was Charles Marshek, proprietor of the drug store. Marshek asserted that he was not present when the shots were fired, that he had gone out to get change for a large bill, and that when he returned only the body of the dead man remained where it had sprawled.

Police Hold Proprietor.

Two bullets had penetrated the head and death was instantaneous. Capt. Daniel Lynch of the Maxwell street district ordered Marshek be held, asserting that he was not satisfied with his explanation that he had not seen the killers enter. Four customers who were in the place fled.

Orders were sent out to arrest Frank Sullivan; Steve O'Donnell, a brother of Klondyke O'Donnell; Daniel Perry, a former deputy sheriff; and "Hump" Kane, one of the O'Donnell henchmen.

All these men, according to underground tipsters, were seen in the vicinity shortly before the shots were fired.

Miriam Goldstein, a 14 year old sister of Pete, said she was passing the corner when the shots were fired. As she stopped, she saw the men walk out and enter the automobile. One of them, she asserted, was Sullivan.

Says Druggist Ran Out.

A 12 year old boy, Benny Kessler, told the police he was in the place when the two men entered and that Marshek ran out the rear door as soon as he saw them. Two little girls, Bessie and Esther Pearlman, said that they saw the pair leave. Their description of one of the men tallies with that of Sullivan.

The latter is an official of the Electrical Fixture Hangers' union. Isaac Goldstein, father of the slain man, said that his son had received threats of death from Sullivan. Goldstein and Perry are said to have been at odds since Perry was wounded in a gun fight near his home, 901 West Roosevelt road, in May.

Tracing back the alleged schemes of Goldstein and Samoots, Capt. Lynch and Sergt. O'Neill recalled that the Goldstein home and two neighboring houses had been raided only a few weeks ago and that large quantities of moonshine and stills were seized.

Samoots and Goldstein, according to the reports, then had formed a combination and were financing the operation of numerous cooking plants in which alcohol was extracted from commercial preparations.

Successors of Gennas.

This plan had already gone so far that the pair were regarded as the real owners of the business that had been the Gennas'. The O'Donnell faction and others who had ambitions in the same line were said to have planned to get rid of them.

Marshek, the druggist, claimed that he was in a garage at 1206 West 14th street when the shooting occurred. John Farrow, a colored watchman, corroborated this. The police are satisfied that Marshek was not in the store when the shots were fired, but believe that he left when he foresaw what was to happen.

In their investigation of the Mascarelli killing the Chicago avenue police were unable to find any witnesses who saw the shooting. They were inclined to believe that Mascarelli had gained the enmity of some of the bootlegging gangs in the neighborhood.

Piecing their information to that obtained by the police in the Goldstein affair, they theorised that the booze war had been reopened with a vengeance. Mascarelli's star, No. 896, was pierced by one of the bullets.

Get Hip Flask Carriers, Too, Coolidge Says

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—(AP)—All violations of the prohibition law, however small, should be prosecuted, in the opinion of President Coolidge, although he believes that special stress should be placed upon cases where convictions will close up large sources of liquor supplies.

The President feels that prohibition violations are being prosecuted by federal authorities as rapidly and thoroughly as the existing legal machinery permits, and recognizes that prosecutions serving to abolish supply sources do much to reduce minor prohibition cases, which have been clogging court dockets.

Disagrees with Buckner.

The view of United States Attorney Buckner of New York that the small prohibition law violations should be ignored, if necessary, to concentrate upon larger cases, has stirred up a controversy which has been brought to the attention of the chief executive.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon league, recently criticized Mr. Buckner because of his public announcement that he would make little effort to catch the hip flash law violators in order to center his forces against the bigger ones, and also made the prohibition situation in New York the subject of a conversation with Mr. Coolidge last week.

Calls for More Judges.

New York, Nov. 20.—(AP)—United States Attorney Buckner declared tonight the problem of thorough prohibition enforcement in New York was entirely one of judges.

"Give me enough judges and I will prosecute every violator in New York," he said when his attention was called to a dispatch ascribing to President Coolidge the opinion that no cases should be overlooked.

W. E. BAILEY, RAIL OFFICIAL, DIES IN I. C. STATION

William E. Bailey, for the last twenty years general auditor of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railroad company, dropped dead last night while waiting for a train at the Van Buren street suburban station of the Illinois Central.

Mr. Bailey, who was born at Dowagiac, Mich., in 1857, had lived at the Hyde Park hotel for the last ten years. He was a widower. Death is believed to have been caused by heart disease.

He began his railroad career with the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé in 1884 as a clerk in the auditor's office at Topeka, Kas. He was a former president of the Association of American Railway Accounting Officers and a member of the Chicago Athletic club.

SLEEPER WAKES; KILLS PROWLER IN HIS BEDROOM

Harry Frungis, 19 years old, was awakened early this morning as he lay sleeping by the side of his uncle, Sam Koroulis, 45 years old, a restaurant keeper, in the front room of a flat at 5012 Wentworth avenue. He roused Koroulis, who saw a vague form prowling about the room. Koroulis drew his pistol from under his pillow and fired twice. The police were notified and found the dead body of a youth lying where he had fallen. Investigation showed the dead youth to be Sigurd Mortensen, 19 years old, 5051 South Wells street, an extra mail carrier. His brother told the police he had not been home after 5 o'clock Friday.

BRITAIN MOURNS QUEEN MOTHER, TAKEN BY DEATH

May Give Alexandra State Funeral.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Nov. 20. — England mourned tonight for the woman, who for a quarter of a century, or since the death of Queen Victoria, has been the empire's best beloved woman—Dowager Queen Alexandra.

The aged Alexandra, mother of King George V., the present British ruler, and widow of King Edward VII., died late this afternoon at her country palace, Sandringham, from a heart attack.

The great bell of St. Paul's cathedral tolled for a full hour tonight, from 8 to 9, to notify all London of the passing of the queen mother. Numerous public functions were called off. The British wireless world joined in the mouring, abandoning all public broadcasting for the night. One of the most touching tributes was tonight's recollection by the press of the lines which the poet Alfred Tennyson wrote especially to greet Alexandra in which he hailed her as the "Sea King's daughter from over the sea—Alexandra," when she came from Denmark in 1863 to marry the prince of Wales.

King at Mother's Bedside.

Almost full gathering of Alexandra's family attended her last moments. In addition to King George and Queen Mary, those present included the princess royal, the Princess Victoria, Queen Maud of Norway, Prince Henry, and the Princess Arthur of Connaught. Owing to a delay caused by fog, the prince of Wales and the duke of York did not reach Sandringham palace until their grandmother had died.

Banquet for Prince Canceled.

Up until the last moment the prince of Wales had hoped to attend the banquet at the guildhall, arranged by the city of London in honor of his return from his world tour, but at 10 a. m. the news from Sandringham was so bad that it was decided to cancel the banquet, for which tables were already being laid. It was too late to notify the 800 guests, so a barrier was erected at the entrance to the guildhall, and as the guests arrived they were met by officials who told them that the banquet was off. The food and flowers ordered for the banquet were sent to hospitals.

The prince of Wales left for Sandringham on a special train which had been kept waiting for him at the Liverpool street station since yesterday, with steam up ready for a quick start. He was accompanied by the duke and duchess of York.

The station master at Wolferton broke the news to the prince of Wales and his brother, after which they proceeded by motor with their heads bared.

Make Casket from Loved Trees.

The latest announcement says Alexandra's body will be moved from Sandringham on Wednesday. Her coffin will be made from the wood of trees grown on her beloved Sandringham estate.

The exact date of the funeral cannot be fixed until the wishes of the king and queen and other members of the royal family are known. It is informally announced that she will probably be buried in the royal vault under the Albert Memorial chapel, near the body of the late King Edward, her husband, and the body of her eldest son, the duke of Clarence.

Since there is no precedent for the funeral of a mother of a reigning British monarch in modern times, the lord chamberlain in his arrangements must go back to 1437 for an example when Catherine of France, the mother of Henry VI., died during Henry's life.

Will Have State Burial.

It is understood, however, that the lord chamberlain will follow the example of the funeral of Queen Adelaide, the widow of William IV., who was given a state burial in 1849.

While Alexandra's remains will pass through the streets of London, giving the public a chance to express their sympathy and sorrow, there will be no military pomp.

It is for the king to decide whether the body is to lie in state. If the king wishes such a ceremony, the body will probably be taken to Marlborough house and there lie in state semi-privately, only her friends being allowed to view the remains. The public part of the funeral will consist of a procession from Marlborough house to the chapel where the interment will take place.

It is recalled that the funeral of King Edward took place fourteen days from his death, from which it may be estimated that that of Alexandra may follow on a similar schedule.

King of Norway to Attend.

King Haakon of Norway will come from London to attend the funeral. The Duke of Connaught, who is residing in the south of France, also is making haste to England.

On Monday Prime Minister Baldwin will introduce a motion of condolence in the house of commons, after which the leaders of all the parties will deliver addresses. On the day of the funeral both houses of parliament will be closed. The house of lords will also meet on Monday to honor the name of the late dowager queen.

Ramsay MacDonald, Labor party leader and former prime minister, gave the following statement:

"The whole country will feel sorrowful over the death of the queen mother. She had been so long with us and so long intimately concerned with our national life that every household felt an intimate kinship with her by reason of her good and kindly deeds and the human appeal which her life made to us all."

Mourned in Denmark.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The news of the death of Queen Mother Alexandra was received in Denmark, her native land, with deep sorrow and with the feeling that a powerful link in the chain of friendship between Denmark and England has been snapped.

The news came as an especial shock to Alexandra's youngest sister, Marie, the former dowager empress of Russia, now living in Denmark. At lunch today the former czarina, who is at present in good health, reviewed memories of the childhood and youth which she and Alexandra spent together in Denmark, telling her daughter, the Grand Duchess Olga, and her retainers how they lived with their parents, who later became King Christian IX. and Queen Louise of Denmark, at the modest yellow palace, now occupied by Prince and Princess Viggo. The former czarina related how she and her sister had to make their own dresses, their father's allowance being exceedingly small, due to the economical disposition of the then king, Frederick VII.

After lunch Marie sat at her piano and played the overture "Eleverhej," remarking that Alexandra had liked that tune better than any other. This afternoon the former czarina took her cusomary afternoon taxicab ride through the forest adjoining the villa Hvidoere, which for years has been the joint summer residence of herself and Queen Alexandra. Soon after her return the news of her sister's death was received.

Coolidges Send Condolences.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—(AP)—President Coolidge late today cabled King George of England an expression of sympathy from himself and Mrs. Coolidge over the death of Queen Mother Alexandra. It read:

"The sad intelligence of the death of her majesty, Queen Alexandra, your mother, has impressed Mrs. Coolidge and me with profound sorrow. We desire to extend to your majesty our sincere condolences and heartfelt sympathy."

HELD BRITISH HEARTS

Queen Alexandra was born on Dec. 1, 1844, in Denmark. She was a daughter of Prince Christian, then heir to the Danish throne. She was married on March 10, 1863, at Windsor, Eng., to her late husband, King Edward VII., then prince of Wales and the eldest son of Queen Victoria.

For 62 years from the time that Alexandra came to England as a girl of 19, she held first place in the hearts of the people of her adopted land. It was often stated that the affection and esteem felt for her was of the heart rather than of the mind. And this was easy to understand for her first interests were ever in the everyday life of the people rather than in politics.

She received a rigid training in her girlhood. Her mother, the stern Queen Louisa of Denmark, said she intended to have her daughters pass their girlhood in sack cloth so that they would be better able to wear purple when the time came. With this end in view the young princess was required to learn to sew, cook and perform the other duties of a young housewife. Alexandra became an adept seamstress and made many of the dresses which she wore. And had not fortune made her England's queen she could have presided over the home of a country gentleman in a most proficient manner.

Twin Beauties of Royalty.

Alexandra grew to be a lovely girl, and she and her sister, who was Czarine Dagmer of Russia, were known as the twin beauties of European royalty. And she kept this reputation throughout the many years during which she was a central figure in the social life of Europe. Even as a very old woman, Alexandra was able to retain a very marked trace of her former beauty.

Alexandra saw many lovely rivals in beauty pass—victims of the speedy life in which they lived. As Princess of Wales and later as queen, Alexandra was always very careful of her living. At the first sign of the slightest indisposition she took to her bed and sent immediately for a masseuse. Both before and immediately after any affair demanding a tax on her strength she rested. Diet, too, played an important part in her living. She carefully avoided fats and she maintained that no pretty woman would touch either tea, coffee or chocolate.

Rarely Lost Her Temper.

The queen tried to preserve an even temper which she said was necessary for the preservation of health. Although possessing a rather sharp temper, it was said that she very rarely lost it. She is said to have had rather a trying time with her mother-in-law, Queen Victoria, on the matter of foods. Queen Victoria lived the solid old English foods which her daughter-in-law refused to try and the former tried to wean the princess from her temperate habits. But Alexandra was obdurate on this subject.

The love of Alexandra and Edward was a real romance. Their first meeting was brought about when a young German officer handed the young prince of Wales a miniature, saying it was that of the girl he intended to marry. But he had inadvertently handed the prince the wrong miniature, giving him one of the Princess Alexandra, which had been done by the same artist, instead of that of his betrothed. Edward was struck by the beauty of Alexandra and immediately began to plan to meet her. And when they met it was almost a case of love at first sight.

The wedding was one of the most brilliant events that ever took place in England. The fête began when the young Danish princess landed in England where she was met by a large number of beautiful girls all carrying flowers. And her progress to her future home was through a veritable bower of flowers.

The crowds in London which greeted her arrival were so great that many persons were crushed to death.

Her first child was born on Jan. 8, 1864. The fact that it was a son gave the greatest satisfaction throughout England. Alexandra was delighted at her baby and in writing to one of her cousins said: "My boy is far better than any doll I ever had. He is the dearest thing; but it does annoy me when people call him 'it.'" But her first born, the duke of Clarence, died when a very young man. Her second son, the present King George, was born on June 3, 1865.

Preferred Life in Country.

Queen Alexandra always preferred her country home at Sandringham, where she had her flowers and her many pets. The main part of the residence bears the inscription, "This house was built by Albert Edward, and Alexandra, his wife, in the year of our Lord 1870." Alexandra's London residence was Marlborough house, where, before she retired to the country, she spent much of her time.

Queen Alexandra had a great many recreations, the chief of which were music and photography. She was an adept at the piano and was a great lover of the opera. Also she was quite clever at water color painting. She was extremely fond of flowers, especially roses and carnations, but it was her love for the former which made the rose so popular in England. She was also interested in many charities.

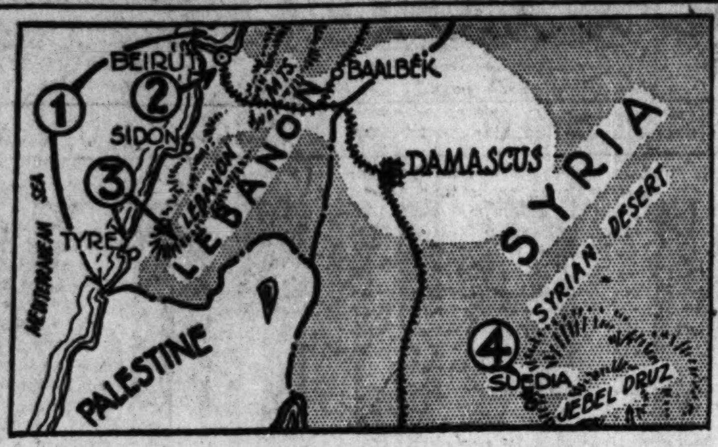
FRENCH NEAR DISASTER IN SYRIA



This map shows how all of Syria and Lebanon is lost to France except the region about Damascus and a strip along the seacoast.

1. The French are concentrating troops along the Lebanon coast, but too late to save the hinterland from falling into rebel hands.

2. Beirut is the center of political disturbances. Foreign warships are there to protect their nationals against the rebels, for the French native troops have proven so inefficient that every one expects a holy war to break out.

3. France's policy of arming Christian natives failed dismally. Their black troops proved unreliable, with the result that the Druse tribesmen overran all southern Lebanon with virtually no opposition.

4. The French victory at Suedia last summer is now nullified by the Druse successes, and France faces the possibility of being ousted from Syria entirely.

Desperate Situation Told in Uncensored Wire.

BEIRUT, Syria, Nov. 20.—The French are trying to carry out enveloping movements at Hasbeya, Rasheya, and Merjayyoum, and for this purpose troops have been dispatched in 400 automobiles.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BEIRUT, Syria, Nov. 19.—[By courier to Cairo to escape the censorship.]—These are the facts in the present rebellion throughout Syria and Lebanon, which THE TRIBUNE correspondent must send by a neighboring country on account of the censorship and the inefficiency of the French telegraphic service.

1. The Christian volunteer army of Lebanon has been completely defeated. Southern Lebanon is completely at the mercy of the Druses. The French are rushing all available troops southward from Beirut, but they do not have sufficient cavalry, armored cars and tanks, which alone can defeat the mounted enemy.

2. The arming of the volunteer Christian army has alarmed the entire Mohammedan population, adding the great danger of a Mohammedan uprising to that of the Druse rebellion. A religious war is foreshadowed in which the only safety for American citizens would be the two destroyers, Lampson and Coghlan, which are anchored off Beirut.

Desert Their Guns.

3. The French black troops in many instances have proved bad and the gendarmerie of mixed Christians and Mohammedans have been a complete failure, deserting their machine gun positions, fleeing before an inferior enemy and leaving the volunteers to save the women and children.

4. France's prestige has been almost completely shattered. A part restoration of its prestige was won by Gen. Gamelin's heroic recapture of Sude, lost when the Druses invaded Christian Lebanon, capturing every village they attacked, and massacring and pillaging.

5. The population of Lebanon and Syria, Christian as well as Mohammedan, is angry. Everybody is demanding that the French fight or get out. Only the subsidized press defends the government.

6. The most alarming fact of the situation is that France has no troops here. When Gen. Gamelin utilized 5,000 troops for attacking Suedia and defending his rear bases, the rest of the country became exposed to the rapid moving and night riding Druses who fight like the American Indians did.

Report Many Blunders.

7. For the past five months a series of diplomatic blunders have been evident to any observer, and they have been reported by the British, American, and other consulates to their governments.

8. While the public blames these blunders on Gen. Sarrail, diplomatic and other observers place the blame on deeper sources, namely on the political mess in Paris. They say that the struggle of French politicians for premiership and cabinet posts, the battle between the monarchists, republican and radical blocs in Paris and the fight between the clericals and anti-clericals in Paris are responsible for the terrible mess here which has resulted in massacres and disasters and which threatens more terrible things in religious war and complete rebellion.

Gen. Sarrail is noted as a liberal and a Free Mason. Even before his arrival the monarchist and clerical groups in Paris before knifing him. All his actions to pacify the country and to restore prosperity were hamstrung by the Paris politicians. The result is the half way measures which have characterized recent history and which are apparent today in the volunteer army mess. Had the government armed 10,000 volunteers, who came forward without being asked, and placed reliable leaders at their command the probability is that there would have been complete victory over the enemy.

The question of sufficient troops is another tragedy laid to Paris. The French military have been begging Paris daily for airplanes, but Paris has sent only two or three score, mostly old Breguets, some of which American aviators flew in France—old fashioned machines, which frequently collapse, burning up and causing the unnecessary deaths of French aviators.

The same is the case with armored cars, which are continually breaking down on the roads en route to the attacked villages. Also tanks, which have proved to be marvelous war machines when sent against the natives, should have been sent by the score instead of threes and fours.

COOLIDGE PUTS WATERWAYS AT TOP OF PROGRAM

Address Seen as Test of His Future.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 20.—[Special.]—On every hand I find President Coolidge's New York address last night regarded as the most significant pronouncement of his administration up to date, and fraught with incalculable importance to the nation and to the political future of our chief executive.

In that speech Mr. Coolidge has taken positions on questions affecting the national welfare that, in the opinion of political leaders, are not unlikely to furnish the supreme test of the success and popularity of his administration, to produce public reactions that will determine whether he is to succeed himself in 1928 for another term.

Program Is Constructive.

The President calls upon the nation to have done with the destructive tendencies of the trust busting period and embark upon a constructive national development. He announces an ambitious program of the constructive undertakings he has in mind. It is a program the success of which would add greatly to the prestige and popularity of the President, and the failure of which, conversely, would reflect seriously upon his capacity for leadership.

Mr. Coolidge places at the head of his program of national economic development the expansion of transportation facilities by the systematic and scientific improvement of waterways. The disclosure of the importance the President attaches to this matter is of special interest to the middle west for it happens that the two principal waterway projects now being urged are designed to benefit that region by furnishing cheaper transportation to the sea.

Would Benefit Chicago.

These two projects are the lakes to the gulf waterway and the St. Lawrence seaway. The former would give the Chicago manufacturing district cheap transportation for raw materials and finished products by barge transit between Chicago and New Orleans. The latter would enable ocean steamers to penetrate to Chicago and other lake ports and directly tap the granary of the world, reducing the transportation costs of which the corn and wheat raisers long have been complaining.

The lakes to the gulf project is less complicated and easier of realization than the St. Lawrence seaway. All that is necessary to assure Chicago a nine foot channel to the gulf, as Pittsburgh now possesses, is the authorization of the plan by congress and comparatively small appropriations for the deepening of the lower Illinois river two feet and the Mississippi channel from the Illinois to the Ohio one foot. The remaining link from Lockport to Utica is now being constructed by the state of Illinois.

Will Press Project.

The project is to be pressed upon congress by members of the Illinois delegation at the approaching session. President Coolidge already has declared himself favorable in principle to furnishing Chicago this outlet to the sea. If, as a consequence of the importance of waterway development he has formally enunciated, the President were to get behind the proposed Lakes to the gulf legislation there would be no doubt of its passage.

The St. Lawrence seaway plan is complicated by the fact that the St. Lawrence river cannot be canalized without the consent of Canada. Because of the influence of the Montreal water power interests, which are opposed to the scheme, Canada at first was cold to the American proposal.

Later the Dominion was induced to join in a survey of the undertaking without being committed to any action. The reports of the Canadian and American engineers are now awaited.

President Could Aid.

Here again the President could give powerful, probably irresistible, aid to the fruition of this great project. A skillful diplomacy conceivably would remove Canadian opposition and enable a speedy submission of the plan to congress.

The President's capacity for leadership really never has been tested. Before 1928, however, the midwest, like other parts of the country, will be passing judgment on the Coolidge administration and an important factor of that judgment is more than likely to be the record of the President in advancing these two major waterway improvements in connection with the carrying out of the formally proclaimed Coolidge economic program in which waterway development occupies first place.

BRET HARTE'S KIN SUICIDE IN PARIS FOR MAIL'S DELAY

Girl's Letter Arrives Too Late.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Nov. 20.—A delayed love letter resulted in the suicide of Richard Bret Harte, grandson of the famous American author, in a little Latin quarter studio some time on Wednesday, it was learned today when friends, alarmed by his absence, broke in the door and found the body in a bedroom filled with gas from open jets.

Mr. Harte was 35 and often contributed to the Paris edition of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, submitting copy only last week.

Quarrel with Girl.

Mr. Harte quarreled on Tuesday night with an English girl with whom he was in love. They had a violent altercation in Café Montparnasse, which friends witnessed. Persons at the next table heard the girl say as she left:

"I either shall send you a special delivery note within a day or you never will hear from me again."

Afterward Mr. Harte proceeded to his studio and when his uneasy friends called they found him assorting a pile of manuscripts, sketches and stories.

When asked to accompany his friends to a café, Mr. Harte replied:

"I can't leave. I am awaiting an important letter."

Friends Find Him.

When Mr. Harte failed to appear Wednesday and Thursday his friends, Roger Davis, an artist, and Cyril Cullen, a sculptor, called at the apartment, where the concierge said Mr. Harte had not been seen for two days. With a policeman the pair pried the door open and discovered a bulky unopened special delivery shoved under the sill and in the room, full of gas, Mr. Harte's body, fully clothed, lying across the bed.

On the table was a sheaf of writing paper, beginning:

"To you, my love, this is my last letter I am writing before I die," and then pages of an undecipherable scrawl.

The thickness of the special delivery letter did not permit it to be sent by pneumatic tube, and its delivery was delayed until the regular mail, which caused Mr. Harte to think she had not written. The police refuse to disclose the contents of the letter. Mr. Harte was twice divorced in America. He was employed by a sculptor, Hunt Dirdrich.

COMPULSORY BALLOT LAW IN AUSTRALIA BROKEN BY 224,000

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 20.—(AP)—It now is established that 224,000 persons did not vote in the general election of last Saturday, when compulsory voting was in force for the first time. The registered electors numbered 3,229,000 and the votes polled 3,005,000. An elector failing to vote without a valid reason is liable to a fine of $10.

FORCED HIS WIFE TO TAKE POISON, RELATIVES SAY

Relatives of Mrs. Rudolph Argel testified at the inquest into her death yesterday that her husband overpowered her and forced poison tablets down her throat following a quarrel in their home at 1353 West Harrison street.

Mrs. Argel died at the Presbyterian hospital on Thursday. Her mother, Mrs. Martha Gonzales, and her brother, Miguel Gonzales, said they were in the house last Saturday when the couple quarreled about the wife's alleged intimacies with other men. Argel, they testified, pushed her into a room and, while their infant daughter looked on, forced the poison on his wife.

Argel then fled from the house and has not been seen since. The witnesses said he threatened them with death if they followed him.

Sinn Fein May Ask U. S. to Boycott Ulster Linen

LIFE NOT WORTH LIVING, BOYS, 17, SHOOT SELVES

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 20.—(AP)—William Strauss and James Albert Rosenberg, both 17 and Cincinnati high school students, drove to a quiet spot in Clermont county late yesterday and shot themselves through their heads after signing a death pact. In it they declared "life is not worth the effort to live."

Strauss died almost instantly. Rosenberg was taken to a Cincinnati hospital, where it was said he had a chance to recover.

A lengthy preamble and agreement to commit suicide, bearing the signatures of both boys, was found in the pocket of Strauss' coat. At the bottom of the paper was written, "Signing off."

Relatives were unable to account for the young men's desire to end their lives, as both were declared to be of a cheerful turn of mind. Rosenberg is the son of a department store proprietor and Strauss' father is president of a mortgage company.

FLYER CRASHES; DEATH IN FINAL HONORS TO ACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—To pay the flyers' last homage to Baron Capt. von Richthofen, Germany's air ace, Baron Knoblesdorff flew over the Church of Mercy cemetery while Capt. von Richthofen's body was being carried to the grave today. A few minutes later the youngest of Germany's pilots was killed when his airplane crashed.

The "Red Knight" was buried in the presence of of President von Hindenburg, ranking officers of the German army and navy, and high civilian officers.

The ceremonies at the Church of Mercy were brief, but with all the pomp with which Germany loves to surround its great. Great silent crowds filled the streets around the church.

DURKIN ESCAPES AFTER GUN FIGHT IN OHIO TOWN

U. S. Officers Overtake His Auto, Bound East.

Again Martin Durkin felt the hum of bullets past his head yesterday, but again he was untouched, apparently, and as usual he escaped.

It was in Masillon, O., that federal agents picked up the trail of the Chicago youth who has recently shot his way out of two police traps, killing Government Agent Edwin C. Shanahan and Police Sergeant Harry Gray in the two encounters. All government officers were on the alert for a sight of Durkin, as he had been reported eastward bound in a stolen automobile, either a Chrysler or a Reo.

Gun Battle on Road.

From Massillon a motorist who answered Durkin's description to the minutest detail was traced to Columbia Heights, O., a foreign settlement near Masillon. There the federal detectives overtook the automobile. They saw the man they are now sure was Durkin and another believed to be Charles Fischetti.

The suspected pair noticed the pursuers, and there was a chase. The government men fired several times and the occupants of the other speeding car returned the fire.

Durkin's skill as an automobile driver is known to be as great as his marksmanship, which is rated as excellent. If the suspect was Durkin, and the belief in Chicago is that he was, he had no difficulty in outdistancing the government agents and was soon lost to sight.

Confirms Report of Leaving.

The incident of itself is regarded as corroborating the information Durkin departed from Chicago last Tuesday night. On Wednesday a police sergeant in Elkhart, Ind., saw a man who looked like Durkin and who acted like him. He backed away from the sergeant, left hand (his shooting hand) in his pocket, apparently clasping a revolver. The sergeant wasn't quick enough, and Durkin's automobile was soon burning up the road.

Aside from the Massillon incident the only development of the day in the case was the arrest of Howard Shaw, alias West. He was taken into custody last night at the home of Durkin's mother, 121st street and Vincennes avenue, Blue Island. He is under indictment for the transportation of stolen automobiles.

Sure It Was Durkin.

"That was Durkin, all right," Lieut. James Flynn at the detective bureau said when he received the dispatch from Massillon.

Capt. John Stege and his squad returned last night from a search of garages in Indiana for trace of the Reo automobile believed to have been used by Durkin, without finding any trace of the car.

Mrs. Hattie Durkin, mother of the man who has shot seven policemen and one government operative for a total of two murders, was told of the encounter in Ohio. She indicated she had been expecting to hear something like that from the east. Mrs. Durkin had asked that a message be carried to Martin through the newspapers that she believes it best for him to surrender.

"If it was him I'm sure glad he got away," was her comment on the report. "If he could communicate with me I feel sure a way could be arranged to prevent the danger he is now in of being killed by the police, and all we would then want for him is a fair trial."

THE DAY'S PENALTIES IN CRIMINAL COURT; THREE TO JOLIET

Four penitentiary sentences were given out by the Criminal court judges yesterday.

Life imprisonment was the punishment decided upon by a jury before Judge Harry B. Miller last night for Rocco Maggio, 32 years old, charged with the murder of Frank Lamacchio Aug. 12, 1924. Lamacchio and Paul De Frank, a friend of Maggio, were infatuated with the same woman, Mary Beta, and Maggio, it was charged, killed Lamacchio during an auto ride.

JUDGE HARRY B. MILLER.

Rocco Maggio, life in penitentiary for murder.

Tony Lococo, Carne Mannuella, and Charley Rangstoro, 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary for robbery.

JUDGE THOMAS J. LYNCH.

James Brown, attempted larceny, 5 months, Bridewell.

Frank Marshall, contributing to delinquency, 18 months, Bridewell.

JUDGE EMANUEL ELLER.

Robert Adkins, larceny, 60 days, Bridewell.

JUDGE WILLIAM V. BROTHERS.

Will Lee, robbery, 1 year, Bridewell.

JUDGE WILLIAM N. GEMMILL.

John Dunn, burglary, 4 months, Bridewell.

Edward Ahern, larceny, 30 days, county jail.

Arthur Robinson, burglary, 30 days, Bridewell.

DEATH OF BABY REVIVES QUARREL OF HER PARENTS

Edward Doyle, 1248 Leland avenue, yesterday demanded that the coroner's office investigate the death of his 3 months old daughter, Gloria. The child died Tuesday at the Children's hospital, presumably of pneumonia, but Doyle expressed the opinion that she had been poisoned.

Doyle and his estranged wife, Margaret, met yesterday in the Central undertaking rooms at 422 South Clark street. He accused her of deserting the child when she was only three days old and of responsibility for the death. Mrs. Doyle had him arrested on a charge that he had struck her.

When Deputy Coroner Irving A. Porges took charge of the infant's body he found the vital organs had been removed. Investigation disclosed that the post-mortem examination had been performed by Dr. William G. Hibbs of the hospital staff. He asserted Doyle gave him permission. His examination disclosed nothing to warrant a suspicion of poisoning, he added.

Husband in "Mr. A." Case Is Down to His Last $3.12

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Charles Robinson, the husband of the woman in the "Mr. A." case, in which Sir Hari Singh, now the maharajah of Kashmir, was blackmailed, appeared in the bankruptcy court today. He has debts of more than £8,000 ($40,000), all due to the costs of the lawsuit for the money taken from the rajah. His assets are 13 shillings ($3.12). He said he has no business except gambling.

LEARN ORIGIN OF VINCI KILLING, BUT NOT KILLER

The murder of Mike Vinci early yesterday was unsolved last night, though the origin of it was traced to a gambling hall at 31st street and Wentworth avenue. Every one denied everything and that was the status last night, with Joseph Genaro, owner of a restaurant at 2242 Wentworth avenue, in custody.

JOSEPH GENARO.

The story of the gambling row, however, was said to be this:

Mike Vinci, a brother of the late Jimmy Vinci, who was killed in a duel with "Machine Gun" Joe Granata and who also confessed to being a participant in the murder of Maurice Enright, was connected with the gambling house. He was supposed to afford protection to the winners so they might get safely away with their winnings.

John Genaro, brother of Joseph, was robbed a few nights ago of $1,500 and a diamond ring worth $3,000 after he left a dice game. He denied yesterday that Vinci had robbed him or had been a party to the robbery.

changing the assessed value from one-half to the full value.

"Assessing Chicago property at its full valuation would give the city something like $50,000,000 of additional debt incurring power. This is none too much for the improvements."

Pictures Chicago of 1950.

Edward H. Bennett, consulting architect of the commission, thinks of Chicago twenty-five years from now as extending from Highland Park to Gary. This would give room for the estimated population of 6,500,000 in 1950. But the city would be different.

"Its industries would be grouped into units of economical form along the freight belt lines," said Mr. Bennett, "its centers for shopping and amusement would be distinctive for their beauty as well as utility and its areas of residential property would be unmarred by any structures devoted to commerce or by a smoky sky.

"Our forest preserves are but a beginning of the areas in the greater city which should be left to grass and trees and flowers.

"The traffic congestion in the loop, if it continues to increase, in a few years will force us to take legal steps against individual liberty, such as forbidding any except public conveyances in the downtown streets.

"No matter how much we may devote ourselves to the study of economic conditions, deep down at the root of the entire matter and in our hearts lies the essential desire for beautiful surroundings, which in their nature are the highest civilizing agency."

Sprague and Sloan Give Warning.

Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, discussed public improvements and said it was ridiculous to talk of cutting municipal taxes in Chicago. John J. Sloan, president of the board of local improvements, told what the city is doing. The board has a $100,000,000 program this year, he said. Two hundred miles of streets and alleys will be paved. Seventy-five miles of sewers are being laid. We have reached the point, he said, where the construction program far outruns the financial ability of the city.

Charles H. Swift talked of the general meat situation at the food conference.

"A striking illustration of the moderate profits of the packing business," he said, "is the fact that on the meat which the average family consumes the packer's average profit is no more than 5 cents per family per week.

"Chicago is not only the leading meat packing center of the United States but the meat packing industry is the principal industry of Chicago. Chicago alone produces more than $40,000,000 worth of meat per month.

"There is no reason to question the future of the packing industry, nor the supremacy of Chicago as its center."

Show's Chicago's Chemical Rank.

Charles H. MacDowell, president of the Armour Fertilizer works, gave a new view of the chemical situation.

"Today Chicago is the center for the commercial application and industrial use of radio-active materials," he said. "It is the center of industrial research on such rare earth oxides as thoria and ceria. Some of the most effective work in the world is being done here now on the commercial production of rarer metals such as tungsten, tantalum, columbian, and cadium.

"Medical investigators are studying intensively today the effect of various secretions from the ductless glands. Adrenalin, thyroxin, pituitin, insulin are derived from the animals slaughtered in Chicago. A vast amount of research is now being supported by the Chicago meat packers, and a new industry is being created, fraught with great possibilities for the alleviation of human suffering, in this new field of endocrine drugs.

"Chicago ranks third in the country as a producing center in the heavy chemical industry, and second as a consuming center.

"About the future we may be sanguine, if we keep abreast of the times in research and investigation. Nothing in the physical world should remain forever mysterious and inexplicable to us."

"Wool Trade Should Center Here."

L. F. Gates, telling the story of the Chicago Board of Trade, said that future trading in wool ought to be established in Chicago, that it was the natural place for the growers and manufacturers to meet in trade. As soon as the grades can be established, he said, there is no reason why Chicago cannot take this central business away from Boston. He also said that Chicago ought to manufacture more flour, as we are not making enough now to feed the people of Chicago.

The development of waterways, he said, would be of tremendous advantage to the producing element. The Board of Trade is in a better position than it has been for fifty years. Government supervision is working harmoniously. The members are working to continue their business in a clean fashion, avoiding times of stress, "when the public enters the market unintelligently," he said.

2 LAKES TO GULF CONTRACTS WILL BE LET SHORTLY

Starved Rock Engineering Plans Approved.

Within approximately two months contracts will be let for two of the big units of Illinois' contribution to the Lakes-Gulf waterway.

These will be what are known technically as "contract No. 2" covering the construction of the Starved Rock lock and dam and "contract No. 6" providing for the channel and retaining walls through Joliet.

The latter contract will include the building of the Brandon road pool, a turning basin 1,200 feet wide which will serve as the best point on the entire waterway for the assembling of fleets of lighters.

That the contracts will be let soon was made known yesterday by W. F. Mulvihill, superintendent of the state division of waterways, when he announced the city officials of Ottawa Thursday night approved of the engineering plans and specifications for the Starved Rock project seven miles below their city.

Similar approval of plans for the Joliet construction was voted recently. It was also announced that action there would depend on results of conferences with the Ottawa authorities so that bids on the two contracts might be advertised for simultaneously.

Reports that two contracts would call for an expenditure of $16,000,000 were denied. They do not involve more than $4,500,000 or $5,000,000, Mr. Mulvihill declared.

SALM, SUZANNE HUSH TOGETHER IN PARIS CAFES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 20.—Despite Suzanne Lenglen's denials that she ever has met Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogestraeten except on the tennis court, the French racquet champion has been seen often in Paris during the last fortnight with Millicent Rogers' count.

Both Count Salm and Suzanne evince the greatest caution, even denying their identity when spoken to by name, and immediately quitting the places after being addressed.

Suzanne is preparing to proceed to the Riviera for the annual winter tennis season, next week, and it is rumored that Count Salm has canceled his proposed visit to New York, and is going to the Riviera also.

Mlle. Lenglen has rejected an offer from a Florida realty development syndicate to be a feature in the tennis championships at Palm Beach this winter.

Ship Reported Sunk with 200 Aboard Found Safe

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The Haitien steamer Ville des Cayes, reported sunk with 200 aboard in the Caribbean sea, was found seventeen miles east of Pilon bay by the American steamer Brazos yesterday and taken to Pilon. The passengers and crew were suffering from lack of water and food, but no casualties have been reported. The engines of the steamer were disabled.

ITALIAN SENATE PASSES LAW TO OUTLAW MASONS

Bows to Fervent Plea of Mussolini.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, Nov. 20.—Following a fervent speech by Premier Mussolini, describing Masonry as "speculation for profit," the senate tonight adopted a measure "against secret societies" by 208 against 6. The other 21 senators abstained from voting.

One of the strongest arguments for the law was made by Gen. Diaz, who asserted that during the war the Masons "invited me to make propaganda for them in the army."

Several senators protested against making the law retroactive, saying this was unfair, as every one must pardon the past as the government itself was an example of change of opinions.

"Always Against Masonry."

Premier Mussolini immediately jumped from his chair and said:

"I demand the floor to respond to this allusion against me. I always have been steadfast in politics, fundamentally speaking. Even when I was a Socialist I was against Masonry, as it is neither the proletariat nor aristocracy, but only employés and those in the liberal professions who profit personally in belonging to the order."

Premier Mussolini said fascism had won three battles, the first against bolshevism, the second against Masonry, and the third against the Democrats and Liberals.

Denies It Will Isolate Italy.

To the charge that the law was merely a government weapon, Premier Mussolini replied:

"It is much better to have an arm and not need to use it than to have a need for it and not possess it. Any régime has the right to demand this law in self-defense."

Premier Mussolini ridiculed the charge that the law isolated Italy, and said it was silly to suppose that America would lend $100,000,000 to Italy if it intends to isolate it; and he referred to the treaties of commerce and amity with many powers, including Germany, as an example of the prestige Italy holds abroad.

"In America 100,00,000 people are subscribing to $100,000,000. A country isolated does not have such credit nor moral prestige."

Gives $5 Toward Debt.

He said the fact that Italians are subscribing dollars towards the payment of the loan to America proves that Italy is not in chains, as his enemies charge. Every minister today subscribed $5 toward the payment of the loan to America. Modestly, he was able to say even he donated.

In the chamber of deputies this afternoon the communists who were forcibly expelled yesterday returned to their seats without incident. Fifteen members of the Popular party, quietly entering the chamber, fought in the corridors with Fascisti deputies who taunted them for coming into the building "to get free coffee."

THE TRIBUNE learns that a majority of the opposition will return when an opportune time arrives in order to protest against the adoption of the Fascisti dictatorship laws.

KIP'S TRIAL IS AGAIN DELAYED; MYSTERY GROWS

Two Letters Cause of It; Reported Defense Aces.

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Sudden adjournment today of the Rhinelander annulment trial until Monday increased the mystery which has gathered about the case.

Rumors regarding settlement of the suit were innumerable. They ranged from reports that Leonard Kip Rhinelander would settle out of court with Alice Beatrice Jones, his part Negro wife, at amounts of from $50,000 to $300,000, to the prediction that the suit would be dropped and the status quo maintained. But there was verification for nothing.

Isaac N. Mills, counsel for young Rhinelander, would say only this: "The case has not been withdrawn and will not be."

Two Letters Cause of It All.

Two mysterious letters written by Rhinelander to his bride hold the key to the unusual proceedings of the last two days. These letters are admittedly of a sensational nature and have to do with the plaintiff's pre-marital relations with Alice. Their contents are known only to the principals in the case and only vague hints have been thrown out as to what they reveal. It is conceded that Rhinelander is not eager to have them made public.

So startling is the nature of the letters that Mr. Mills asked for the adjournment until Monday to take steps that would best protect the interests of his client. He did not know the contents of the letters until yesterday, when counsel for Mrs. Rhinelander showed them to him during a recess. Immediately afterward court was adjourned until today and a second conference between the opposing counsel was held this morning.

Bride's Family Pleased.

Mrs. Rhinelander's family obviously was pleased with the turn the case has taken. Persons close to them, however, said that no settlement had been made.

Although Mr. Davis would not discuss what step he will next take, it is believed that he is holding the letters as his trump cards to force Rhinelander to give up the suit rather than have the missives read.

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Available sites for Camp Grant's new artillery range were inspected today by Col. Loren C. Greives, chief of staff of the 33d division, and Col. Frank R. Schwengel, 122d field artillery. Three possible sites are under consideration, according to Col. Schwengel.

Florida Hotel Is Scene of Divorce Cause.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Katherine Thompson Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Thompson of Wilmington, today was granted a divorce decree nisi from her husband, Osborne C. Wood, son of Governor General Wood of the Philippines. The latter was not in court and did not make a contest.

The divorce was granted on statutory grounds. The chief witnesses in support of these grounds were Negro bell boys from a Tampa hotel. Samuel Ross of Philadelphia, a private detective, also was a witness.

Mrs. Wood testified her husband left her in Paris in April, 1924. Her father, Henry B. Thompson, testified he has supported his daughter and the two children since she returned from Paris.

William Randall and Ernest McDaniel, the Negro bell boys at the Hillsboro hotel, Tampa, Fla., testified that in March of this year Wood was at the hotel with a Miss Essington. They did not know the woman's first name. She was sometimes known as "Mrs. Essington," one of them testified.

Said She Was a Widow.

Samuel Ross of Philadelphia, a private detective, testified he investigated the case and went to Tampa April 4. He said Miss Essington said she was a widow. Her home was in Atlanta. After hearing this testimony the court granted a decree nisi.

A stipulation regarding the future custody of their two children will be presented to the court later by counsel in the case.

PARIS DIVORCE REPORT DENIED BY PEGGY JOYCE

New York, Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Peggy Hopkins Joyce Morner, who has been reported as seeking a Paris divorce from her fourth husband, denied on her arrival on the liner Mauretania this morning that she had gone to Paris to get a decree or that she contemplated so doing. Peggy's present mate is a Swedish count and a former Chicago tooth paste manufacturer.

PEGGY JOYCE.
[Lewis Smith Photo.]

"You may say," she said, "that we are as much in love as a husband and wife usually are after two years of marriage."

She added that Dudley Field Malone was not her lawyer and that if she intended to get a divorce from her husband she would tell the world freely and fully. The often married Peggy is going west in a few days to begin work on a motion picture in which she will be starred. In February she will return to France, she said.

"I do so love to give you boys a story," she said. "If it were so I would tell you all about it and give you every little detail, and you know how interesting those little details are."

She had not been in this country more than five hours when customs agents were hunting for her. They sought to question her about the source of a handsome necklace contained in her collection of jewels, an attaché of the department said, but whether she is in serious difficulty would not be divulged. She, herself, said on her arrival that she had nothing new in the mere five trunks she brought back from abroad.

DRUGGAN FREED ON BOND AFTER LONG JAIL TERM

Orders Thanksgiving Feast for Family.

Terry Druggan, beer baron of parts, last night was enjoying his first up and up freedom in more than thirteen months, having been released by Federal Judge Wilkerson on bonds of $13,000.

The first act of the stormy little bootlegger was to telephone to the caretaker of his Lake Zurich country place instructions to be diligent in fattening up two turkeys and a roasting pig which are to form the pieces de resistance of the most gorgeous Thanksgiving dinner the house of Druggan has ever had.

Unless Terry commits a brand new offense against the peace of the community he is bound to breathe free ozone until Dec. 7, when Judge Wilkerson will rule on his guilt or innocense in the Cook county jail scandal case.

Attorney Voices Confidence.

His attorney, Robert N. Golding, expressed confidence that Mr. Druggan never again will witness the twist of a jailer's key. Others were not so sure and were insistent in the prediction that he again will be locked up, the next time for his part in corrupting almost the entire personnel of the Cook county jail.

Although the formal orders sentencing Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman to thirty days in the Du Page county jail and a fine of $2,500 and former Warden Wesley H. Westbrook to four months in the De Kalb county jail were entered by Judge Wilkerson yesterday, parties in the case were given until Dec. 1 at 2 o'clock in which to file assignments of errors, motions for new trial, application for writs of supersedeas and all the other legal possibilities attendant upon appeals to the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Hoffman's Old Bond Stands.

The formal order of sentence introduced no new factors in the case aside from the verbally expressed findings of the court of several weeks ago. The alleged crime of the sheriff and his former warden were reviewed by the court and the formal order entered. Both men were permitted to remain at liberty on bonds previously furnished.

FEAR TRACKS; PARENTS START SCHOOL STRIKE

Taking their cue from parents in Rogers Park and the Uptown district, mothers of thirty-seven children of the Murphy school, North Central Park avenue and Grace street, have called a strike to protest against a change in school boundaries.

The mothers first withdrew their children from classes two weeks ago when they were shifted into extra rooms in the Murphy school from the Henry school, North St. Louis and Cullom avenues, which was overcrowded. The change, according to the mothers, forced the children, most of whom are in the first and third grades, to cross dangerous car tracks.

Mrs. Fanny Dulkin, 3443 Belle Plaine avenue, leader of the strikers, said yesterday that the parents had taken up the question with Miss Elizabeth Murphy, assistant superintendent, and other school officials, but had received no satisfaction. The children will be kept at home until the question is adjusted, she said.

BROTHERS HELD AS HOLDUP MEN; GIRL WINS DELAY

Charles and John Thurman, brothers, were held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $20,000 each by Judge Francis Borrelli on robbery charges. Martha Burch, 27, 1208 North State street, a stenographer, charged with being an accessory, was granted a continuance to next Monday.

The men were charged with having held up the treasurer of the Franklin Engraving company, 720 South Dearborn street, in an attempt to steal the company's pay roll of $4,000. They were captured by police following a short chase.

Charles Thurman was also sentenced to a year in the House of Correction for carrying a concealed weapon.

CLEAR FOLEY OF COERCION PLOT IN NAVY INQUIRY

Mitchell Trial "Expert" Admits He Isn't.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—After exonerating Capt. Paul Foley, former judge advocate, of charges that he had attempted to influence the testimony of Mrs. Zachary Lansdowne, the Shenandoah court of inquiry launched a counter attack today on the credibility of witnesses who have criticized the navy's airship policy before the Mitchell court martial board.

Maj. Henry Leonard, judge advocate, announced that every witness who testified before the court martial board about the navy's handling of the Shenandoah would be summoned before the naval court for cross examination. It was intimated Col. Mitchell would be recalled if he makes further charges relative to the Shenandoah when he takes the witness stand next week.

Admits He's No Expert.

Capt. Charles P. Clark, an army air service officer, who on Wednesday testified in the Mitchell trial as an expert airship pilot that the Shenandoah was overweight and that it was dangerous to fly the craft without parachutes, was the first witness called.

Under grueling cross-examination that persisted throughout the entire day, Capt. Clark admitted that he was not an airship pilot, and that he was not an expert on airship design. He said he based his statement that the Shenandoah was overweight on an article he had read in an aviation periodical, on the word of naval officers, whose names he could not now recall, and upon Shenandoah design statistics.

Capt. Clark persisted, however, in declaring that parachutes should have been carried on the Shenandoah and hazarded his opinion that if this had been done the loss of life would not have been so great. Under cross examination he said that he never had descended in a parachute and that he had no first hand information concerning the circumstances of the airship's destruction.

Qualified at Ground School.

Beginning his testimony with the statement that he expected to receive an airship pilot's certificate shortly, Capt. Clark stubbornly held to this assertion until it was brought out by cross-examination that he had qualified for a ground school certificate at Lakehurst and not for a pilot's license.

"Do you mean to state," demanded Maj. Leonard, "that you went before the Mitchell board and said you had qualified as a pilot?"

"Yes," answered Clark. "I thought I was to get a pilot's certificate."

Admiral Jones, in his decision, held that Capt. Foley had not been guilty of improper or unethical conduct as a judge advocate in offering a statement to Mrs. Lansdowne for her guidance while testifying. He added that Capt. Foley's preliminary examination of Mrs. Lansdowne was an obligation imposed by lawful regulation.

Mrs. Lansdowne, through her attorney, has petitioned Secretary of the Navy Wilbur to discharge the inquiry court, but it was stated today that the court would go on.

Asserts Florida Is Getting Our Unscrupulous Agents

"The Florida land boom has drained the interior of America of its unscrupulous class of salesman," declared J. A. Johnson, former president of the International Acetylene association, at the organization annual convention yesterday at the Congress hotel. "The better class of salesmen which has taken the place of those migrating to Florida is earning a new confidence from the rural districts in our country."

Sues Film Director

[Pacific and Atlantic Photo.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Peggy Udell, film actress and former "Follies" girl, today filed a $501,000 damage suit here against B. P. Fineman and the F. B. O. studios, of which Fineman is general manager, charging two attempts at criminal assault and one of false imprisonment.

The actress asked $100,000 actual damages and $100,000 exemplary damages on the attack charges, $150,000 actual damages for alleged false imprisonment, $100,000 exemplary damages on this charge, $50,000 for "loss of earning capacity," $1,000 for counsel fees and $500 for medical services.

Fineman is alleged to have attempted to become familiar with the actress during business interviews in his office, where he also is accused of detaining her with the aid of a detective on the occasion of the second visit.

WOMAN, 82, HAS MORMON SEIZED FOR KIDNAPING

New York, Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Charged with kidnaping the 82 year old widow of Luman H. Stewart, who for years was chief accountant of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad company, Joseph Gustaveson, 47, a Mormon, who came here from Salt Lake, and who was said to be interested in a patented rejuvenation food without gland implantation, was indicted today by the grand jury.

The kidnaping charge is based on Mrs. Stewart's story that on Oct. 18 two women took the widow from Bellevue hospital to Norwalk, Conn.

One of the women represented herself to be Mrs. Gustaveson.

Gustaveson said all the charges against him grew out of the fact that the widow had lent him "a lot of money to invest."

"Women Pacifists Menace Peace," Bavaria Decides

MUNICH, Germany, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The Bavarian government today forbade a meeting here of the International Women's League for Peace and Freedom, of which Miss Jane Addams is the international president. The government issued this order: "In the interests of maintaining peace and order this meeting must be forbidden, since all gatherings of the women's league league result in disturbances."

MITCHELL TRIAL DELAYS ENRAGE MILITARY JUDGES

Demand Lawyers Agree on What They'll Do.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Exasperated by delays that have carried the Mitchell court martial well into the fourth week, the judges this evening gave counsel for both sides ten minutes to make up their minds as to when and on what they could make up their minds.

The lawyers were ordered from the courtroom.

"Use that room," thundered the president of the court, Maj. Gen. Robert Lee Howze, indicating an anteroom, "and close the door!"

Another of the judges, Maj. Gen. William S. Graves, commanding the Sixth corps area (Chicago), was so angry that his hands shook.

Demands a Brief Recess.

"I move that we recess until tomorrow morning," he said, "so as to get this question settled."

Leaning toward Brig. Gen. Edward L. King, Gen. Graves said, "Second my motion."

This Gen. King did with enthusiasm.

After fifteen minutes the lawyers strolled back, saying there was one matter on which they could make up their minds, if given until Monday to do it. This matter was a pending stipulation between them that certain printed and written records of officers now in Hawaii, who know about the condition of military aviation in the islands, particularly as demonstrated in last summer's maneuvers, should be admitted into the records of this trial.

Means Another Delay.

That is what the defense wants done. The prosecution is hanging back on the proposal, and if it refuses to agree to it the officers will have to be brought at government expense from Honolulu to Washington to give oral testimony. That would mean a further delay of two weeks.

Speaking for the defense, Col. Herbert White, military counsel for Col. Mitchell, said:

"We do not feel that the granting of a little more time to make this stipulation will interrupt the orderly procedure of this trial."

"It seems to be doing it right now," Gen. Howze replied.

Result: Recess until Monday to give the lawyers their last chance to make up their minds.

General Strike of Textile Workers Called in Mexico

Mexico City, Nov. 20.—[U. N.]—A general strike of textile workers began today over an area comprising half of Mexico. By Monday it is expected to have spread throughout the country. The textile industry is paralyzed, but quiet prevails in the strike area. Strikers plan to gather on Monday for a demonstration.

GERMANY CLEARS LAST OBSTACLE TO PEACE PACTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—The last obstacle to the final ratification of the Locarno treaties, for the pacification of Europe fell today when the Socialists, German's strongest party, solemnly pledged their word to vote for them at next week's session of the reichstag.

Approving the Locarno treaties in principle, the Socialists carried out a tactical opposition, going so far as to demand the dissolution of the reichstag in order to discredit their enemies, the Nationalists. They gave up their opposition after Chancellor Luther announced today that he would resign with his entire cabinet immediately after the signature of the Locarno treaties to give the parties in opposition to the pact an opportunity to choose a government they trusted entirely.

Chancellor Luther refused to discuss officially the possibilities of the formation of a new cabinet until the Locarno treaties have been signed in London. Official Berlin looks forward to a possible delay in the signature through the death of Queen Alexandra.

ATTORNEY BYRNE ASKS DIVORCE ON CRUELTY CHARGE

Assistant District Attorney John E. Byrne filed suit for divorce in the Superior court yesterday, charging his wife with cruelty.

The attorney, noted for his prosecution of some of the most important cases in the federal building, declared his marriage was peaceful for seven years following the wedding in 1915. Then his wife began to abuse him, he charged. They separated Nov. 6, according to the bill.

Mr. Byrne is represented by Attorney Frank B. Teed.

POLICE CAPTURED BY SCHOOL KIDS; ICE CREAM LOOT

"Now, boys," said Capt. Patrick J. Harding, "be yourselves."

It was an invitation, not an admonition, and was delivered to a goodly portion of Young America which descended yesterday afternoon on the Shakespeare police station, taking it by storm without a struggle.

In fact, the bluecoats stood around and grinned as though they liked it.

Four hundred boys who have been coöperating with the police, particularly in taking care of small children at traffic crossings, accepted the invitation of Capt. Harding for an all around good time. Wrestling and boxing matches, inspection of the station and the pistol range, short talks, musical numbers, and as much ice cream and cake as 400 boys could take care of, furnished the entertainment.

WOMAN KILLED; CAR FORCED OFF DUNES HIGHWAY

MRS. GRACE MENAGH.

Mrs. Grace Menagh, 54 years old, of 5530 South Halsted street, an invalid, was killed yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding was crowded off the Dunes highway east of Michigan City and overturned in a ditch.

Mrs. Menagh, with her husband, George, and her son, Stewart, 25 years old had left Chicago for a tour of Michigan. The son was driving when the accident occurred. The two men suffered internal injuries, but are expected to recover.

There were no fatal automobile accidents in Cook county yesterday. The total of deaths for the year remained 703.

Mrs. Anna Horgraves, 51 years old, 220 South Peoria street, was bruised and her right ankle broken when she was knocked down by a truck at Peoria and Adams street. Henry MacTavish, 3011 North Hamlin avenue, driver of the truck, was not held.

Cut Weeds, Bundesen Says, to Do Away with Hay Fever

Relief for hay fever sufferers was asked the city council yesterday by Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundesen.

Appearing before the health committee, he asked passage of an ordinance requiring property owners or agents to cut weeds on their property before they bear flowers.

Pollen, from uncut weeds, blown about the street, causes thousands of persons to leave Chicago each summer for relief, the commissioner said.

MISSING CHURCH ORGANIST SEEN BY N. Y. TEACHER

Vanishes Again in Search "for long Rest."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Somewhat bewildered and nervous but evidently on the road to recovery, John Wesley Norton of Evanston, Ill., organist for St. James Episcopal church in Chicago, who left home last week while suffering from aphasia, came to New York to see his old music teacher, Clarence Dickinson.

He refused, however, to remain long with Mr. Dickinson and after a few hours left for a destination which he declined to disclose. He promised Mr. Dickinson he would communicate with his wife in Evanston at once.

"I have been on the lookout for Norton since he left Evanston," Mr. Dickinson, who is organist at the Brick Presbyterian church on Fifth avenue, said today. "Yesterday morning I saw him walking on Fifth avenue near the Brick church.

Seemed Bewildered.

"He recognized me at once although he seemed slightly bewildered and told me he had no idea why he suddenly left home or why he went first to Cincinnati, a city he had never before visited.

"From Cincinnati, he said, he went to Richmond, Va., where he sought entrance into a monastery and did in fact remain there a little while. The only explanation he gave for trying to enter a Catholic institution was that he thought it would be quiet.

"Our conversation seemed to bolster up his spirits and he told me he felt all right, but not yet like returning to his work in Chicago."

Wanted Long Rest.

Norton refused proffers of aid and told Dickinson he was going to find a quiet village somewhere near New York and take a long rest. He had plenty of money, Mr. Dickinson said, for any immediate needs.

"His mind seemed to be clearing up," Mr. Dickinson said, "and I didn't feel like forcing a guardianship over him, so I let him go when he promised to write at once to his folks."

DESPONDENT, HE ENDS LIFE.

Despondent because of illness, George itzler, 60, 3257 North Oakley avenue, committed suicide yesterday by inhaling gas at his home.

Divorce Is Off

COUNTESS OF CRAVEN.

New York, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Reconciliation of the Earl and Countess of Craven, who sued him for a divorce in London last July, became known today when the couple arrived together on the steamship Belgenland.

"The trouble has all been washed out," said the earl when asked about the former estrangement. "Yes—it was serious for a time, but it's not any more."

The countess was formerly Miss Wilhelmina George, daughter of the town clerk of Invergordon, in Scotland. The earl's mother formerly was Cornelia Bradley Martin of New York.

WILMETTE BULL TERRIER TURNS INTO POLICE DOG

Wilmette police have discovered that if they should happen to need help in solving mysteries they can call on Prince, snow white English bull terrier owned by Sidney M. Sutherland of 204 Golf terrace, that village.

Prince, seven months old, has a prankish habit of retrieving golf balls on the community course and bearing them proudly to his master. It keeps Mr. Sutherland busy apologizing to players.

Yesterday Prince came home with a gold watch. Later Prince led his owner to a bundle of clothes parked beneath a transmission tower on the golf course. The bundle contained collars, shoes, shirts, handkerchiefs, a suit of clothes, gold watches, wrist watches, earrings, etc. The collars bore the laundry mark "E. S. Clark."

The telephone book disclosed that E. S. Clark lives on Washington street, Wilmette. A call to the police station developed that a colored man was in jail for robbing the Clark home. A policeman came for the bundle.

Prince supped nobly.

SMALL-LUNDIN SEEK CONTROL OF LEGISLATURE

BY PARKE BROWN.

So intent is Gov. Len Small—or, more accurately, Fred Lundin, his mentor—on completely subjugating the next general assembly that it now is proposed to run Patrick H. Moynihan for the state senate from the Thirteenth district.

The move is particularly significant since Moynihan is a member of the commerce commission, a post of considerable importance of which he is said to be extremely fond. That he should be wrested from this soft spot and subjected to a severe campaign is considered proof of the Lundin-Small determination to capture the senate.

The news comes on top of an announcement three days ago that James Rea, former alderman and Thompsonite, had been put forth as a candidate for the senate in the Eleventh district, where, it is held, Senator Frank J. ["Old Frank"] Ryan, a Democrat in Republican territory, is doomed to defeat, although he was a Smallite in the last session.

Here's Political Gossip.

One of the persistent rumors for several months has been that when Col. Frank L. Smith, because of his candidacy for the United States senate, surrenders the chairmanship of the commerce commission, Lundin would put Moynihan in at the head of that body.

That rumor in connection with the latest plans for Moynihan's future developed one of the most interesting bits of political gossip that has arisen in a long time. There may be real foundation for it or it may be merely somebody's conjecture.

That story is that when Col. Smith gives up the chairmanship of the utilities commission the post will be offered to George F. Harding, city controller under former Mayor Thompson and a loyal chum of "Big Bill's" who never has been friendly toward Lundin.

The theory is that if Harding could be persuaded to accept the utilities chairmanship he perforce would be compelled to throw his south side strength to aid any and all Lundin-Small plans, including those concerning the legislature.

Humor Harding May Decline.

Discussion of this report brought forth an immediate argument that Harding would not accept the appointment.

If Harding were to accept the chairmanship appointment from Small his action would be taken as to some extent corroborating persistent reports that William Hale Thompson already has determined that he will not be a mayoralty candidate in 1927. Unless the situation changes materially, and that is not expected, Lundin would oppose Thompson bitterly. With such a fight in sight Harding would not tie his hands. He would support his chum.

WOMAN WOUNDED BY ADMIRER DIES OF HER INJURIES

Mrs. Betty Miles, 31, known also as Olive Lakin, who was shot while in her apartment at 4502 Drexel boulevard on Oct. 22 by Edward Kasander, a railway clerk, of 6220 Archer avenue, died yesterday in the County hospital.

The bullet, which pierced Mrs. Miles' abdomen, lodged near her spine and paralyzed her. Kasander, who surrendered to the police several days after the shooting, said he had fired at the woman in an effort to scare her into telling him the name of the man she said she intended to marry at Christmas time. She was estranged from her husband, Jack Miles, of 27 East 16th street.

No Thanksgiving Pardons to Be Issued by President

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—No Presidential Thanksgiving pardons for prisoners in federal penitentiaries will be issued, and the list of Christmas beneficiaries of executive clemency will probably be an unusually small one, it was indicated at the White House today.

It is important that your Tuxedo be authentically styled and faultlessly custom tailored from luxurious fabrics. For less than $75 it is not possible to produce a Tuxedo worthy of the CAPPER label.

THE LINDENS STANDS ON PART OF the original land grant of Governor Endicott. It was built as a suitable summer home for the wealthy old Marblehead sea merchant, "King" Hooper, who, a Tory at heart, turned it over to comfort loving General Gage, sent to the colonies as His Majesty's representative. Later it was owned by Judge Collins and later by Salem's noted citizen, Francis Peabody, and at his death passed into the hands of his son, who has treasured this historic and interesting old home and revered it as his father before him.

WE'LL LET IT GO AT THAT.

President Coolidge in his New York speech, which had a variety of subjects, said that the practical effect of American adherence to the world court might be small but its sentimental consequences large and important. It is the President's idea that indifference or distrust indicated in one of the great nations might prevent a new and hopeful human institution from establishing itself as it might with moral support.

When the United States was being carried into the war there were Americans who thought that moral support of the allies would be sufficient, plus probably the American navy, some money and possibly some regular army troops. It was easier to contemplate such a war and more comfortable. THE TRIBUNE at the time said that it meant all the men and all the money needed to win.

We doubt the wisdom of viewing international commitments sentimentally. It is safer to know the amount of the note and the time payable. What is the ultimate possibility of the pledge? That should be understood before the signature goes on the line. We do not understand how the United States as a member of this international court could refuse, whatever are the reservations, to submit any issue on which any nation wanted to bring it to law. The more serious the case the greater the occasion for the tribunal. If the forces behind the court have sufficient push to get the United States in they will have sufficient power to have any case submitted.

We doubt that any one can limit the practical consequences of such a step. We like our present independence and freedom from obligations. We think that this independence has been one of the good things in the world since the end of the war. It has permitted unprejudiced opinions and fair action.

President Coolidge reviewed what the United States had done for the restoration of Europe, the restoration of competency in Austria, Germany, Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, etc. "Every one knows," he said, "that it was our resources that saved Europe from a complete collapse immediately following the armistice. Without the benefit of our credit an appalling famine would have prevailed over great areas.

"America has disbanded her huge armies and reduced her powerful fleet, but in attempting to deal justly through the sharing of our financial resources we have done more for peace than we could have done with all our military power."

We are content to have the argument for American freedom from European prearrangements and complexities rest upon that. We believe the very position of the United States outside of the commitments and entanglements enabled the country to carry its good intentions into acts.

THE CELLAR CHAMPIONSHIP.

Yale will beat Harvard today or Harvard will beat Yale or neither will be competent to do even that. Princeton ran away with both of them and Princeton was beaten by Colgate and tied by the Navy, which in turn was beaten by Michigan so badly that Michigan is almost as sorry to have done it as it is to have had Northwestern do what it did here on Soldiers' field. Some victories can be as pathetic as some defeats.

The Three which were big and are now little have an agreement which prevents them from going away for intersectional games. Wellesley, we note, is in the east and so is Vassar. There is plenty of competition of their kind in the east.

Yale is playing Harvard for the cellar championship. May the worst team lose!

FINANCING OUR LANDING FIELD.

Of all the proposals and recommendations which have come out of the Association of Commerce's survey of Chicago, one strikes us as of particular value and urgency. That is the recommendation for an airplane landing field east of the Field museum. As long ago as last May President Kelly, speaking for the south park board, pledged half the $4,000,000 needed to fill in the lake to make the field. No one has come forward to match the south park board's offer and we do not expect any one will.

The advantages of the suggested site for a landing field are overwhelming. Other great cities have had to place their landing fields in the outskirts for two reasons: the cost of a square mile of land close in was prohibitive, and, even more important, the danger of flight over congested districts is great. Chicago is unique among great cities in that the cost of making land is negligible compared to the cost of condemning the same acreage near the heart of the city. A field located along the lake could be used by planes coming from the north, south or east without danger to the inhabitants of the city. The proposed site would permit the landing of passengers and mail within a few minutes' ride by automobile of the heart of the city.

Mr. Kelly, in announcing his offer, expressed the hope that the city or the federal government would pay their share of the cost. We do not anticipate any help from either direction. The city hasn't the money and hasn't the bonding power to borrow it. The federal government appropriates for almost every purpose, everywhere, but does not appropriate for Chicago. Chicago cannot get an urgently needed postoffice. It is day dreaming to expect congress to help us build a landing field for the use of mail planes, although Chicago is the center of the airplane mail services of the country. If the south park board's offer is to be matched by any one, it will have to be by private subscription, and we have not heard of any activity toward collecting the money.

Chicago needs the field and we think the south park board should shoulder the entire cost. The board is the richest park board in the city because, unlike the others, it draws income from taxes on loop real estate. It therefore has a duty to serve the city as a whole, which the others do not have. It has recognized that duty in building Soldiers' field and providing a site for the museum and aquarium. We hope for speedy action on the landing field.

A JOB FOR THE HANGMAN.

Henry J. Fernekes and his two accomplices in murder have been convicted and sentenced to death. They held up Michael Swiontkowski, cashier of a building and loan association, while he was going to the bank to deposit $12,000. Swiontkowski tried to defend himself and was killed. The three men fled with the money.

The thanks of Chicago go to the twelve jurors who refused to be swayed by sentimental considerations and to Judge Gemmill, who heard the case. A few more convictions like this and Chicago will cease to be the murder capital of the civilized world.

Assistant State's Attorney William H. McSwiggin prosecuted the case ably. Anything short of a death sentence, he told the jurors, was equivalent to "sending word to the robbers and murderers to go ahead and ply their trade." This is an argument which Chicagoans have learned through experience to accept.

WOODEN RIFLES FOR AMERICAN BOYS.

Says a member of Chicago's board of education: "I am not attacking the R. O. T. C. as a whole. Drilling is all right. My criticism applies only to the use of loaded rifles. I say let them use wooden rifles or none at all."

This member is one of the two trustees who became stirred up when it was suddenly learned that rifle practice had been going on in the high schools for years—for as much as thirteen years in one school. There were rifle teams before the R. O. T. C. came in in 1919. Then—and now, too, for that matter—rifle shooting was but one phase of the general athletic program.

The rifle is a legitimate firearm. It is not used like the one hand gun, in crime. Its province is that of sport, in target practice and lawful hunting, and of self-defense, of the home or of the nation.

We would not wish to contemplate the day when an American boy would not want to get out in the woods hunting or would fail when the call came for his services as a soldier.

There is a sentiment abroad that would feminize the American boy, and this wooden rifle suggestion is part of it. To ask a high school senior to carry a wooden rifle is to ask him to go back to short trousers and join with the girls in wand exercises.

AN INVISIBLE OCCUPATION.

The council of allied ambassadors has fixed upon Jan. 15 as the date for the evacuation of Cologne. The allied governments have promised, as well, to reduce their forces throughout the occupied zone to the strength of the German garrisons before the war and to mitigate the severity of military rule over German civilian populations.

If the allied leaders are genuinely anxious to stabilize Europe, they cannot go too far in withdrawing their armies from German soil. Nothing is calculated to foster a spirit of revenge more successfully than the presence of alien troops. European tradition is against withdrawal of armed forces until all indemnities have been paid, but something will be gained by reducing the number of men in the army of occupation to the number formerly maintained by Germany. That will do away with the necessity for billeting soldiers for whom there are no accommodations in barracks. At present private homes and public buildings are being used for quartering troops, a source of constant irritation.

After the civil war, in 1867, the north tried to govern the southern states through a military occupation. The military régime did not last long, but it probably went farther toward perpetuating the war hatreds in the south than the war itself.

The Locarno treaties provided that the occupation of German territory was to be "invisible." In the interest of France, quite as much as of Germany, the invisibility cannot go too far.

Editorial of the Day

THE BAR TAKES A HAND.

[Witchita (Kas.) Beacon.]

Almost coincident with Richard Washburn Child's diagnosis of "The Great American Scandal," to the effect that it is the courts that the criminals fear more than the arresting officers, comes the announcement that the Chicago Bar association, coöperating with the Illinois Bar association, is to take steps to ascertain what can be done from the standpoint of the courts to put down the scandal of outlawry which afflicts Chicago perhaps as flagrantly as any community in the country.

When the bar comes to the sober realization that it bears a large share of the responsibility for the checking of crime and sets about to clean up its own house, a distinct step will have been made in the direction of a law abiding nation.

Law is not a technical activity, as too many suppose. It is a living, pulsing organism of human justice which must respond quickly to every need of society. To make of it a dead, dry, mechanical process, governed by set technical rules and procedures and precedents, is to take its pulse away and leave the husk.

Various associations have their codes of ethics, but too often, alas, codes of professional ethics are more concerned with the obligations of professional men toward each other than their obligations to the public.

The law exists for the public—not for the jurists. That fact ought to be emblazoned in every meeting place of bar associations.

The public is rightfully complaining at the law's delays and the defeat of justice, which permits guilty men to walk the streets free.

It is an excellent augury that the Chicago Bar association and the Illinois Bar association are taking action to suppress crime. They have it in their power to accomplish wonders.

How to Keep Well. By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations, and where a stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make a diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

COLD PACKS.

When a child has a spasm, the prevailing practice is to put him in a tub of hot water with cold cloths on his forehead. Some physicians say the treatment does neither harm nor good, beyond satisfying the friends. I am very much disposed to think the practice does good. But I am not at all certain a cold pack would not do more good. But, at that, very much the larger field for the cold pack is in the treatment of nervous excitement in adults due to almost any cause. It is very serviceable in sleeplessness, particularly when a person cannot sleep because he has taken a few drinks of whisky, or has been at a party, or is excited from any cause.

Dr. Rebekah Wright uses the bulletin of the Massachusetts department of mental diseases to give the method of using the cold pack. The equipment required is two or three cotton sheets, two or three woolen blankets, a few buckets of water of different temperatures, a few hot water bottles, a foot bathtub, and a thermometer or two. The room should be at a temperature of 70 degrees or above and free from drafts.

The subject strips and lies on a cot. The sheets are saturated with water and wrung out. The temperature of the water ranges from 48 to 70 for the cold pack, 92 to 97 for the neutral pack, and 102 to 106 for the warm pack. The temperature of the water should be taken with a thermometer rather than gauged by the feel. The very cold pack is used on vigorous, strong people with good powers of reaction. The warm pack is frequently used for 5 minutes preceding the use of the cold pack.

The body is wrapped from the neck down with the cold, wet sheets. If a person knows how to take the pulse in the temple, it is well to cover both arms and hands. If not, a wrist should be left accessible. The blankets, folded in long rolls, are used to hold the wet sheets closely against the body. A cold bottle or a cold cap should be applied to the head or the back of the neck, and cold compresses can be placed on the cheeks. In some cases the feet are placed in water in a foot tub.

The subject having been covered, the room is aired and ventilation is maintained until the time for removal from the pack has come. The rule is to continue the pack for one hour or while sedative effect continued. As a rule, one hour suffices, but occasionally the subject falls asleep and the pack may be kept on during four or five hours of quiet sleep with advantage. In most all cases it is advisable, after a few minutes, to remove the cold applications from the head and to use a small pillow. While the wet pack is on the pulse should be watched—either at the temple or at the wrist.

The reaction should also be judged by the lips and the skin of the face. A person who remains cold, blue, and shivery longer than a few minutes should be promptly removed from the pack, given a warm drink, and wrapped in dry blankets.

A person who is being helped becomes quiet and calm, feels in a glow, and perspires fairly freely.

BREATHING WHILE SWIMMING.

R. B. writes: The suggestion from your column not to breathe when the head is more or less submerged is ridiculous and plainly shows the learned doctors of the association have no practical knowledge of swimming.

Proper breathing, regular and unrestricted, is as necessary while swimming as it is ashore. Until proper breathing in the water is learned (indeed, it should be mastered first), one can never become a capable swimmer, but becomes exhausted after a few strokes and can never safely go into the water deeper than the shoulders.

In all modern, efficient strokes the face and part of the head are submerged the greater part of the time, and unless exhalation through the nostrils, with the mouth closed, takes place continuously during the time the nose is submerged, water will enter it and eventually get into the larynx. The effect of raw water on the membranes of the nose, or the entrance of water into the larynx, is too familiar to you to need discussion.

Owing to the brief time the face is exposed, the breath is quickly taken through the mouth (wide open to prevent sucking in water), and the moment the face turns down exhalation commences and continues, timed to be complete when the mouth comes up again.

If any doctor doubts this, all he needs to do is to try it himself, or, if he can't swim, consult some expert swimming coach.

PAVING FOR NEXT SUMMER.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—[Friend of the People.]—When will the system of streets be paved, including Bryn Mawr, from Crawford west to Kedvale, and the 5600 blocks of Keystone, Karlov, and Kedvale avenues? These streets have been practically impassable for months. P. O.

The case is now pending in court for paving the system of streets, Bryn Mawr avenue, between Crawford and Kedvale avenues, etc., docket No. 1678, Superior court, and we expect to have the assessment confirmed in time to make the improvement next summer. The confirmation of the assessment was delayed by some of the property owners, who filed objections.

EDWARD J. GLACKIN,
Secretary Board of Local Improvements.

LOSES EARNEST MONEY.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A bought a lot, signing a contract for it and paying $10 as earnest money, and signed a judgment note to pay twenty per cent more within twenty-four hours. A found that he could not meet the note, so he returned it. Is A entitled to the return of the $10? M. A. W.

In general, a person who makes a preliminary payment or deposit on a contract and then refuses to proceed is not in a position to recover his deposit, as long as he is refusing to perform his contract and the other party is ready and willing to perform.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

OCCUPYING THE ROOF.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—If I want to put an aerial on the roof without injuring the landlord's property can the landlord stop me? The lease I have is for my store and five room flat and it rented to the number. Nobody else is in the building, and it seems to me I have a right to put this up. B. V.

It is the general rule that the tenant is entitled to make reasonable use of parts of the premises not expressly leased but ordinarily regarded as incidental thereto, such, for example, as the back yard and laundry. In the past the use of the roof has not been incidental to the ordinary flat but the use of radio apparatus is becoming so universal that it seems probable that at some time the courts will hold that a tenant has an implied right to install such apparatus, including the usual aerial. Since we have seen no Supreme court cases upon the point, we cannot say that the Illinois law is as yet settled in your favor. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

60 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 21, 1865.

NEW YORK.—The steamship City of London from Liverpool, with dates of the 8th and Queenstown of the 9th, arrived at quarantine. The pirate ship Shenandoah arrived in the Mersey on the 6th and is now in the hands of the naval authorities. Capt. Waddell states that the first news he had of the ending of the war was received on the 30th of August from the British war vessel Barraconta.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—The Monroe county grand jury has found a bill of indictment against Elder G. W. Patrick of the Baptist church in Paris for preaching without taking the oath.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Freedmen's bureau has received intelligence that a certain judge in Anne Arundel county, Maryland, recently sentenced a colored woman to be sold into slavery for two years. A copy of the emancipation proclamation will be delivered to that benighted judge by a lieutenant accompanied by a guard.

NEW YORK.—Gen. Grant will have a military escort from the Fifth avenue hotel down Broadway on Tuesday. He will ride in an open barouche and may be accompanied by other distinguished officers. The Seventh regiment will act as guard of honor.

NEW YORK.—A match of rare occurrence on the trotting turf came off on the Fashion course, Long Island. It was a twenty mile trot for $2,000 in harness between two private road horses, Mr. Phyffe's black gelding, Capt. Kennie, and Mr. A. Mulligan's bay gelding, Butler Jr. Capt. Kennie was the favorite, $100 to $30. It proved a most exciting affair, the favorite leading up to the 18th mile by nearly 400 yards when he began to quit all at once and he was passed by the bay gelding, who eventually won the race in one hour and thirteen minutes.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 21, 1900.

WASHINGTON. — During the last decade the increase in the population of Illinois was greater than in any similar period in the history of the state. Its population is now 4,821,551, as against 3,826,351 in 1890, an increase of 995,199, or 26 per cent.

CHICAGO.—The grand jury will begin an investigation of charges that a conspiracy of money lenders and city officials defeated the civil service law by fraud in the police lieutenants' examination.

LONDON.—Reports received in London are to the effect that the czar's illness has taken a turn for the worse. St. Petersburg medical experts say the condition of the ruler is favorable.

CHICAGO.—Appointment of T. N. Jamieson's son as a master in chancery has given rise to the report that Judge Gibbons will be the Lorimer-Jamieson candidate for mayor.

DES MOINES, Ia.—A violent storm of wind and snow, practically a blizzard, came down from the northwest and the ground is covered with snow to the depth of several inches. Street cars were stopped by sleet and it is probable railway traffic will be tied up.

MANILA.—Gen. Macabolos, the former Filipino chief, is prepared to start in pursuit of Aguinaldo with 100 picked natives, supported by American troops. Other ex-rebel Filipinos will be used in campaigning in the country.

CHICAGO.—President William Boldenweck of the sanitary district issued a statement denying he is a machine candidate for mayor.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 21, 1915.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Elihu Root of New York will accept the Republican nomination for President if it is offered him by the next Republican national convention. THE TRIBUNE is informed on the highest authority that the friends and advocates of Mr. Root's nomination now know his position and have been assured Mr. Root will heed the call if his party asks him to lead.

MADISON, Wis.—Nothing short of a miracle averted a catastrophe at Camp Randall when two sections of the north circus bleachers collapsed under the weight of 3,000 spectators at the Minnesota-Wisconsin football game. According to reports from hospitals, ten persons were injured, none fatally.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Perfection of a device for automatically receiving and relaying wireless messages at a speed 500 per cent greater than under present conditions was announced here. Dr. Ray E. Hall, a scientist of Portland, Ore., is the inventor.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Four nations have taken up the hunt for Mrs. Walter Farwell of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, whose letters and dispatches from the war zone have appeared under the name of Mildred Farwell. Nothing has been heard from Mrs. Farwell for several days and considerable anxiety concerning her safety is entertained.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Denial was made at the White House that Mrs. Norman Galt, President Wilson's fiancée, has ordered any gowns from Paris. It was said that all her trousseau will be made in the United States.

LOVE CAME ON TIPTOE.

Love came on tiptoe, like the night,
  Down rose-leaf valleys, in the fair
Of one long summer afternoon,
  Simple and slow as candle flare.

A quivering dryad at a ball
  Of things that quiver in themselves,
As youthful Eros or Elaine,
  As stars flung over mountain shelves.

She dances now, a splendid flame,
  In moon-broke valleys of the night,
A dance too bright for thought of close,
  Her scarves long tongues of flaming light.

When tired of dancing, she will go,
  If needs be she must go at all,
As cold and empty, shrill and proud,
  As ladies coming from a ball.

For I would be heartbroken
  Should she return the way she came,
That quivering summer afternoon,
  Simple and slow as candle flame!

DEAR LITTLE MISS PRISSY.

R. H. L.: Aaron Burr's mistake of having been born forty years too soon, or—as his biographers point out—of having lived thirty-one years too long, may be forgiven him in the face of the fact that he was the parent of one who might well be called America's Beatrice. Somewhere in his "Fortitude," Hugh Walpole has something to say about the fact that "it isn't life that matters: it's the courage you bring to it." Such, I think, is the spur that Aaron Burr felt after Jefferson said, "thumbs down"—and the burning star ever beyond his far horizon was but the reflection of the profound influence of Theodosia. She is a wistful influence—a flaming brightness across the years: something that sought vainly through time for haven. Yet payment in full for them would have been made could she have stood at the side of her father during those dismal moments of exile when, in answer to the insolent Englishman's query as to whether Hamilton was a gentleman, Burr drew himself up and said, "Sir, I met him."

THAT FELLA DOWN IN STREATOR.

Merely a Colloquialism.

R. H. L.: It is regrettable that Helen Henna does not exercise her cutting sarcasm and bitter irony in a better cause than maligning the founders of this country and the ideals they stood for. One suspects that she so keenly enjoys dealing those rapier thrusts that, with the ardor of the very young, she seizes upon the first object at hand, whether it is meritorious of derision or not. L. RHL: Play this on your mouth organ—you haven't a shred of romance in you, and I can prove it. You said Wednesday morning that you didn't like Martin Durkin! The other evening I sat out a dance with a serious minded but no less lovely girl from Smith's. And SHE likes Martin Durkin. Likes him because he is a real man who can walk wounded into a doctor's office and grin as the doctor does his stuff with the surgical instruments. Likes him because he does exactly what he wants to do, regardless of all obstacles. Likes him because, with his tongue in his cheek, he is brave enough and witty enough to walk up behind his sundry enemies and pin "April Fool" signs on their backs. "That he killed a man is unfortunate," said my lovely friend, "but that isn't the worst sin. The worst sin is stupidity—and he isn't guilty of that." If chance elects you to columnate the fuming mortals of a few centuries hence, you are going to LIKE Martin Durkin—as much as you like Francois Villon or Robin Hood or any of the other fascinating flouters of law and order. This is Truth Week? I LIKE MARTIN DURKIN.

Among a thousand throbbing, silver stars
  In opal clouds—a wan celestial park—

  While into wooing waters peered the skies:
All these endearing southern charms
  Were sweet as glimpses of your eyes.

DANGEROUS BROADWAY.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Having witnessed a shocking accident on Broadway Saturday night, I feel impelled to submit suggestions which would doubtless make this street more safe if acted upon.

1. Improve the lighting of this extra wide street between Lawrence and Devon avenues, a distance of two miles, where the street cars and motor car traffic move at fast speed.

2. Have a motor policeman assigned to put a stop to speeding on Broadway. It is very common for motor cars to pass street cars between their stops at a speed of 35 and 40 miles per hour.

3. Have signs put up in the Broadway street cars for the benefit of those who are not athletic enough to dodge the awful traffic, about as follows: "Passengers who intend after leaving this car to cross Broadway toward the left should first go to the sidewalk on the right, and then they can choose a safe time to cross this wide street."

4. There should be safety islands along this Broadway speedway to protect the pedestrians. As there is only one crossing policeman in this two miles (at Bryn Mawr), the traffic is not under control.

5. During the hours from 5 to 7 p. m. it would seem reasonable to limit the speed of street cars in this stretch of two miles to 20 miles per hour. They now make 30. The other traffic could then be controlled more easily.

HE'LL LEARN IT BY HEART.

Tinley Park, Ill., Nov. 15.—I read the denunciations of THE TRIBUNE made in the convention of the Anti-Saloon league held in Chicago last week. Your reply in today's editorial commands any sane minded man's respect and confidence. I shall memorize a good part of this editorial for its style, its true American spirit, and for its sound, far reaching, good sense.

CHARLES F. MILLER.

SUGGESTED CHANGE IN BRIDGE SCHEDULE.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—I understand that the closed bridge hours according to city ordinance are 7 to 9 a. m. and 4:30 to 6:30 p. m.

Saturday evening has ceased to be a rush hour. Saturday noon is as much a rush hour as any evening, Monday to Friday inclusive, and especially so during the navigation season, April to November.

An amendment to the ordinance eliminating the closed bridge period Saturday evening and substituting a closed bridge period 12 noon to 2 p. m. Saturday would materially aid traffic.

Another cause of traffic congestion in the vicinity of the river at times is the fireboat Graeme Stewart, which often ties up traffic twice in one-half hour or less, in going to and returning from a fire. Why cannot the Graeme Stewart, which now has a high pilot house, etc., be remodeled so as to pass under the bridge, as the fireboat Dennis J. Swenie is able to do?

EXPRESS TRAIN FOLLOWING.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—In the name of all "L" patrons who adorn the platforms along the Evanston route between Howard and Loyola, I voice this protest. The "L" officials have been kind enough to extend express service to us unfortunates dependent upon this mode of transportation for safe and punctual delivery to our respective posts each morning, but why let the conductors on local trains make sport of us as they go to the loop in the least possible time? These local conductors merrily chirp "Express following," whether an express is immediately following or some two or three trains behind, a mere matter of a fifteen minute wait. Are they ignorant, or merely having a good time?

WILLIAM M. COOPER.

A CASE FOR THE WORLD COURT.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—"And now," says the great criminal lawyer to his client, who has just murdered a man and upset a community, "the first thing necessary is to find a friendly court."

"And now," says THE TRIBUNE, "how many friends can Uncle Sam count on if he submits his affairs to the world court?"

Justice does not come out of a "friendly court," but out of an impartial one. In the deciding of ever case there must be some losing and some winning. In the court of arbitration his winning and losing is divided between the two sides.

Perhaps THE TRIBUNE has heard of Cruz Grande, Chile, where a whole province is leased for 99 years to the Bethlehem Steel corporation, and the people therein are held in a serfdom. In the discreet moment the admiral of the Chilean fleet informed the [illegible] the United States [illegible] court Chile would immediately bring the matter to its attention. If our nation is as righteous as we like to think, there is no need of a "friendly court."

R. T. BARCLAY.

A BRITISH CONSERVATIVE ON ARTHUR HENDERSON.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Naturally the people of the United States will decide for themselves whether or not Mr. Arthur Henderson's lecture tour in this country is to be boycotted because he belongs to the British Labor party, but for an Englishman to thrust himself into the argument would be an impertinence. But perhaps the opinion of one of Mr. Henderson's countrymen, not on the character of the question, but on the character of the man, would be acceptable as first hand information.

The writer is a Conservative and was defeated in the last general election for the house of commons by [illegible] Mr. Henderson's party, but that fact cannot blind him to the personal merits of a man who started life as a locomotive engineer and became a minister of the crown. Indeed, Mr. Henderson, though a member of the Labor party, is a typical Englishman of [illegible] judgment. And [illegible] this and because he is [illegible] the Labor party as a member of its executive committee but [illegible] as a member of his majesty's privy council that he has [illegible] by organizations of prominent London business men [illegible] as the partisan [illegible] remember the national war minister, and can combine to control the extreme [illegible] communists.

Kenilworth, Ill., Nov. 14.—Your editorial, "What's Common Sense to Kansas," which appeared in Friday's paper, reflects perfectly the typical attitude of the overgrown smart Alec who is always behind in his work and is [illegible] toward the "far hard boy who always has his lessons done and an apple for the teacher."

Your own phonograph is now worth twice what you paid for it!

Because, for the first time, it is possible to produce such records as this Columbia Record No. 50016-D.

The 850 male voices of the Associated Glee Clubs, singing the Hunting Song from "Robin Hood."

(and on the reverse side the same 850 voices singing "Sword of Ferrara.")

You never heard your own phonograph until today!

The difference will be as sensational as in the notes above

Hearing this Columbia Record No. 50016-D for the first time will be an extraordinary experience. Its effect will be precisely as if you had opened the door of a music room always closed until now. Hear it at any Columbia dealer's—and even then don't be satisfied till you have taken it home and played it on your own phonograph—

No matter what make of phonograph or talking machine yours may be, for the difference is in the record.

PEACE WITHOUT VICTORY ENDS ST. PAUL FIGHT

Opposing Factions Agree on Reorganization.

New York, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Revisions of the organization terms for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, designed to meet the objections of the dissatisfied stock and bond holders, were announced today by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and the National City company, the reorganization managers.

The compromise brought to an end a spirited fight waged against the original reorganization plan by opposing factions—one representing dissenting bond holders, headed by George E. Roosevelt, and another acting for stock holders under the direction of Ernest Iselin. Both groups announced their approval of the modifications and called upon their followers to assent to the amended plan.

Another bond holders' committee headed by Edwin C. Jameson of the Globe & Rutgers Insurance company, did not join in the compromise.

Predicts Speedy Restoration.

Otto H. Kahn, partner of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., characterized the settlement as "a peace without victory," and predicted that the way would soon be cleared for a termination of the $800,000,000 St. Paul receivership and a speedy restoration of the road to a sound financial footing, with the harmonious coöperation of all its security holders.

It was the third time that Mr. Kahn, representing powerful banking interests, had opposed members of the Roosevelt family in the railroad controversy. The first contest was with W. Emlen Roosevelt, father of George E. Roosevelt, over the Union Pacific reorganization in 1898. The second was in 1907, when Kahn sided with E. H. Harriman when the latter came under the fire of the interstate commerce commission and President Roosevelt, a cousin of George Roosevelt.

One of the outstanding provisions of the modified plan is the designation of five trustees, in whom the voting power of the new company's stock will be vested until Jan. 1, 1930.

Guard Interests of All.

Selected with the approval of all protective committees, these men will be charged with guarding the interests of all security holders impartially. They are Elihu Root, former secretary of state; Samuel Rea, former president of the Pennsylvania railroad; Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Carnegie foundation; W. D. Van Dye, president of the Northwestern Mutual Insurance company, and Frederick H. Ecker, vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. The trustees will elect the first board of directors of the reorganized railroad.

Concessions granted by the reorganization managers to the Roosevelt and Iselin groupsp rovide that holders of St. Paul bonds involved in the receivership receive 20 per cent of their holdings in new fifty year five per cent mortgage bonds, which are on a fixed interest basis, and the remaining 80 per cent in seventy-five year five per cent adjustment bonds, on which payment of interest is contingent upon earnings.

May Lighten Assessments.

Although the original plan called for the liquidation of the St. Paul's $55,000,000 government debt, the reorganization managers consented to make another effort to have this loan refunded. If this can be accomplished at five per cent or less, the original assessments of $28 on the preferred shares and $32 on the common shares will be considerably lightened, since the requirements for new working capital will thereby be reduced to about $20,000,000.

Adequate machinery will be set up to enable any small stock or bond holder to dispose of his securities, meet the assessments on them, or obtain loans upon their collateral.

Alderman Asks Daylight Saving Bill Be Repealed

Chicagoans may again have to vote on daylight saving. Although the "summer time" was once approved by voters by referendum vote two years ago, another vote at the April primaries is likely.

The council committee on judiciary has before it for consideration a resolution introduced by Ald. William R. O'Toole (14th) calling for repeal of the ordinance. The committee has agreed to consider the measure in January.

Isle Matriarchate Is Hauptmann's Theme in an Amusing Novel

"The Island of the Great Mother," by Gerhart Hauptmann. (Viking Press.)

Gerhart Hauptmann has written another story of "Orphan Island," and has approached the tale of the shipwrecked ladies from a different angle. Rose Macaulay wrote one of the most amusing books imaginable about the subject. Herr Hauptmann's book is on a whole not half so entrancing.

GERHART HAUPTMANN.

And that is because he is inclined to be preachy, as indeed any one might be with such a subject to his hand. His desert island life is less easy to take on faith, too, it seems to me, for the shipwrecked women manage to take with them into their exile many luxuries, including a trunk, but there is no room in any of the boats for a man, and no matter how badly a shipwreck might be managed it is a little hard to believe that room could be found for a trunk and none for a human being.

One hundred women, shipwrecked, and the only male among them a boy of 12. A desert island with everything in the world to make life pleasant and beautiful and easy. What the future of such a community would be is the theme of Herr Hauptmann's satire. The birth of the first child on the island a year or so after their arrival is the occasion for the greatest rejoicing and for the keen investigation of the ruling members of the community.

They cannot bring themselves to believe that the young boy is anything but a child, and the most rigid questioning does not shake their faith in his innocence, so there springs up a belief in the divine conception of the little arrivals on the island. By the time practically all of the women have become mothers the belief has become a religion. The women are all perfectly happy and have no worries in life whatever until their baby boys begin to grow up. Some of the sterner islanders suggest putting the boys out of the way, in the Herod style, so as to keep the island purely a matriarchate. They are deterred from that course, however, by a few of the wiser heads, and the boys at the age of 5 are segregated to another part of the island, where they live and have no contact with the Motherland.

Meantime, a temple has been built to the great god who is believed to be responsible for the increase of population on the island and twelve boys are taken into it as acolytes. The climax of the story comes when a committee of elders from the Motherland visit Manland and find in it a culture better than their own, and the stern feminists fight off as long as possible the rebels among the boys who believe that they all should be allowed to be present at the ceremony of the brides which takes place in the temple, instead of being represented by the chosen twelve. A revolt follows and the island is swept by the mad boys and the girls, who join in the orgy.

The story is, of course, a sophisticated one, as may be judged by the plot. There are two or three women in it who are as amusing as you could ask for, satirical and clever and outspoken without ever once allowing the firm religious fervor of the island mothers to be shaken. They look upon the scene and find it something to laugh about.

If the tale were not so padded with preaching, so bulky with words, it would be the most amusing book of the year. As it is, it is merely one of the most amusing.

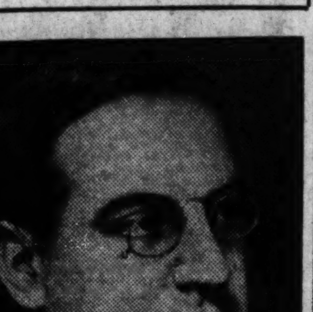
"Cousins," by Bellamy Partridge (Brentano's).

Bellamy Partridge has written a funny book about a mischievous boy. Such books are rare enough to be memorable and popular enough to cause readers many a case of bad judgment. The world likes to read about rascals and there is something especially alluring about young rascals.

In "Cousins" the author tells the story of a he-boy who can't stand his effete cousin from the east.

There is one part, where all the kids in town find that a dead horse makes a gorgeous springboard, for instance, that sounds as if it might have come right out of the brain of Tom Sawyer's creator.

CONFESSIONS



Montague Glass is known to half the English speaking world for his stories about Potash and Perlmutter. His latest one—after something of a silence—is "Y'Understand." The characters are all Abes and Mawrusses, but with different names. The stories are warranted to amuse even a man who has just eaten a Welsh rarebit. When I asked Mr. Glass what book he would rather have written than any other, he replied:

My dear Miss Butcher:

What most of us would like to write and what we do write are poles apart. You remember—or we'll say you remember—hoping that you don't—the customer in the cheap London restaurant who told the waiter during the war that he would like a two inch steak, juicy and tender, broiled so that the gravy follows the knife, with a large lump of fresh butter on top. And the waiter said: "Ah!" he said, "I don't blame you!"

When I tell you, then, that I would like to have written the six hundred odd pages of "The Old Wives' Tale," you may well say: "Ah! I don't blame you!" At least, I would dearly like to have written the concluding chapters beginning where poor Sophia finds her husband in the Deansgate shop of Mr. Till Boldero. Perhaps it's because I was born and raised within a threepenny tram ride of Deansgate, Manchester, and Mr. Bennett's people are therefore my own, that I cannot read these chapters without a shamefaced emotion. I ought of course to recognize that Mr. Bennett's art is concealing art—that it possesses certain mechanics, but I'm blest if I know what those mechanics are. I can only feel that here is poignant tragedy stripped of sentiment, and how I would like to have written it!

Sincerely,

Montague Glass.

Paul Bunyan Put Into Print.

"Paul Bunyan," by Esther Shephard (McNeil Press).

"Paul Bunyan," by James Stevens (Knopf).

There has been much to-do lately about the Paul Bunyan stories. They have been written about as of immense importance in American folklore. Everybody's curiosity has been whetted by sample tales of the giant Paul Bunyan's prowess. Six or seven years ago Robert Frost spoke in Chicago and he told some of the colossal achievements of this greatest of all the lumberjacks. There has grown up a vital interest in this great American folk hero.

But until a month or so ago his exploits were celebrated entirely by word of mouth. Now, almost together, there have appeared two books about him, each one a large and amusing contribution to American folk history. The first of them is by Miss Esther Shephard of Seattle, and is a setting down in the language of the lumberjacks themselves the Gargantuan exploits of the hero. The other is by James Stevens and is told in regular "book" English and is a continuous narrative of Paul's life.

Paul Bunyan is too fantastic a character to put into a paragraph, and his doings are those of a giant who used his brain as much as his brawn. Mr. Stevens has him, at the end of his book, conquered by the power of women, not over himself but over his men. Miss Shephard finishes him off—or the old lumberjack who is telling the story does—by sending him to Alaska where he's logging by airplane and that he's gettin' out timbers fer the Mexican gover'ment to build their navy of.

Jesuit Account of Dawn of America Intrigues Reviewer

"The Jesuit Relations," edited by Edna Kenton (Albert and Charles Boni).

For years historians who have worked with American foundations have been dependent upon "The Jesuit Relations" for some of their most valuable material. "The Relations," edited by Reuben Gold Thwaites of the University of Wisconsin, were published in 1894 in seventy-three volumes after they had long been unobtainable, and had been brought out officially by the Canadian government. That edition, limited to 750 sets, is now not easy of access.

Because "The Relations" contain so much that is of interest to those interested in the early days of the European settlement of our continent, this carefully edited edition of "The Relations" in one volume has been published. Miss Edna Kenton, once of Chicago and now of New York, has done a most skillful operation on the shelves which composed the original edition. This one volume contains a history of the Jesuit occupation of North America, but it contains, what is of the greatest importance, many of the first records of the white man's contact with the Indian.

Keith Preston once said, when I admitted that I had read every word of a vast book, that it was against the union rules for reviewers to read books in their entirety. It may be, but even a book of more than 500 pages which is mostly concerned with the state of the Jesuit missions in the new world can be so full of allurement as to clutch a reviewer like "The Ancient Mariner." This reviewer at any rate was not one of the two who escaped from his skinny hand. "The Relations" seem to me as interesting in one sense as any book of history that has come my way for a long time.

From the most highly civilized country in Europe the Jesuits came to New France, a wilderness. Unlike many other early settlers, they were schooled in telling what they saw. The tales of the early traders would have been thrilling and exciting beyond words, but unfortunately most of the early traders were so illiterate as to make any recording of the things they saw or heard impossible.

The Jesuits were required to make reports to their superiors and the ease of language, the—at times—charm of lucid style, the thoroughness with which they recorded everything that had to do with their work, religious, social, and economic, makes of "The Relations" documents which are of the utmost interest to any one at all intrigued by the beginnings of his own land.

The records of the myths and beliefs of the Indians as the Jesuits found them make one think of "The Golden Rough," so akin were some the Indian beliefs to Christian. The Indians they found believing that there had been a great flood—like the one in which Noah starred—and they believed that their god had sent out a small bird to find land after the flood had subsided. That is just one coincidence of beliefs.

If one is interested in torture, there is nothing in the tales of Torquemada which can equal the record of the torture of two priests who were collared with red hot axes, girdled with flaming brands, whose skin was torn from their flesh, whose flesh was roasted and eaten before their very eyes and who died only when their hearts were cut out.

Those inclined to economics will find in "The Relations" records of the early life of the settlers and of the missions which are most revealing.

The journal of Father Marquette on his trip down the Mississippi is given and in it figures Chikagou, the Illinois chief, who visited Paris.

"The Jesuit Relations" is a compilation of the relations, or the recordings, which the Jesuits made as their annual reports. But because, as I have said, the men who made those records were scholars, "The Relations" are fascinating.

Children's Books

From "Rain on the Roof," by Cornelia Meigs.

Children's books are reviewed by Adah F. Whitcomb, supervisor of the children's department of the Chicago public library.

For Children 6 to 8.

"Rabbit Lantern," by Dorothy Rowe (Macmillan).

Little children in China take their pet birds out for an airing as our children take their pet dogs, even tying a string to the bird's ankle so it can fly a little way.

The story of how one boy lost and recovered his pet bird is only the first in a book full of interesting stories about Chinese children, told so simply that very young children can read them. In each story odd customs or ideas of the Chinese people are revealed without any suggestion of giving information.

The pictures are done by a Chinese artist, Miss Ling Jui Tang. Their quaint simplicity will appeal to children.

From 10 Up.

"The Pope's Mule," translated from the French of Alphonse Daudet (Macmillan).

There's a kick in it. Yes, indeed!

Seven years did this outraged animal await her chance to pay back her tormentor for making her the laughing stock of the town.

The customs and life of the medieval French village and monastery form a picturesque background for this story of Daudet's which so humorously explains the old French adage: "Beware of him; He is like the Pope's mule which saved her kick for seven years."

From 12 to 14.

"Rain on the Roof," by Cornelia Meigs (Macmillan).

In the quaint old sea town of Middleport three children come under the inspiring influence of a man recovering from a serious accident. From him they learn much about boats, engineering, and the early history of Middleport when it had a busy harbor filled with merchant ships and fishing craft.

The plot works up gradually to a dramatic conclusion.

The character drawing is vastly superior to that found in most children's books.

Boys will be particularly interested in the boat lore and the attractions of an engineering career, while girls will enjoy the romantic historical background and unraveling of the plot.

For Boys from 12 Up.

"Boys' Life of Grover Cleveland," by R. J. Davis (Harper).

When and how does a boy learn of politics? Too often from decidedly unidealistic sources. Nevertheless, most boys are interested in such questions, and this life of Grover Cleveland serves as a remarkable background for the introduction to much information of this character. It will appeal to young and old alike.

Art Now Only Rule for Writing Novels, Willa Cather Says

Willa Cather lectured this week at the University of Chicago on "The Tendency of the Modern Novel" and she said so many pertinent and important things that it seems only fair to share them with you who did not hear her. The novel—as an art form, as opposed to the machine-made novel—has changed, she said.

It has changed, for one thing, in the matter of length. It is as long now as the author believes it should be to express what he wishes to say, and it is, therefore, either shorter than the old novel or longer, as the case demands. The rules of novel construction are not adhered to as they used to be.

She mentioned as an example "The Death of Ivan Ilytch," by Tolstoi, which begins with a funeral, proceeds to a vivid tale of Ivan's life, and ends with his death. According to all rules, such a technique is wrong. As art, it is right, she said. To have done that novel in any other way would have been as tragic and as silly as to have cut up a child and rearranged its members differently.

The novel is behind the other arts in that very matter, she said. A painter can see a pretty little clump of trees, and behind it the great cathedral and, if the clump of trees allures him, he will paint his trees, sketch in the cathedral in its proper perspective and go home pleased with himself. The novelist will see the clump of trees, but he is pressed to realize that behind them there is that great cathedral, and he is a rare artist who contents himself with his trees. The novel is like democracy, she said, with all of the virtues, but likewise all of its faults.

She spoke at length about the new freedom of subject matter. She voiced the belief that periods of the greatest freedom have never been periods of the greatest beauty in literary creation. The very fact that there are restrictions, things that one must not talk about, tends to make the art a richer one. That is also true of language, she said. There now are being used words which formerly were to be found only in patent medicine almanacs, and she bade her auditors beware of a language which had no bad words in it—and any word, by being generally used, ceases to be bad.

She said that the power to stir the reader erotically was the charge of dynamite which every great author had, but that, used to excess or even used without distinction, the charge lost every whit of its power.

"There is such a thing in life as nobility," she said, "and novels which celebrate it will always be the novels which are finally loved."

The novel of the future will be more experimental, she ventured. It will be more concerned with the emotional pattern of the characters than with the event pattern. Many happenings may be, as events, startlingly important in a life, but they may leave a person almost cold emotionally. It is the true emotional pattern of his characters which the author will chart in the future. He will write about whatever makes an impact on his mind.

YULE FIRE

An anthology of Christmas Poems by

MARGUERITE WILKINSON

Many anthologies of Christmas poetry have been published yet the book is rare that truly reflects the religious and mystical Yuletide spirit. This latter is what Mrs. Wilkinson has attempted in "Yule Fire." No effort has been made to popularize the book by inclusion of light and shallow verses on holly, mistletoe, and kindred subjects, nor has there been any conscious concession to pious sentimentality. Here are poems that touch deeply the mystery of the incarnation of Christ. $2.50

World Flight Book Is Real Adventure Any Way It's Liked

By Fanny Butcher.

"The First World Flight," recorded by Lowell Thomas. (Houghton-Mifflin.)

LOWELL THOMAS.

Whether one is a person who hugs his fireside and takes all of his passion for adventure out in being glad he's safe and comfortable, or is constantly champing at his bit because his ways are those of warmth and safety when he yearns passionately to live "dangerously," as the hero of "The Friends of Mr. Sweeney" did, there isn't one of us who can think of the flight of the American aviators around the world without getting an extra heartbeat.

In one sense that flight was the most romantic thing that has ever happened in history, for it made, for the first time, the unity of the world a reality to human beings. That such a fragile thing as an airplane could encircle the globe is something out of a fairy tale. The only reason that every one who followed the news of that flight didn't have a sense of living in a myth is because we have all come so to accept miraculous events that we have lost our sensitiveness to their power.

⁂

Now that the story of that flight is told consecutively in "The First World Flight," the flight seems at the same time more human and more miraculous than ever. The story, as related by Maj. Martin, Capt. Lowell H. Smith, Lieut. Leigh Wade, Lieut. John Harding Jr., Lieut. Erik H. Nelson, Lieut. Leslie P. Arnold, and Lieut. Henry H. Ogden to Lowell Thomas, was published serially in THE TRIBUNE, but the sweep of the plan and the cumulation of excitement of it was broken up each day. They are reassembled in the book, and the record of that thrilling trip is enough to satisfy any one's romantic yearnings.

The book is not written with any flourishes or with any "fine writing." It is an everyday record of what happened, and Mr. Thomas more often has quoted the members of the crews of the planes than he has written about them.

⁂

He says every little while, without any trumpetings, that for the first time in the history of the world an airplane took off from the tip of North America to fly to Japan, or that a stout boat was blown miles out of its course by a gale which the airplanes were buffeting, or describes without many adjectives a snowstorm that would make a city dweller lie right down and play babes in the woods, but he doesn't knock his reader down with anything except the facts of the flight. He tells the astounding story and lets the reader get his own thrills out of it.

"When the Movies Were Young," by Mrs. D. W. Griffith (Dutton).

The wife of D. W. Griffith has told the world what she knows about the famous persons in the movies, as well as what used to happen when the movies were something to work in for a few dollars a day. Mrs. Griffith was a movie actress herself when Mary Pickford was pulling down the munificent salary of $5 a day, and she doesn't mind in the least telling about the days "when." For movie fans this book is a gold mine.

Deals Blow to Dry Law.

"The Bush That Burned," by Marjorie Barcley McClure. [Minton, Balch & Co.]

All those who believe that the world is suffering from a severe attack of alcoholism brought on by prohibition will find much ammunition for their arguments in "The Bush That Burned," by Marjorie Barcley McClure. It is the story of a girl, old-fashioned and nice and everything, who came in contact with drunkenness when she was young and who felt that drink was the curse of her life and love, as it nearly proved to be.

It isn't a preachy book, except as any intensely written novel is a pamphlet for or against the thing it portrays. It is really the story of a girl with strong prejudices and the smart and loose crowd of young people who formed the social background of her life. It is the kind of book that one might give to any one to read. It certainly could not corrupt the morals of any one.

On the other hand, it has enough jazz and cocktails and promiscuous petting in it to bring it out of the early Victorian era of novels. Parts of it seem real and impressive. Other parts of it seem over sentimentalized. But the sentimentality is, in most of the book, overshadowed by the reality. Mrs. McClure is the author of "High Fires," a first novel of last year which won for her many laurel wreaths and huzzahs.

St. Loe Strachey, 65, Writes First Novel, and It's a Good One

By Sidney Dark.

[English Critic.]

St. Loe Strachey has published his first novel, "The Madonna of the Barricades," at the age of 65. He for many years has been the editor and the proprietor of the Spectator, the most authoritative of our weekly reviews. His literary criticisms are well known in America. He is an authority on politics and an enthusiastic member of the English Speaking union. Now he has begun to write fiction.

ST. LOE STRACHEY.

The time of his story is 1848. A young English milord and a beautiful Italian countess are together on the barricades in Paris, and by a miracle, only possible in a novel, escape being shot. This sounds like the beginning of a film play. But into this intrigue Mr. Strachey, with the skill of the historian and the journalist, has woven much history and many political reflections.

⁂

He brings his readers to London and introduces them to Thackeray and Matthew Arnold. In Paris they meet Louis Napoleon and Lamartine. The period is reconstructed with really great skill, even if the fictional characters themselves are rather wooden, and the interview with Lamartine in Paris is extraordinarily well done. Altogether "The Madonna of the Barricades" is an unusual but interesting book.

⁂

Disraeli still remains one of the most intriguing figures of English political history. Two new studies of his life are shortly to be issued, one by Philip Guedalla, himself a clever Jew, and the other by E. T. Raymond, the pen name of the editor of the London Evening Standard, who already has published several notable studies of politicians.

⁂

Forty years ago Burne Jones, the great pre-Raphaelite, wrote a series of letters to a little girl which he himself illustrated. They have now been published with the title "Letters to Katie." They have a queer Barrie-like fascination. Graham Robertson, the writer of the preface, says: "If a marriage could have been arranged between Brother Francis of Assisi and Mona Lisa, or if Puck had eloped with St. Elizabeth of Hungary, their offspring might have been very like Edward Burne Jones."

⁂

John Galsworthy has just finished a new novel called "The Silver Spoon," which is to be serialized in America and published in volume form in about a year.

⁂

In the early spring we are to have a translation of M. Poincare's memoirs and the final volume of Sir Sidney Lee's "Life of Edward the Seventh."

Two new volumes of Queen Victoria's letters will also appear with the new year. King George has already read the proofs of the first of them.

HOLT DEFENSE CITES SLAYING OF TWO GUNMEN

Testimony Ends; Jury to Get Case Tuesday.

Waukegan, Ill., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Physical facts in the deaths of two notorious gunmen were pitted against the testimony of the state's medical experts today by the defense in the Holt-Harcq murder trial before a jury in Judge Claire C. Edwards' court. Which testimony will win should be decided Tuesday, since the last witness was heard late today, and the final arguments will start at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning.

Today was taken up with rebuttal, the principal testimony coming from Dr. James Whitney Hall and Dr. William O. Krohn, both expert witnesses from Chicago. Both of the doctors testified that Mrs. Lillie Holt could not have inflicted upon herself the wounds from which she died on Sept. 20 in the presence of her daughter, Mrs. Clara Harcq, and of her husband, Arthur Holt.

Talk of Vinci and Anderson.

It was in the midst of the testimony of these physicians that uprose the specters of Mike Vinci, slain brother of the notorious Jimmy, and of George ("Dutch") Anderson, pal of Gerald Chapman, master crook, with rather unofficial facts that were both hard for the doctors to explain away and aimed straight at the jury.

James G. Welch of the defense asked Dr. Krohn whether he had heard of either Vinci or Anderson. The doctor replied he had heard them mentioned. Then the lawyer demanded:

"Well, do you know that Vinci, after he had been shot in the abdomen and the bullet had punctured his liver and lungs, continued to fire until his gun was empty? And don't you know that when Anderson was killed in Michigan recently he first fired three shots into the abdomen of the policeman who immediately afterward shot him dead, and that the policeman's wounds later caused his death? Don't you know that, doctor?"

The doctor replied he knew nothing about it, but didn't believe either account. The lawyer got his point over to the jury before objections were made and sustained.

Hall's Answer Is Similar.

Attorney Joseph Keig, associated with Mr. Welch in the defense, asked the same question of Dr. Hall, whom he cross-examined. And the result was much the same. Mrs. Holt was shot four times. Three of the wounds were in the abdomen, and it is contended by the defense that she then fired the fourth bullet into her mouth and died instantly.

Drs. Hall and Krohn and other experts called by State's Attorney A. V. Smith and his assistant, S. H. Block, testified the shock from at least one of the wounds in the abdomen would have been so great as to make it impossible for Mrs. Holt to raise the gun to her mouth and fire. They described the conditions which such a shot would have produced, supporting the testimony of Dr. Kellogg Speed of Highland Park, who based his judgment on his experience on the battlefield in France and in the county hospital in Chicago; in each case saying it was impossible for her to have inflicted the wound which killed her.

The case is expected to go to the jury some time late Tuesday.

DETROIT FREE PRESS OPENS $10,000,000 NEWSPAPER PLANT

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Detroit's newest and most striking architectural unit, the Free Press building, was thrown open to the public today with a formal reception to city and state officials.

The new building, built of Bedford limestone, is six stories in height, over a block front and in the center rises a graceful 14 story tower.

In the new building the Free Press has installed one of the most modern newspaper publishing plants in the world, with 25 high speed presses, capable of turning out 42,000 papers per hour. Foundations are in for a total of 62 presses.

The new Free Press is built on historic ground, its plot forming part of the old Fort Shelby military reservation. It is the fifth home of the paper, which was first published in a log building in 1831.

Two entire floors of the main building and several offices of the tower are given over to the business and editorial departments. The interior decorations include murals by Roy Gamble and De Jong Smith, and the finish is solid bronze, brass and American walnut with touches of Vermont marble. The cost was approximately $10,000,000.

HELD ON CHARGE OF INCENDIARISM. Román Dallen, 2637 North Sawyer avenue, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 when he appeared before Judge John Richardson yesterday, charged with having attempted to set fire to his clothing store, at 1529 Milwaukee avenue, on Oct. 23.

NEW CABINET IN POLAND FORMED BY SKRZYNSKI

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.]

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 20.—A decree by Poland's president today announces a coalition cabinet made up of various parties, ranging from Socialists to Nationalists, was formed under Premier Skrzynski early this morning.

To prove to the world that the man who signed the Locarno pact enjoys the confidence of the Polish party leaders, the opposing factions after an all night session agreed to bury their dissensions and stand behind Premier Skrzynski. The ministry of foreign affairs remains in his hands.

M. Grabski of the Nationalists takes over the ministry of schools, art, and religion. The ministry of agriculture is entrusted to M. Keinik of the peasonts' party and labor is controlled by M. Ziemierki, a Socialist. Industry and trade is to flourish under M. Osieki of the peasants' party and the war ministry, despite the opposition of the Nationalists, went to Gen. Majewsmi.

Pilsudski Partisans Beat Foe.

The army officers supporting Gen. Pilsudski were so indignant at the campaign carried on against him by the Nationalists in Vilna as well as Warsaw that they beat up the editor of a Nationalistic paper. A well known deputy, Prof. Stronski, was the victim of another attack.

Premier Skrzynski is expected to devote most of his energy to the foreign and financial policies of the country. He finds former Premier Grabski's political estate empty, the treasury with a large deficit, officials' salary accounts covered by state obligations, a heavy reduction in the reserve covering the Bank of Poland's paper money, and general financial disorder.

Special Money Inflates Currency.

In order to keep the 30 per cent guarantee in back of the zloty the circulation of Bank of Poland notes has been reduced, while an unsupported state currency, Europe's newest fiat money, has been placed in circulation. This new inflation cannot touch the official currency, which is the first and only lien on the state reserve, but it is, nonetheless, a new step in the direction of government inflation, which many financiers feel must lead to disaster.

Poland, with its 13,000,000 inhabitants, many of them poor in a sense hardly to be understood in America, cannot support an army of 400,000 in addition to the complicated system of state officials, who are a heavy drain on the finances.

And The Man Behind the Wheel

At your service every hour of the day and night. You will find him near you, no matter where you are. If an emergency confronts you call on him. He is at the end of every telephone.

You can trust him anywhere with anything. We know. We looked him up before we employed him. We took no chances on him. We picked him from scores of applicants. We accepted no letters of recommendation. He went safely through the many tests we imposed.

We knew when we accepted him that he was honest. We knew that he was decent. We knew by the psychological tests that he had courage—that he acted promptly and intelligently in emergencies. We knew that he wasn't given to carelessness.

We knew he was a responsible citizen. We went into his past. We found how he was regarded by his neighbors—by his butcher, his grocer, his baker and his doctor. We looked for taints in his history and found none.

We knew he was healthy—that there was no physical weakness which might manifest itself at a time when he had passengers in his cab. Primarily all this was for public protection. Secondarily, it was in the interests of good cab service.

And it helps to prove that this is a Cab Service—not just a Cab Company.

SYNOPSIS.

A band of crooks, stumbling on the fact that Sir Adrian Shale's wife is alive, when supposedly she had died six months before in Italy, arrives at Grantwick, Sir Adrian's home, for the purpose of blackmailing him. Mimi Winchell, one of the crooks posing as a widow, obtains a letter of introduction to Sir Adrian, who is kind to her and her "daughter," Doris. The girl is beautiful and possesses the only shred of respectability the gang can lay claim to. She is in reality an orphan whom Mimi has befriended. One of the crooks, Beauty Bill Gibbons, asks Doris to marry him. She refuses. A few days later Sir Adrian angers Mimi by announcing he would like to marry Doris. She tells him she knows his wife is alive, and demands fifty thousand pounds for silence. Sir Adrian does not believe her, but agrees to pay the money. She returns to London immediately, and discovers that Sir Adrian has tricked her. Somewhat disturbed by Mimi's story, Sir Adrian decides to make an investigation. His wife's former maid, Anna Ferguson, failed to come back to England after Lady Shale's death in Italy. In attempting to find her, Sir Adrian calls on her sister, Madam Georgette, a fashionable London dressmaker, who is unable to give him any information. Doris rebels at the life she is forced to lead with Mimi and her husband, Uncle Charley, and takes a job as manikin at Madam Georgette's. Uncle Charley, ill, sends for Doris, and while she is with him he dies. She is late in returning to Madam Georgette's, and is scolded by Madam's husband for refusing to tell where she's been.

INSTALLMENT XXIV.

SIR ADRIAN MAKES A DECISION.

Georgette had schemed out in her mind exactly how she would deal with Doris in the morning. Matt would be penitent by then, as he always was on the rare occasions upon which she really expressed anger with him. She would tell Matt to leave the girl to her. Madam would see Doris in the office and speak kindly, but firmly, to her and then tell her that the lapse was forgiven. But that little conversation which she had planned was not to happen. In the morning Doris had gone.

Nobody had seen her creep down the back staircase soon after dawn, her two little suitcases in her hands, and her eyes all red and swollen with tears. She had chosen her time well, and so far as the establishment of Madam Georgette was concerned Doris Winchell had just disappeared into the blue.

Georgette made no comment. She was heavy of heart and filled with a vague anxiety tinged with remorse. She blamed herself for not having prevented her husband's callous remarks on the previous evening. She was ashamed of her cowardice and fear of irritating him. And she thought much of Doris, wondering uneasily what might have happened to the girl, and what tragedy must have been the powerful motive which drove her to run away.

Was there anything crooked about her as Matt suggested? No, there couldn't be, Georgette told herself fiercely, as if to stifle an unworthy thought. Doris was straight enough, Georgette would swear to it. Yet she found herself wondering why she was so sure.

However, business must be attended to. She settled down before her desk to go through the morning's post. There was a letter from Shale, the second he had written since his visit. This one announced his intention of calling upon Madam Georgette—"with some small information which I have gathered"—in the course of the morning.

Madam sighed. Shale's communication aroused those worrying fears concerning Anna's long silence, about which she had not thought so much in recent days. Life was full of troubles!

Sir Adrian arrived soon after noon. He was shown up to the untidy little office, and began straightway in a businesslike manner to tell what his inquiry agents had reported to him.

There was little to say, merely that Anna Ferguson's banking account had been traced and that money had neither been drawn from nor deposited in it since the date of Lady Shale's supposed death. Shale had at first decided not to communicate this information to the sister until he had further facts before him, but he had been led to alter his decision by a disquieting and growing desire to learn something of Doris.

In the morning Doris had gone.

Since she had left him, a week ago, in that sudden outburst of emotion outside Delange's, she had been much in his mind. Too much, he told himself frankly, and then proceeded to try to convince himself that it was only because she presented a curious problem of human nature. But he was too honest for this feeble self deception. He knew that it was more than mere curiosity that led him to make that unnecessary call at Dover street. It was part pity—a desire to help—and part, something more than pity.

And realizing that, he called himself "fool"—yet he went to Georgette's.

Madam listened to his concise phrases in a distracted way. Her manner was very different from that when he had last seen her. She seemed unable properly to grasp the significance of his words.

"It's all very disquieting, Sir Adrian," she said vaguely. "And very unsatisfactory. I don't know what to do. You see, one hardly knows where to start." There came for a moment a flash of the former competent, keen Georgette. "Even you are not clear in your mind as to when exactly you last saw Anna."

"At least I am causing inquiries to be made in—Italy—in order to try and remedy my lapse of memory," he answered.

"I feel that already we have left things too long. We should have informed the police at once," said Madam.

Shale was regretting now that he had been weak enough to make this visit without having waited for fuller information. Madam Georgette had cornered him again, and if he were not very careful he would be forced, in common honesty, to confess to her the whole sorry story in so far as he knew it.

"The continental police are difficult," he said lamely. "I think I would still advise waiting until we have the report of my own agents. I need hardly assure you I am making every effort to get to the bottom of the mystery."

"O, quite." Georgette's voice was cold. "But since Anna was my sister, I feel I, too, should take my share. After all, no legal responsibility rests upon you."

He felt the implied reproof keenly, and she saw him wince. "But——" he began.

The telephone bell rang, and he broke off at Georgette's murmured "Excuse me." The interruption came as a great relief to him; it would give him a few seconds in which to order his thoughts he imagined. Yet Georgette's first few words threw those thoughts into chaos again.

"What?" Madam was saying. "No. No. Put her through to me."

He judged she was speaking to some one in the shop below, for her voice was sharp and peremptory.

"No. Miss Winchell will not be back again. I thought I told you so. No, she has gone—yes, gone altogether."

She slammed the receiver down impatiently, and turned again to Sir Adrian.

"I'm sorry," she said in a more human tone. "I didn't mean to blame you about Anna. I quite understand the sad, the tragic circumstances for you, connected with——with——the whole affair. But life has so many worries. That was another of them." She nodded towards the telephone. "One of my most promising assistants has run away—in the night—simply because of a little reproof. Really things are very complicated."

She rose. What with this worry about Anna and the worry about Doris; with Matt still in a vile temper and the constant strain of business life, poor Georgette was feeling very despondent.

Shale reached for his hat.

"Have no doubt," he said earnestly, "that I will leave a stone unturned."

She put out her hand, but as he turned to go his keen desire to know more of Doris forced him to speak of her.

"I'm sorry about this assistant of yours," he added, hesitating at the door and fumbling with his gloves. "It must be trying for you. You say there was no real reason for her to run away; she wasn't in disgrace of any kind?"

"No reason whatever so far as I know," Georgette replied with a touch of surprise, surprise more at the real note of concern in Shale's voice than in the fact that he should take any interest in one of her mannikins.

"O, well," he commented pointlessly, a little embarrassed at what he had said. "I trust it will all come right."

Then, with a courteous bow, he left her. But he took with him a new care to add to life—a vague fear that in some way he had been responsible for Doris' flight. Could it be that anything he had said to her had frightened the child away? He recalled how he had practically accused her of being at Georgette's for no good purpose, and her passionate outburst at the suggestion. He pondered the matter gravely all through lunch—now believing, now half doubting. Whichever way he looked at it, it was a tragic business. At any rate, he was going to find Doris Winchell and establish definitely to his own satisfaction whether she was honest or not.

Good morning!

This isn't the fool who said in his heart, "There is no God," nor the one who made his prayer to a rag, a bone, and a hank of hair. He's "The Fool" of Channing Pollock's play, a young minister who gives up wealth and position to live as he believes Christ would live.

And SO, the people who can't see his way call him a fool.

Maybe he is. He loses the girl he loves. He loses his exceedingly good position as assistant curate of a fashionable church. Luxurious surroundings give way to the simplest sort of abode, for Daniel Gilchrist establishes a mission for down and outers and lives in it, that his life may be in constant and close touch with the lives of those he hopes to brighten.

That's what he loses. He gains peace of mind, time to read and study, and the joy that the knowledge he is of service brings him.

The picture is a good holiday week offering, for around about Thanksgiving and Christmas most hearts are warm and ready to be stirred, and none of us inclined to be too critical. It is nine reels long, which is about two reels TOO long, but it's mighty well acted and carries sincerely a sincere message.

In an age that is not one of miracles there are those who will say that what happens to little lame Mary Margaret could never be. On the other hand, some who have visited shrines and left their beds behind them will also probably be heard from.

Mr. Lowe, as the minister, gives an earnest and gripping performance. In a rôle that could easily have been made mawkish, he is sensible, straightforward, cordial, and, yes, businesslike, for it is Gilchrist's belief that religion is not only good for the soul, but IS good business.

Raymond Bloomer, as an unscrupulous, wealthy waster, plays convincingly. He has the queerest way of making his eyes look wild! Scary! Wish he'd quit it.

Anne Dale, as the pathetic little cripple, is just splendid, and Paul Panzer is fine as a laboring man bucking his puny strength against the octopus, Capital.

You'll think Mary Thurman's good, too.

"The Fool" will undoubtedly appeal to most churchgoers.

See you tomorrow!

CLOSEUPS

You know that good looking Nigel Barrie? Well, he got married secretly the other day to a Mrs. Gertrude Pocklington, widow of a Rhodesia, South Africa, colonist. They'd only known each other three weeks. The bride was in Hollywood visiting.

REMEMBER?

Remember the day, the day we said we'd leave it up to Edwin Balmer—remember?

As to whether "That Royle Girl," adapted from his story by D. W. Griffith, was a good picture? Well, here's his answer. It came yesterday:

"Dear Miss Tinée: In the kindest but most unequivocal terms you have invited my opinion of D. W. Griffith's spectacular picture, 'That Royle Girl,' from my novel of the same name.

"When I met Mr. Griffith, before the first showing of the picture, he said to me: 'You are going to see great departures from your story.' I replied: 'I have always expected to. I have seen that action on the screen cannot follow the action on the page, even when representing the same idea.'

"He said: 'I am glad you understand that. You will find in the picture the same conflict which made your story. It was the conflict, particularly the especial and unusual manner of conflict between Joan Daisy Royle and Calvin Clarke, which most attracted me.'

"It is in the portrayal of conflicting points of view that a novelist has his greatest technical advantage over the film director. Both have to deal with an idea; and the writer can employ the medium devised and developed primarily for the purpose of expressing ideas—words—while the director must contrive and create physical and visual apparatus of expression.

"I was talking with another motion picture man who was most aggrieved over this advantage of the author.

"'What's a writer got to do?' he declaimed to me. 'Nothing. Write a few words; that's all; nothing. What's the biggest passage in the biggest book in the world? I mean the Bible.'

"'I suppose,' I replied, 'the first sentence.'

"'That's it. "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." Ten words. All the author had to do was write ten words to put that idea across; but how many scenes would Griffith have to shoot to make any adequate showing of just the start at making heaven?'

"Mr. Griffith has dramatically and vividly portrayed the essential conflict in my book. In transposing it from words into the difficult medium of the screen he had to make changes in the action. Any one seeing the picture after reading the book may be disappointed in these alterations of action; but others who first see the picture and then read the book may be equally disappointed in not finding, in the book, the action which already has become to them identified with the idea.

"I am too great an admirer of the great artist, D. W. Griffith, who works in a medium different from my own, to believe that any one could have better represented, through the difficult apparatus of the picture, the conflict in which I am interested.

"With sincerest appreciation of your friendliness,

"EDWIN BALMER."

U. S. Insists on Right to Divorce Famous Players

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—(AP)—The right of the federal trade commission to order the Famous Players-Lasky company to divorce its producing and distributing interests from its exhibiting properties, valued at $100,000,000, was asserted in a brief filed today by W. H. Fuller, chief counsel for the commission.

The brief was in reply to those previously filed by the Famous Players and its affiliated distributing and exhibiting companies, who have been charged in a complaint issued by the commission, with a conspiracy to hinder competition and create a monopoly in the motion picture industry. Final arguments are to be held before the commission November 24 and 25.

Counsel for the commission asked that an order be issued directing Famous Players to desist from certain busienss methods, such as block booking as now practiced, as well as to separate its producing and distributing functions from its exhibiting business. The right of the commission to order the latter course was challenged by the respondents on the ground that it was beyond the scope of the federal trade commission act and in reality was a dissolution proceeding authorized only under the Sherman law. They also denied they were guilty of any improper busienss practices.

Asserting that "the purchase of theaters was the last step in carrying out respondent's conspiracy to restrain interstate trade," Mr. Fuller's brief cited that the commission had issued such orders in other cases and that the courts had upheld them as "provisional" with the Circuit Court of Appeals having "original jurisdiction with power to enter a decree fixing the rights of the parties."

Physicians Open Health Audit Campaign Here

Urge Periodic Examinations to Prolong Life.

Seeds of a nation-wide campaign to promote the habit of periodic health examinations were sown at the opening meetings of the annual conference of state medical association secretaries here yesterday.

Speaking at the principal session last night, Dr. William D. Haggard, president of the American Medical association, declared the movement to be "the most forward-looking medical effort of the century." It will be the chief goal of the association during the coming year, he stated.

"By wiping out disease and infant mortality, we have increased the longevity of life from twenty to fifty-five years," he said. "Now we are aiming to aid in preserving health for the man of middle age by giving him a physical audit at regular intervals."

"The doctor alone does not benefit from the idea. In the end, the patient comes to him anyway, and often in an incurable stage. The new slogan is 'get the disease before it gets you.'"

Technical aspects of the examination plan were discussed by Drs. Alec N. Thomson, Orrin Sage Wightman and Anna M. Richardson, all of New York City. The reports were followed by a general discussion.

This morning a demonstration of a model physical examination will be conducted by Dr. Charles Elliot of Chicago. Later in the day will come a discussion of methods of "selling" the examination to the public through boards of health, local medical associations, and general publicity. The speakers will include Dr. R. R. Ferguson, Chicago; Dr. Hoyt Dearholt, Milwaukee; Dr. Elliot B. Edie, Uniontown, Pa., and Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, Hartford, Conn.

The conference will close with a final series of technical lectures this evening. The sessions are being held at the headquarters of the American Medical association at 535 North Dearborn street.

The Question.

Do modern women, with bobbed hair and abbreviated attire, obtain the same respect from men that they did when hair and dress were longer?

Where Asked.

State street bridge.

The Answers.

Harry Watson, Y. M. C. A. hotel, clerk.—Yes. Times have changed, and I don't see why it shouldn't be the same way with styles. Human nature has changed, apparently. We are not content to drift along year after year in the same manner and channel. We must always have something new.

H. R. Pace, 911 Sherman avenue, Evanston, commercial agent.—I am a married man, and I don't think much about those things. Women of today are probably just as good as they ever were. The short dress may not have the dignity of the long dress, but this is made up for in chic and neatness.

A. J. Lange, 541 North Leamington avenue, policeman.—Yes, providing they don't go to extremes. I don't believe women ever dressed in a more attractive manner than at the present time. Always some few have to overdo a good thing, instances of which we see every summer, but that doesn't affect the rule.

August DeMar, 821 Washtenaw avenue, chauffeur.—Yes. I liked them both ways, but they really look prettier now than ever. It is really no wonder many young men leave home. It must be the easiest kind of a thing for girls to get married these days. And you can't blame the men.

R. J. Johnson, 4431 North Kenneth avenue, printing salesman.—Yes and no. Still they are a whole lot healthier than they were years ago, and they will undoubtedly live longer. And they certainly enjoy life far better and get far more out of it than any time in all history.

Students Vote Down Military Training at City College of N. Y.

New York, Nov. 20.—[Special.]—The much talked of three day referendum at the College of the City of New York ended today with an overwhelming vote against the continuance of the military courses prescribed in the curriculum.

The students cast 2,092 ballots against the courses and only 345 in favor of retaining them, but President Sidney Emezes called attention to the fact that only approximately 75 per cent of the student body had expressed an opinion. He said he had thought the vote against the courses would be much bigger.

"The issue must not be understood as a choice of patriotism or pacifism," he continued. "It is just a matter of a lot of college young men being opposed to a prescription. College boys always are opposed to some prescription or other.

"Of course the faculty and trustees will consider the petition. As to patriotism, however, our boys are as patriotic as any group of American young boys and they showed that in the war."

Dr. Frederick B. Robinson, dean of the school of business and civic administration, was equally anxious that the patriotism of the student body should not be questioned. He declared the college was "the first institution to offer practical service to the government during the war period."

Player Gordon, Composer Stock Share Honors

Work for Solo Violin and Orchestra Acclaimed.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Why go outside of the Chicago Symphony orchestra for the big events of orchestral music? Conductor Frederick Stock was the composer and Concertmaster Jacques Gordon the interpreter of a magnificent work for solo violin and orchestra yesterday afternoon, a concerto in D minor. One may fully realize the futility of banging on the tin pan of chauvinism, but really, when you come to think of it, what other orchestra can show a like record?

This concerto of Mr. Stock's is not new by several years and at least two previous performances, but I, for one, never fully appreciated it until yesterday. I had admired its spacious contours, its depth, its fineness of conception, but here for the first time there was reason to feel that acquaintance with it meant warmth and friendliness.

This was beyond question due to Mr. Gordon's playing. It takes two persons to put over a big piece of music, one to write it and another to interpret it, and the bigger the work the bigger the two must be. Mr. Gordon measured up to the necessary specifications; he had the technical dexterity, the fine, commanding tone, and more than these, the breadth of view that such a work requires.

Applause rose and rose again, and it was, as it should have been, well divided between the two men responsible. Mr. Gordon was called back to the stage half a dozen times, and when Mr. Stock finally mounted the stand for the last number an extra storm made him lay down his baton and face the audience all over again.

So all was happiness and good cheer, a state of mind that had been developed from the first. Mr. Stock began the performance with Chausson's Symphony, a gorgeous piece, one of the finest of its kind, and continued with a novelty, Bela Bartok's Dance Suite.

Unquestionably Paul Whiteman would have had a heavenly time if he had happened into Orchestra hall about this time, for the Bartok piece classifies as Hungarian jazz. It has lots of the qualities that Mr. Whiteman has been making public these last few years, the same sort of tone color and rhythms and snappiness. About the only difference is that Whiteman occasionally finds a better tune, though some of these folk melodies as played up by Bartok are by no means to be sneered at.

Then came the concerto, and finally the dances from Borodin's "Prince Igor," great things of their own kind, and played in a most stirring fashion.

* *

Testimonial Concert.

A testimonial concert will be given for Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge at Orchestra hall next Tuesday afternoon, the program to be the same as was played a few weeks ago at the opening of her new music auditorium in Washington, D. C. Mr. Stock will direct a small orchestra in works written for and dedicated to Mrs. Coolidge by Charles Martin Loeffler, Frederick Jacobi, Alfredo Casella, who will appear in the rendering of his own number, and Mr. Stock himself. Povla Frijsch will sing in the Loeffler and Jacobi works.

A concert for the benefit of St. Edmund's Episcopal church was played by Moissaye Boguslawski, pianist, at Kimball hall last night.

Last Resort.

I doubt whether I have ever experienced a much more embarrassing moment than I suffered one morning recently. My little daughter was taken suddenly sick about 10 a. m. I called several physicians, only to be told they were on their round of calls. Finally, as a last resort, I called a man whom we had met socially but had never employed professionally.

As soon as he came in he began to chat with the child by way of gaining her confidence. "So you wanted me to come and visit you this morning, did you?"

"No," answered Mary Elizabeth, honestly, "but all the other doctors mamma called were busy." E. T. A.

The Lady Apple.

The Burbanks of the apple orchards have been making over the Lady apple and presenting it to us thus early, or even back in Apple week, so that now we may have this daintiest of the apple species for our fruit and nut baskets of the Thanksgiving as well as of the Christmas time.

The Lady apple has half a dozen pretty names in French, and our old pomologists, when pomology was one of the most popular pursuits of the gentleman, described it with loving effort or perhaps extravagance.

"Old Downing" says: "An exquisite little dessert fruit, the pretty size and beautiful color of which render it an universal favorite. . . . Fruit quite small, but regularly formed and flat. Skin smooth and glossy, with deep red cheek, contrasting with a lively lemon yellow ground. Stalk of medium length and deeply inserted. Calyx small, sunk in a basin with small plaits. Flesh white, crisp, tender, and juicy, with a pleasant flavor."

That is "some" description and by no means all of what Downing writes. Among other things, he makes us wish we knew that variety of the apple with five prominent angles giving it the form of a star.

But our growers are doing new things with the Lady apple; yet not until this year has it appeared in November, perhaps. One grower, a year or two ago, sent his apples out with a nice little story headed "The Famous Lady Apples. Best eating when slightly mellowed about Christmas." The first paragraph of the story is quoted and reads: "The Lady apple originated in southern France over 300 years ago. In France most of the crop is converted into cider, which, when blended with grape juice, is made into champagne. Until late years few Lady apples have been grown in this country, and the limited output has been absorbed by the large fancy fruiterers of New York and Philadelphia."

Three Chicago Girls Set All Paris Talking with La Revue Negre

BY NANCY R——.

The chief event in the Parisian theatrical world this autumn is the product of three well known Chicago girls. It is what we would call a "Colored Review," and which the French term "La Revue Negre." It was first put on at the Elysées Palace theater and is now being moved to another playhouse because the Parisians dote on it so they don't want to let it go.

It is organized, designed, arranged, gotten together, dressed, and scenically set by Dr. E. C. Dudley's three daughters, Mrs. Daniel Reagan (Caroline Dudley), Miss Katherine Dudley, and Mrs. Henry Harvey (Dorothy Dudley). The singing and dancing and prancing bucks and dusky maidens from south of Mason and Dixon's line have taken the French capital by storm and, if rumor be true, have been in turn taken by storm by gay Paree. There is no color line there.

Here's hey for old Chicago that can give Paris a sensation! Who'd have thought it!

◆

As to one of our sensations here at home, the three thousand souls to be invited to the Arts ball at the Congress on the eighteenth of next month are all requested to appear in costumes. As Thomas Wood Stevens, director of the pageant for the ball, remarked at a meeting this week, if it's to become an annual affair, with real standards, set them high for this year's party. Start something worth while, and other years will go and do likewise.

But as three thousand souls selecting costumes for such a gathering might not all realize what is and what isn't appropriate (look to the last Batik ball for proof!) there's to be a quite efficient committee at the door to pass on the garb of each arrival. A society leader, a business man, an artist, and a commercial artist will be members of the committee, and if you are allowed to go on the ballroom floor without a significant tap on the arm you may rest assured your costume has the stamp of approval. You won't be made to feel that you're running the gauntlet, but you will be doing just that.

Day's News in Society

The portrait of Harold F. McCormick in the exhibition of paintings by Baroness Violet Beatrice Wenner, which opened with a reception for the artist at the Dunbar galleries yesterday afternoon, held the most prominent place in the collection, and the subject of the painting was among the most prominent of those who came to view the display. Mr. McCormick received with the baroness, who was gowned in black crêpe and wore a large picture hat of black velvet and gold lace. Some of the other portraits displayed included those of Otto H. Kahn, Lord Robert Cecil, Nora Bayes, the actress; Prof. Clairmont Jurgean of Paris and Vienna, and Mrs. Lois Kissam of Great Neck, L. I.

The Junior league will give its second performance of "Alice in Wonderland" at the Playhouse at 10:30 o'clock this morning. There will be two more Saturday morning performances before the play is changed.

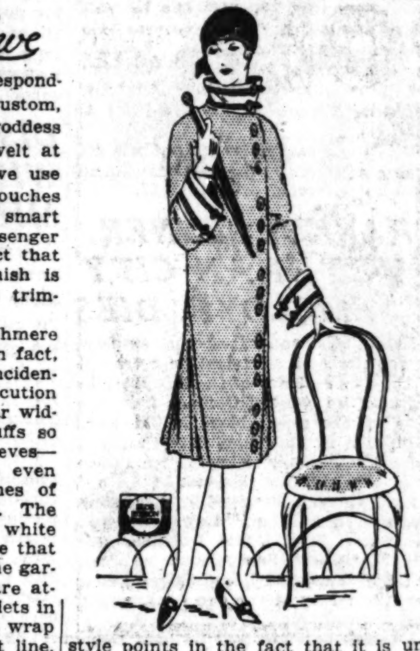
White Kid Sets Off a Coat of Royal Blue

by Corinne Lowe



NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Following a primitive custom, we sacrifice many a kid to the goddess of fashion. I have already dwelt at much length upon the extensive use of metalized kids for trimming touches on gowns and coats and today's smart coat, worn by a returning passenger from Europe, illustrates the fact that neither a gold nor a silver finish is necessary for the chic of this trimming.

On this wrap of royal blue cashmere twill the collar and cuffs are, in fact, of white kid. Please notice incidentally, too, how dashing is the execution of both these details. The collar widening as it mounts and the cuffs so much wider than the narrow sleeves—these would attract attention even without those conclusive touches of red kid bands appearing on both. The bands of red kid are held by white bone buttons identical with those that negotiate the side fastening of the garment. In the latter case they are attached with red thread. Side godets in triangular formation deliver this wrap from being classified as straight line. The close fitting little hat of royal blue velvet is touched off with a bit of matching grosgrain ribbon.

This coat strikes one of the newest style points in the fact that it is unlined. For the resort collections many cloth coats escrew a lining altogether, and the same thing may be said of quite a few capes.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—The secretary of the navy and Mrs. Wilbur were the honor guests at dinner this evening of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Edward Hale Campbell.

Former Representative Henry Sherman E. Boutell and Mrs. Boutell, who spent the last two years in Europe, have returned and are guests of Mr and Mrs. Hugh Gates Boutell. They will sail for Genoa Dec. 9 and will spend the winter on the Italian Riviera.

Mrs. Oliver M. Spencer has issued invitations for the marriage of her daughter, Sarah, to Maj. Georges Thenault, assistant naval attaché of the French embassy, Saturday evening, Dec. 5, in Christ Episcopal church at St. Joseph, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Skinner have arrived in Washington from Paris, France, and are at the Shoreham. Mr. Skinner is American consul general in Paris.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Louise Burton Laidlaw made her formal debut today at an afternoon reception given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, at their home, 60 East 66th street. This was the first of a series of entertainments which have been arranged for the debutante. On Dec. 19 the younger friends of Miss Laidlaw will attend a dance in her honor.

A highly select group of society folk attended the at home Mr. and Mrs. Waldron Kintzing Post gave this afternoon at 290 Park avenue for the former's aunt, the Countess de Rodellec du Porzic.

Oliver Bishop Harriman, attaché of the American embassy in London, whose engagement to Miss Helen V. Michell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Michell of Philadelphia, was announced recently, arrived today on the Mauretania.

'Lonesome' Wonders Why Suitors Seem to Be Dance-Shy

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Why is it none of the boys like me?" is Lonesome's unhappy appeal. "They talk politely and take me to shows, but when a dance comes along they stay away. It isn't my dancing, because I am considered a good dancer. Maybe it is because I am heavier than the average girl. Can this be it? I lost a wonderful fellow, I suspect, through this. He took me to a show, and afterward we went dancing. He left my home earlier than usual, and I haven't heard from him again."

It's hard to determine on such scant information just why Lonesome is not more popular. At that, though, if she is taken to shows frequently, she must have the possibilities of becoming quite a favorite.

◆

It's probably due to the dancing floor preference for a lightweight and fleet-footed partner. I have known girls who thought they were excellent dancers. In reality they were not. Convinced of their own perfection, they remained blissfully ignorant of the real cause of their being wallflowers.

First thing, Lonesome, I'd make sure about how well I danced. I'd pay a professional to tell me the truth and to help me get about more nimbly if the verdict were against me.

And in the meantime I'd get rid of the excess flesh. Young men are a bit cruel in their criticisms of other young men's dancing partners. It might make them dance-shy of you if comments on your size were heard. Then, too, if you are heavy, you probably are a bit harder to tow around the polished floor than you would be minus, say, an excess 20 or 30 pounds, or whatever the weight may be.

◆

There is simply no gainsaying the fact that young men prefer to be seen with a girl who is smart looking and pretty. All may not be able to answer the last requirement, but smart looking will serve as well. And, to be smart looking nowadays, you cannot go about weighing more than you need to.

Learn to dance extremely well. Be content with nothing less, if dancing and dancing partners mean much to your happiness.

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

Two materials would combine well in this pretty dress. It is slashed in the center front at the neck, and rolled. The two piece, circular skirt is attached to the waist in a scalloped outline.

The pattern, 2599, comes in sizes 16 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 2 yards of 40 inch dark material with 2 yards of 36 inch light material.

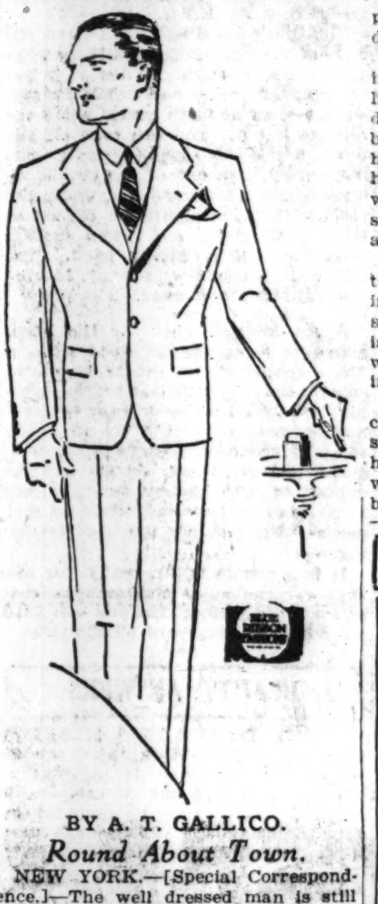
MEN'S FASHIONS



BY A. T. GALLICO.

Round About Town.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The well dressed man is still round about town, but for the most part you must get indoors to see what he is wearing in the line of handsome clothing. However, one sees some pleasing overcoat combinations these days.

From my notebook, I cull the pleasing effect made by a young man who had on this simple garb. He wore a dark Oxford gray overcoat, single breasted and slightly form fitting. His hat was a black derby that obviously had been selected to fit his face. He wore black street shoes. As an outstanding note of color he was wearing a striped tie of navy blue and silver.

In the lobby of a Fifth avenue hotel, I noted a well set up man dressed in a single breasted business suit of silver gray, which shade, by the way, is most popular these days. His shirt was of white linen with a small almost indiscernible lavender figure on it.

His tie was striped, combining two colors, lavender and blue. With the silver of the suit, the result was most harmonious. He wore in his pocket a white linen handkerchief with a blue border. His shoes were black.

TREASURY WAITS RULING ON VAST REFUND OF TAXES

Invested Capital Involved in Significant Decision.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Until a ruling is obtained in the courts the treasury will refuse to accept a decision of the board of tax appeals, which, according to unofficial estimates, might necessitate refunds to taxpayers running into the hundreds of millions of dollars.

The decision is that in the case of the Guaranty Construction company of New York City, in which the board of tax appeals held to be illegal a practice followed by the internal revenue bureau in computing invested capital throughout the five year period from 1917 to 1921, when the wartime excess profits tax was in operation.

Under the bureau's practice every corporation was required to deduct from its surplus account, in computing its invested capital, federal income and excess profits taxes for the preceding year payable during the current taxable year.

Gist of New Ruling.

In the Guaranty Construction company case it was held that "surplus at the beginning of any taxable year may not be reduced in computing invested capital on account of taxes payable within the year upon the income of the preceding taxable year."

C. R. Nash, assistant commissioner of internal revenue, said today that a considerable sum of money would be involved if it became necessary to make these refunds. He said that he doubted, however, if total refunds would reach any such sum as estimated by a Chicago accountant, who figured that for the first year of the operation of the excess profits tax the refund would amount to $61 for every $1,000 collected, $39 for every $1,000 collected in the second year, and $21 for every $1,000 collected in the following three years.

Refunds on this basis would amount to something like $100,000,000 for the first year of the operation of the excess profits tax, $108,000,000 for the second year, $20,000,000 for the third year, $20,000,000 for the fourth year, and $7,000,000 for the fifth year, or a total of approximately $255,000,000.

Thinks It Will Be Less.

Mr. Nash said that while he has no exact figures, he thought the decision would not be any more far reaching than that of the Supreme court in the stock dividend case a few years ago. Actual refunds made under that decision totaled about $70,000,000.

As yet the internal revenue bureau has not announced either its acquiescence or its refusal to acquiesce in the decision of the board of tax appeals. It was made clear, however, that, in view of the great importance of the case and the large amount of money involved, it is a certainty that the internal revenue bureau will carry the case into the federal district court and thence to the Circuit Court of Appeals and finally to the Supreme court.

Wonder Why She Can't Have Nails Like Other Girls

by Antoinette Donnelly

It is the exceptional women one sees nowadays whose nails look as though they were not treated regularly to a manicure. I learn from an authoritative source that a recent investigation discloses that over 90 per cent of women do their own manicuring. The claim is not that the expense makes it prohibitive to patronize the beauty parlors, but the time involved is the stickler.

There is a percentage that goes every once in a while to have the professional work done and another percentage that has it done regularly, but these two classes are vastly outshadowed in number by the home manicurist. So, when a young correspondent writes that she is "unhappy because she cannot have nice nails like other girls," we just naturally wonder why she cannot have them.

It does not require a prohibitive expenditure for a manicure outfit, and if a couple of minutes are given the nails daily, with a regular weekly manicure, the hands will be always presentable.

Manufacturers have met the demand of the home manicurist in a most satisfactory way with the necessary tools and polishes, done up in tidy little boxes containing all that is needed for the job. One does not even have to suffer the broken and untidy cuticle or "hangnail" that used to discourage the nonprofessional. There are cuticle removers on the market that do away with the need of cutting the cuticle at the base of the nails.

The thin fold of scarf skin about the base of the nail is like a selvage edge of a piece of cloth. When it is cut or torn, the whole nail gradually ravels out—just as cloth ravels when the selvage is cut. You can take off the hard, dry edges quickly, easily, and harmlessly with one of the cuticle removers. Work around and under the nails with an orange stick dipped in the liquid, rinse, and when drying, push the cuticle gently back. The dead particles will wipe away, leaving the nail trim and even.

About all you need for the home manicure is an orange wood stick, a file, a couple of tiny emery boards to smooth the nail surface, a polish—powder or liquid; whichever your prefer—cuticle remover, and a bit of cotton to apply around the edges of the nail; also a polisher, if you use the powder, a bowl of warm soapy water, a nail brush, and perhaps nail white to give the nail tip a dainty touch of grooming.

It is a simple outfit, really, for one that returns such dividends in that self-satisfied feeling that you can keep your hands aboveboard all the time.

JAPS AROUSED BY CHINESE VICTORY IN CUSTOMS FIGHT

Peking Leader Promises End to Disputed Tax.

BY RODERICK MATHESON.

[Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.]

TOKIO, Nov. 20.—Commercial circles in Japan, especially the cotten men of Osaka, are extremely nervous over what many consider a complete surrender by the powers to China through granting a practically unconditional customs autonomy on China's bare pledge to abolish the likin [internal tax], which a majority of observers believe to be an absolute impossibility for many years.

The resolution adopted in Peking yesterday is in direct contradiction to the words spoken here by Silas H. Strawn, the American delegate; Eki Tioki, the Japanese delegate, and Sir J. W. R. MacLeay, the British delegate. It is believed the delegates surrendered because they feared outbreaks against foreigners in China, with the repudiation of all treaties, as urged by the Russians.

Pledges End of Tax.

PEKING, Nov. 20.—(AP)—China recognizes a moral obligation to abolish the likin, her ancient tax on goods in inland transit, at the same time that she achieves the autonomy in tariff matters which the Chinese customs conference has pledged to give her beginning Jan. 1, 1929, Dr. C. T. Wang, chief of the Chinese delegation, said today. Dr. Wang was discussing the fact that the conference's pledge made yesterday was unconditional, China merely making a simultaneous promise that the likin would be abolished.

"The breaking down of our ancient trade barriers is more vital to us Chinese than to foreigners," he said. "China has pledged her word to make abolition of the likin and putting the new national tariff law into effect coincidental. If provincial authorities obstruct the abolition, and thereby delay the full benefits of the new tariff law, Chinese public opinion will find a way to remove the obstructionists.

"Obstruction in the provinces will elicit the same degree of public indignation toward the Chinese provincial authorities that recently has been directed against the foreigners who withheld autonomy from China. Furthermore, a sense of fair dealing will compel China to keep faith with the powers, whose good will is essential to her."

Dr. Wang said he expected little difficulty regarding the interim tariff rates to be levied prior to 1929.

TICKLE YOUR BABY, MAKE HIM LAUGH; HELPS HIS HEALTH

LONDON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—If you would have strong, healthy children, tickle them when they are babies and make them laugh. This is the advice of Sir Harry E. Bruce-Porter, a noted specialist in children's diseases. The advice was given before the members of the National Society of Day Nurseries.

"It is a good thing to tickle babies," Sir Harry said. "It makes them laugh and thus they expand their lungs and breathe fresh air."

Continuing, Sir Harry contended that it was wrong in families where there are children to cease all noise when the babies are asleep. It was much better, he believed, that the child should be prepared for the rough and tumble of later life through being allowed to sleep with noise going on everywhere.

FRANK A. BENNER, VETERAN CITY EMPLOYE, DIES

Frank A. Benner, veteran employe of the fire and electrical departments of the city and son of the late Mathias Benner, fire chief of Chicago from the time of the great blaze of '71 until 1879, died in his home, 2426 Flournoy street, yesterday, following an illness of several months. He was 58.

Mr. Benner is survived by three sons, Mathias, Frank, and Lawrence; two daughters, Mrs. Marie Dolehide and Mrs. Marguerite Samuelson; two brothers, Lawrence and Lieut. Edward Benner, the latter of the fire department, and a sister, Mrs. Cornelia Noll.

Funeral services will be held today at the Precious Blood church. Burial will be in Calvary.

IDENTIFY MAN DEAD IN DEPOT.

Papers found in the pocket of a man about 60 years old who died suddenly in the Union station while waiting for a train late yesterday afternoon indicated that he was A. Corbett of 5419 Forest Glen avenue.

PROF. P. F. PECK, NORTHWESTERN, DIES IN HOSPITAL

DR. P. F. PECK.

Dr. Paul Frederick Peck, professor of history at Northwestern university, who joined the faculty this fall, died of embolism yesterday afternoon at the Evanston hospital.

Prof. Peck, who had been at Grinnell college, Iowa, for twenty years, was invited to Northwestern university to take the place temporarily made vacant by the absence of Prof. Isaac J. Cox. Prof. Peck is survived by a widow and two daughters, 11 and 14 years old.

Dr. Peck was born at Grinnell, Ia., July 15, 1873. He received the degree of A. B. from Grinnell in 1897. Then he attended the law school at Iowa university, took graduate work at the University of Chicago, and received his doctor's degree in history in 1901. He married Grace Parsons of Grinnell, Aug. 15, 1907. He was professor of history at the Pennsylvania Normal school, Bloomsburg, for four years.

DISINHERITED, SHE WINS CUSTODY OF MILLIONAIRE SON

New York, Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Long litigation through which Mrs. Mary Casey Thorne has fought for the custody of her son and the $3,000,000 estate of his banker father, Joel Wolfe Thorne, ended in a compromise today. Thirteen year old Joel Wolfe Thorne Jr. was made her ward by an order of Surrogate Foley.

The settlement of the case, the surrogate's decision revealed, came through agreement between the contesting parties, after litigation that began with Mr. Thorne's death in May, 1924, a few hours after the courts had granted him a divorce and the custody of his son, held under the care of a paid guardian in Denver.

The agreement reached between Mrs. Thorne and her husband's relatives included the appointment of a neutral guardian to share with her the charge of the child. Surrogate Foley's order named Edward S. Dore.

Mrs. Thorne had disclaimed interest in financial considerations, although she herself inherited nothing from her husband.

YOUNG C. P. TAFT SEES BIG FIELD FOR Y. M. C. A.

"Wherever boys congregate — in schools, in churches, or in gangs—there is work for the Y. M. C. A.," Charles P. Taft, son of the former President, told members of the board of managers of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. at a luncheon meeting yesterday at the University club.

Mr. Taft is chairman of the boys' work committee of the association in Cincinnati. He completed last month his term as president of the International convention of the Y. M. C. A. and is the youngest man ever elected to that office. He is 28 years old.

This year, during which the organization is functioning under a reorganized plan which eliminates the governing board and by which the local instead of the national branches hold the balance of power, should be one of the most prosperous in its history, Mr. Taft said. The appeal should be made for men to serve, not to receive service.

In the Y. M. C. A., as in other Christian organizations, he pointed out, the greatest need today is for a personnel of real workers — not for money or buildings.

O'BRIEN WEDS AGAIN; DIVORCED ONLY MONTH AGO

W. W. O'Brien, criminal lawyer and member of the firm of Stewart & O'Brien, was married yesterday in a civil ceremony at Crown Point, Ind., to Miss Janice J. Jones, 5211 Winthrop avenue, a former secretary to Lawrence Whiting, president of the Boulevard Bridge bank.

Both the attorney and his bride have been married before. Mrs. Zoe O'Brien was granted a divorce last month.

Miss Jones was divorced from her former husband in July of this year.

SEVEN IN FATAL PARTY SHOOTING ARE ACQUITTED

Seven youths, accused of the murder of David J. Phillips, 22 years old, at a party in his home at 457 North Harding avenue, last March 22, were acquitted by a jury in Judge Michael L. McKinley's court last night.

Witnesses testified the seven defendants had attempted to break into the party at Phillips' home and a fight ensued. Two shots were fired by James J. O'Callahan, who is now a fugitive. Phillips was instantly killed. O'Callahan's companions were indicted for the murder.

Miss Lillian Newman, 19 years old, 3138 Warren avenue, testifying for the defense, said she saw the victim's brother, John J. Phillips, hide a revolver after the shooting.

The seven acquitted were: Joseph Duffy, 21, 1748 North Mansfield avenue; Fred T. Smith, 21, 3051 West 5th avenue; Gordon Speechley, 24, 1322 North Lockwood avenue; Thomas McElligott, 20, 734 North Kenneth avenue; Emmett O'Keefe, 20, 133 North Menard avenue; John Brennan, 20, 2942 Walnut street; Bernard Mulvey, 24, 3049 West 5th avenue.

PITTSBURGH MAN FOUND DEAD ON WINONA AVENUE

Found on the sidewalk in front of 1108 Winona avenue early yesterday, the body of a well dressed man was identified later in the day as that of John Feeney, of Pittsburg, said to be a follower of the races. In his pockets was a large quantity of drugs.

Three men, evidently intoxicated, had been seen in an alley nearby just prior to the finding of the body.

Frank Looney, of the Grassmere hotel, who identified the body after his telephone number was found in the dead man's pockets, said that he had last seen Feeney at the Aurora races.

FOUND DEAD FROM GAS.

Alois Bochal, 41, of 9016 Dauphin avenue was found asphyxiated by gas in his room last night. On learning that he was estranged from his wife the police believe he committed suicide.

ROSEHILL MAUSOLEUM

An Investment in Respect

THE addition now being built to the Rosehill Mausoleum makes it possible for many, heretofore unable to do so, to afford this exquisite tribute of real respect to their departed.

The prices for space are as low as $450, for a single crypt with private family rooms available at correspondingly moderate figures.

The structural stability of this magnificent memorial edifice is assured for all time due to the creation recently of the "Mausoleum Building Special Reserve Fund."

Inquiries will receive prompt and courteous attention without imposing any obligation.

Station ELMER Broadcasting Radio Views

For Stations, Fans, and Everybody.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Of big things there was none; of interesting things there were some.

Sooner or later every listener tunes in a familiar station and the incoming tones, not having the usual familiar ring, he imagines he is hearing a special broadcast, and gets fooled. In fact the chances are we all thoroughly enjoy getting fooled in this manner. The incoming tones from the Oriole orchestra at WEBH, 7:35, fooled the writer in this manner, while the orchestra was playing "Capriccio Espagnole" by Rimsky-Korsakow. It didn't sound like the same orchestra. Making inquiry of Announcer Boniel, I learn that the orchestra has been rearranged before the microphone, the violins and piano being near and the saxophone group being placed in the rear. This writer believes that to be in the line of progress.

I seem to be in a talking mood, so here's some more talk: Announcement was made by WFKB that that station had changed its policy, eliminating jazz and giving classical and semi-classical numbers only. There is no station better qualified to undertake this difficult task successfully. Everything is favorable.

One suggestion may perhaps be acceptable: Since other stations repeat short classical numbers so often that most of them are over familiar to us, it might be in order to present the longer works complete, when possible. I believe the musical appreciation of the present radio audience would justify that course.

The Coliseum radio show radio technicians should make a special effort next year to correct whatever caused poor reception of the radio show broadcasts this year.

◆

WLIB, a clear toned station, was presenting a typical semi-classical program last night at 9:30, but the reception was not satisfactory. The incoming tones from every station broadcasting from the Coliseum studio are muffled, not clear, and not at all satisfactory.

No one could have heard the after dinner speeches at the University of Wisconsin club football dinner, WMAQ, 8, without being filled with pre-Chicago-Wisconsin football game enthusiasm. Coach George Little didn't care whether the radio audience heard his particular speech or not, just so he kindled a big blazing fire in the Wisconsin eleven.

We also heard Judge "Ikey" Kaul and the other speakers, the Wisconsin brass band, the singing by the diners, the hurrahs, the rah-rahs—everything. Just the same—hurrah for today's winner!

P. C. LOEBER LEFT AFTER 20 YEARS, WIFE SAYS; SUES

While Paul C. Loeber, clubman, lives in luxury on $50,000 a year, his wife, Mrs. Norma L. Loeber, 6314 Lakewood avenue, and two children have only $200 a month he gives them, according to a bill for separate maintenance filed yesterday.

Mrs. Loeber declared her husband deserted her in October, 1924, just twenty years after their marriage. She asked for substantial alimony.

Loeber, who lives at the Webster hotel, is president of the Edgewater and Glenacre Golf clubs. He is a member of the Chicago Athletic association, the Chicago Riding and other clubs. He is engaged in the real estate business, with offices in the Loeber building, 118 South Clinton street, which he owns.

INSANITY COURT GIVES RUM FOE TO WIFE'S CARE

F. Woody Hockaday, 41 year old president of an automobile supply house in Wichita, Kas., was paroled to the custody of his wife yesterday by Judge Biggs of the psychopathic court after alienists testified he was suffering from dementia praecox. He will be placed in a private sanitarium. Hockaday, who came to Chicago to attend the Anti-Saloon league convention, was taken to the psychopathic hospital after he had inflicted wounds on his face and hands.

LABORER FOUND ASPHYXIATED.

Simon Radonitz, 50 years old, 1526 Wright street, a laborer, was found asphyxiated by gas yesterday by Nicholas Schmidt, who lived in the same building.

2—WEAO [294], Columbus. Illinois vs. Ohio State.

2—WMAQ [448], Chicago. Chicago vs. Wisconsin, also KYW, WMBB.

2—W-G-N [370], Chicago. Northwestern vs. Notre Dame.

CARTIER field in South Bend is the location of the W-G-N "mikes" today, and the Northwestern-Notre Dame football game will be on the air today from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel starting at 1:45 p. m. Paul Neal will cover the game, describing the scene and detailing the contest play by play, as Quin A. Ryan will be miking the Michigan-Minnesota battle over WLIB, the Liberty station. W-G-N is enabled to broadcast this afternoon's game through the courtesy and co-operation of WSBT, the South Bend Tribune station.

Immediately on the conclusion of the game W-G-N will begin its football score service, with broadcasts of the running scores of all important games being put on the air at fifteen-minute intervals, on the hour, half hour and quarter hour. This will continue until 5:30 p. m., and will be followed at 6 p. m. by a complete recheck of all important scores at 6:01 p. m., immediately after the evening time signals.

The latter portion of this evening's popular 8 to 9 hour features a female trio new to W-G-N listeners, offering an excellent group of selections. Lassie O'Connor, contralto; Marian Capps, soprano, and Fannie Unger, mezzo-soprano. Edward Benedict at the Kimball organ will interpolate offerings. During the first part of the hour the Drake concert ensemble and the Blackstone string quintet.

DETAILS OF TODAY'S W-G-N PROGRAM.

[Wave length, 370 meters.]

12:40 to 1:45 p. m.—Luncheon concert by the Drake concert ensemble and the Blackstone string quintet.

1:45 p. m.—Broadcast of Notre Dame-Northwestern game direct from Cartier field in South Bend.

4:00 p. m. and every fifteen minutes thereafter—W-G-N football score service.

5:30 p. m.—Skeezix time for the children by Miss Laura Hooper of the National Kindergarten and Elementary college.

5:57 p. m.—Time signals by the Elgin National Watch company; recheck of day's football scores.

6:20 p. m.—Closing stock quotations by Paul H. Davis & Co.

6:30 to 7 p. m.—Dinner concert by the Drake concert ensemble and the Blackstone string quintet.

8:00 to 9:00 p. m.—Drake concert ensemble and Blackstone string quintet, Edward Benedict at the Kimball organ, Lassie O'Connor, contralto; Marian Capps, soprano; Fannie Unger, mezzo-soprano.

10:00 to 11:00 p. m.—Correll and Gosden in songs; Jack Chapman and his Drake hotel dance orchestra, the Blackstone hotel dance orchestra.

WLIB FEATURES

CHIEF among the day's activities from WLIB, the Liberty magazine station, will be this afternoon's broadcast of the Michigan-Minesota football game direct from Ferry field in Ann Arbor. Quin A. Ryan will be at the Liberty microphone, detailing the battle play by play, and describing the scene in his own popular fashion. WLIB goes on the air at 1 p. m. Chicago time, with preliminary announcements.

Lots of joy is promised listeners during the two snappy hours of Hamm frolic and syncopation, between 7 and 8 and 9 and 10 o'clock this evening, when Charlie Correll and Freeman Gosden, the whirlwind jazz team, unleash their thoroughbred ukeleles and join in the fun. Frieda Leonard and Jewel Barnett, the WLIB humming birds, will also be heard during both of these hours, crooning their popular "Yodelin' Blues" and other selections. Even the staid Kimball organ peps up during these two sessions under the masterful hand of Edward Benedict and shows a new sound or two in the way of jazz.

RADIO ARTISTS

LAURA HOOPER. [On W-G-N.]

OSCAR S. BARKER. [On WLIB.]

WLIB's final hour on the ether starts at 11 o'clock and closes at midnight. Chicago's best dance music is its feature attraction, with Ray O'Hara's Crillon cafe orchestra, directed by "Hy" Groves, Jack Chapman and his Drake hotel dance orchestra, and the Blackstone hotel dance orchestra filling your loud speaker. Evelyn Simmons and Florence Clifford will insert a ditty or two in this hour.

Tomorrow afternoon WLIB gets underway at 5 o'clock with a program by the Metropolitan Glee club, their first this year on the air. Stuart Barker is the director of the club. The soloists during their program tomorrow afternoon will be Charles Stanley, baritone, the Metropolitan male quartet, and Leon Lichtenfeld, cellist. Their program tomorrow afternoon will be as follows:

The Old Road	Scott
Until the Dawn	Parks
The Soldiers' Chorus	Gounod
Swing Along	Cook
Prayer Perfect	Stenson

NATHANIEL BALDWIN SPEAKS AGAIN!

Here is news the whole radio world has waited to hear. Baldwin units are now available to Chicago and the middle west. Our office in the Burnham Building carries a complete stock of head phones, speakers and parts. A new policy of handling orders gives life and action to the term "service." Shipments are now made the day the orders are received.

There is no longer a valid excuse for accepting anything less than perfect reception. Genuine Baldwin units have stepped up to challenge the counterfeiters who are making capital of the wonderful reputation Baldwin enjoys.

While this counterfeiting is a compliment to Baldwin's perfect design, it is detrimental to radio as a whole—and certainly unfair to the unsuspecting public who pays the penalty of the deception.

There is only one original Nathaniel Baldwin Unit. And it is still made by Nathaniel Baldwin—the man who first gave radio clear, modeled reception. The basic patents that permitted Baldwin to lead the field at the start still keep for this unit certain features which no other speaker has been able to even approach.

Baldwin puts a hand behind the ear of your radio. It catches signals that ordinary speakers miss entirely. It rolls out bass and treble notes as though they are moulded. It does things for reception that you need not hope for in any other unit. That is because Baldwin controls basic patents that no other manufacturer can use.

So, if you endure anything short of this marvelous reception, YOU are the loser. Original Nathaniel Baldwin units are now so easy to get—and the cost is within the reach of every purse.

The skeptic who thinks these facts merely sales talk needs but to trust his ear to become convinced. Hear a Baldwin alongside any other speaker made. That is the proof.

We will send you the inside story of Nathaniel Baldwin speakers and head phones if you will return the coupon below. When we send it, we will tell you the nearest place to hear the marvelous reception of the Baldwin unit.

ELMER MAREK.

Columbus, O., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Red the Great, the most spectacular red head or any other kind of a head the grid game has ever known, bows himself out of the collegiate picture tomorrow afternoon when his own Illini give battle to Ohio State.

And it will be an epic bow, for, given the weather that seems likely, 72,000 spectators, larger than any crowd at any previous conference battle, will pay Grange tribute for better or worse as he trots from the field to pull off his famous "77" for the last time.

What he may do in those last couple hours before he turns in "77" that it may be preserved for future greats to gaze upon doesn't matter. That it is the farewell of the game's great is enough. Even speculation as to the outcome of the struggle has been forgotten in the excitement occasioned by the red head's start down the corridors of time.

Red and Zup Weary.

As the famous sorrel top drew closer to his varsity swan song of end runs he was still smiling and saying as little as possible. When the Orange and Blue team arrived here at noon he was beseiged by interviewers. What about pro football, Red, and what about C. C. Pyle was all he heard. And he kept on smiling, but behind the smile you could see that his unparalleled fame is bearing him down and that he'll be glad when it is over.

Another who will breathe a sigh of relief when Grange moves into the ranks of heroes of the past tomorrow afternoon will be Coach Bob Zuppke, the man who brought the players to heights no other has attained. With his ace the center of a storm of rumors and denials for the last week, Zup has found it impossible to keep the minds of his players on the job before them. They have forgotten football to share Grange's worries, and the earnest Zup fears for what may happen to them when the Scarlet and Gray swoop down on the morrow.

Zup Almost Sings in Despair.

Zup did his best to restore the waning morale by driving them through a long practice this afternoon. He chased them up and down the field and prodded them with "you're a bunch of singers, not football players." Even in the dressing room after the work out he howled about their carefree attitude and wound up by saying, "Why, you've almost got me on the verge of breaking out in song."

With Zup seemingly worried about the mental attitude of his athletes, Coach Wilce added to the gloom with the customary bear reports. Karow the plunging full back, who calls signals, is not in shape, was one story, but he'll play. Elmer Marek, the fleet half back, is another cripple. But he'll probably play. Then there is a yarn that Rowan, an end, might be out, but nobody believed it.

Field in Fine Condition.

Barring rain during tonight, the stadium turf will be in perfect condition and that's what both teams are hoping for. Illinois wants it for the great Grange. Ohio wants it for Marek.

That Grange, unless his troubles have worn him out, will outrun Marek is conceded. That Karow's plunging and Marek's passing may be a stumbling block for the Illini also is conceded. But whatever happens and whoever wins the world will be listening for Grange's verdict as to whether or not he'll turn to pro football. And the verdict is promised as soon as he pulls himself out of old "77" for the last time.

"THREE A DAY" MAY GET RED IF HE'S NOT CAREFUL

Mr. Pyle Comes to Town to Talk It Over.

While reporters vainly sought the energetic Mr. Pyle, Champaign theater owner, who, 'tis said, holds some sort of a contract to exploit the cash value of Red Grange, Mr. Pyle was holding a secret, O very secret, conference in Chicago yesterday with C. L. Carrell, who runs a theatrical booking agency.

The conferences were so secret, so very secret, that Mr. Carrell couldn't remember last night of even seeing Mr. Pyle in town. But he was. He came in from Kokomo early yesterday morning. He spent the day investigating the possibilities of the three-a-day.

And out of his presence here came a new rumor. It said that Mr. Pyle is dickering for a vaudeville contract for Grange. This, for the time, took precedence over the other rumors, which have placed him on the roster of the Bears, in the movies, and thrilling the folk down in Florida.

Mysterious Mr. Pyle.

Mr. Pyle—it's C. C. Pyle of Champaign and Kokomo—dodged all around town in his effort to keep his dealings with the sorrel top ball carrier of Illinois all to himself. Maybe Mr. Pyle thinks the news, if there is any, of his 55-45 cash cut with Grange will explode upon the world as a great surprise.

And then maybe Mr. Pyle isn't quite sure whether Grange will stick by him. Maybe he fears Red will decide this afternoon when he quits the field at the end of the Ohio-Illinois game that he had better return to the classroom at Urbana.

Rumors Still Fly.

While Mr. Pyle was holding his secret conferences in Chicago the telegraph wires were hot with new angles on the Grange story. Some of these alleged that:

[1] Clyde Tuttle, treasurer of the Columbus, O., Tigers, pro football team, scheduled to play the Chicago Bears on the Sunday following Thanksgiving, has revised his contract with the Bears to provide for the financing of Grange as a member of the Bears. At least Mr. Tuttle says he has. The Sternaman brothers, who with George Halas run the Bears, say they never heard of Tuttle.

[2] Chris O'Brien, manager of the Chicago Cardinals, the Bears' opponents for Thanksgiving day, have been offered a flat guarantee of $6,000 for his share of the gate if he will waive his claims to a regular percentage.

[3] Tim Callahan, former Yale athlete, now interested in pro football, has made offers to eastern gridiron stars to turn pro and play a game against the Bears in Florida during the Christmas holidays. These stars include Oberlander of Dartmouth and Tyron of Colgate.

(4) Grange, accompanied by the once talkative Mr. Pyle, visited C. Harold Wills, president of the Wills-Sainte Claire Motor Car company of Detroit last June, to demand an automobile on the theory that the company owed Grange a car for mentioning his name in their advertisement. Mr. Wills, on advice of his lawyer, turned Red down.

It May Be Hot Air.

All these rumors may mean something, and they may be hot air. Grange, one of his friends said last night, may cross up the whole bunch of story tellers by deciding to go back to Illinois.

And he may not. He may play pro football with the Bears and he may go on the stage, and he may act for the screen.

Whatever he does, he's certainly caused a lot of talk this week.

MRS. HEATHCOTE DIES IN YORK, PA.

York, Pa., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Clifton E. Heathcote, wife of the Chicago National league baseball player, died today, from a complication of diseases after an illness of two weeks. She was twenty-six. She is survived, besides her husband, by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Beard, Chanceford township; one brother, Herbert Beard, York. The funeral will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at the home of her parents.

Plays Last Game for Illinois Today

Red Grange, wearing the famous "77" for the last time, plays today against Ohio. After the game Red, rumors say, will turn pro.

Coast Shouts 'Howdy, Iowa,' to Invaders

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HOWARD JONES.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—With shouts of "Howdy, Hawkeye!" ringing in their ears, the University of Iowa football eleven, in charge of Coach Burt Ingwersen, arrived here today to meet Southern California in the mammoth Coliseum tomorrow in one of the most colorful intersectional struggles of the year.

Among the welcoming throng were Howard Jones and Aubrey Devine, coach and captain, who were responsible for bringing to Iowa its first Big Ten football championship, in 1922. Jones is now coach of Southern California and Devine is an assistant.

80,000 to See Battle.

The struggle is attracting no end of interest here despite the fact California and Stanford will clash in the Yale-Harvard game of the Pacific coast at Palo Alto tomorrow. Athletic Director Gwynn Wilson of Southern California expects at least 80,000 fans to be in the stands at the opening whistle.

Despite its recent defeats by Wisconsin and Minnesota, the Hawkeyes cannot be considered easy for the Trojans. Iowa may spring just as sudden a surprise on the football world tomorrow as its defeat by Minnesota a week ago did.

Fry Out of Game.

Fry is not over the bruises he received in the Gopher game last Saturday and may not be injected into the battle unless Iowa is close to the Trojans' goal and ground needed badly for a touchdown.

Southern California has great power. It is practically the same team which defeated Missouri last year. Under the tutelage of Jones, this year's Trojan eleven will present a more versatile attack and there will be better coordination between line and backfield. Southern California and its supporters pride themselves on the fact the Trojans have never been defeated by an eastern invader. Penn State, Syracuse, and Missouri have fallen before the power of the local eleven.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Northwestern university's Wildcats will make their last stand of the fast waning 1925 gridiron season tomorrow, when they face the Notre Dame football army, both the infantry and cavalry branches, on Cartier field at Notre Dame.

Not many of the 22,000 ticket holders are giving Northwestern more than a fighting chance, but Coach Thistlethwaite, the Purple student body and Coach Rockne of Notre Dame are mindful of a fighting Northwestern team which only a couple of short weeks ago trampled the title hopes of a mighty Michigan eleven into the mud of Soldiers' field.

Last year a Northwestern team, inferior in many respects to the eleven which will take the field tomorrow, nearly handed Notre Dame, afterward national champion, a lacing at Soldiers' field. In that game Rockne started his infantry and the fighting Purple warriors battered the infantry back and scored two field goals before Rockne could rush his cavalry, led by the famous Four Horsemen, into the fray. Ultimately Notre Dame won the game, but only by a 13 to 6 margin.

This year Rockne isn't going to gamble, and it's well that he will not, for the Purple men are primed to win. They have been keyed for this final battle for the last six days and Coach Thistlethwaite for the first time this season seems satisfied that his Northwestern charges will give a good account of themselves.

The fight will be waged on a dry, fast field. The sod on Cartier field is firm and there will be solid footing for the capers of Ralph Baker, Whity White and Tiny Lewis, the Purple's star back field trio.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—There seems to be a feeling in Ann Arbor tonight that the invasion of the Minnesota football team tomorrow will be disastrous. Gen. Fielding H. Yost worked far into the night strengthening the Michigan ramparts to meet this invasion, but when he had finished and had quartered his men at the country club where they will rest until the hour of battle he seemed to lack that confidence that he usually shows on the eve of a crucial fight.

Part of the preparation was a pep meeting held tonight at the Yost field house. A pep meeting is supposed to do some good when a team is low in spirit, and the Michigan team's morale is far below normal and has been ever since it took the beating from Northwestern in the mud at Chicago two weeks ago.

Big Ten Title at Stake.

The conference championship will be at stake when the two teams meet on Ferry field tomorrow. If Minnesota wins, it will have a clear title, with victories over the Wolverines and Iowa and a tie with Wisconsin. If Michigan wins, it will share title honors with Northwestern.

Hosts of rooters accompanied by a 90 piece band will come clear over here from Minnesota to cheer the Gophers tomorrow. Many special trains will land the visiting throng, numbering something like 3,000, here before noon. It is easily seen that Minnesota expects to win, and the report is that the Gopher team is primed to top pitch and is confident.

Everybody here, including Mr. Yost, is talking with fear of the Minnesota shift perfected by Dr. Spears this fall. Yost doesn't think it is possible for any team to hop around as Minnesota does and still live up to the rules which require that players come to a dead stop before the ball is snapped. It is up to the officials to decide if the rule is violated, and they have about one-tenth of a second to make the decision.

The Minnesota team is quartered tonight over at Jackson.

Wolverines to Use Open Play.

To offset those shifty shifts, the Michigan plan of attack will be to rush the Gophers off their own feet with an open style of attack, varied by an occasional smash at the line by Bo Molenda, who can smash a line about as hard as any man who has been seen in the conference in years.

The Gophers ripped Iowa to pieces by smashing plays through the line, with the plunging Mr. Joesting carrying the ball most of the time, though ably assisted by Almquist and Murrell. Whether his style of attack will work against Michigan remains to be seen.

Michigan has a whale of a line, with Capt. Brown in the middle, Hawkins and Lovette at guards, and Edwards and R. Babcock at tackles. Brown, Hawkins, and Edwards have wrecked every attempt by other rival teams to break through.

A capacity crowd of 47,000 will watch the game. All seats are sold. The weather tonight is bright and the prediction is for clear and warm weather tomorrow. The field is a bit soggy, but far better than most of them have been this fall.

He'll Boot 'Em for the Badgers

Pete Barnum will do the punting when Wisconsin fails to gain against the Midway line today. He will play full back for the Badger invaders.

Boston Won't Get Excited; It's Only Yale and Harvard

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MARION CHEEK.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Among those who watch their world series baseball games, championship fights, and Big Three football matches—from the yonder end of a telegraph wire—there is usually a tendency to regard these celebrated events as miraculous doings comparable to the execution of a standing, sitting, backward flip-flop by the local courthouse at the scheduled time.

As you draw nigher to the site of the manifestation, however, you observe that the home life of the honored community is not noticeably disturbed, that the burglars are burgling normally, that the police are normally baffled and that the place, on the whole, may be said to be taking the incident in its stride.

Now it may dim the luster of some people's favorite illusion to report that Boston on the night before the Yale-Harvard game was not staggering through the pigtail streets of the city with collars and coiffeurs in disarray, waving the blood red pennants of Harvard, and roaring "Rah, rah, rah" in a manner to create bunions on yelping mechanism.

Boston Doesn't Care.

Climbing the Statue of Liberty, you might lose sight of her grandeur and notice only that she has a leg about as shapely as a Bulgarian wrestler's neck. Confronting your favorite motion picture player, if any, you might notice that he, or she, has a hitherto unsuspected wart the size of an early June pea, on his, or her, nose. And, coming to Boston the night before the Yale-Harvard game, you are reluctantly convinced this is to be just a game of football between two teams that have tradition for a press agent, one of which has been whipped twice this year by teams that were whipped, themselves, the other of which was whipped three times and regarded as a second rater in its own home town of Boston.

Boston's calm on the night before the game, a calm brightened only by the display of Red and Blue pennants in haberdashery shop windows and by the rumble of high priced student roadsters arriving from New Haven, is reminiscent of New York's self-possession on the eves of the various world series of the Giants and Yankees.

But you suspect other reasons.

There is no tropical warmth in the relations between the Boston football writers and the football authorities of Harvard university because Harvard never would let the football writers watch the practice of the team.

Other schools maintain no such reserve, and naturally there is a tendency to give three times three rousing though private cheers whenever Harvard is beaten, and Dartmouth, a cordial institution, wins a championship.

Harvard's stadium seats only 54,000 and the students of Harvard and Yale and only certain classes of alumni are entitled to tickets. Even under this arrangement, the classes of 1924 will have to watch tomorrow's game from standing room on the roof. Thus, the average Bostonian who says he would not go to the game if he could, also knows that he could not go if he wanted to.

Both the Yale and Harvard teams took some exercise in the stadium this afternoon, but for all any outsider knows to the contrary they may have spent their time playing mumbley peg or parsing Latin verbs from the forty yard line. The practice was secret, and the region of the stadium was unfrequented.

Here in Boston there is a popular notion that Harvard will be beaten tomorrow. It might be putting it too strong to say that the wish is father to the thought, but it is certainly a close relation.

Cheek at Quarter.

Harvard intends to use Dolph Cheek, her captain and a natural half back and ball carrier, at quarter back again tomorrow. Jake Stafford, regular quarter, is limping on an infirm leg, and there has been no disposition to use Joe McGlone, a mentally and physically capable quarter back with several war medals, who did not even go to prep school until after he came back from France and now has reached the ripe football age of 30 years.

Indignation still simmers at Cambridge because the Harvard team was given what is vulgarly known as the bum's rush out of a Boston theater Wednesday night. A policeman was quoted as saying the boys were stewed, and the idea of Harvard football boys being plastered or even mildly bottled, in advance of a Yale game was so scandalous that legal steps are threatened. At that, the team might make more progress in a court of law than it does on the field.

BADGERS HOPE TO USE AERIAL GAME TO WIN

Maroons' Line Holds Edge on Invaders.

Referee—C. E. Eldridge [Michigan]. Umpire—A. Haynes [Yale]. Field judge—Meyer Morton [Michigan]. Head linesman—Perry Graves [Illinois].

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

Chicago and Wisconsin will meet on Stagg field this afternoon in their twenty-ninth battle of the series which started in 1894 and has continued annually since except in 1906, 1907, and 1918.

There is no title at stake. Chicago has been beaten by Illinois, and Wisconsin bowed to Michigan early in the season. But unless all precedent is shattered, there will be out at the Midway today just as keen and hard fought a battle as if the championship itself were being decided.

Besides tradition there are other factors as added stimulus. Wisconsin which lost to Michigan and tied Minnesota, wants victory to crown with success the first year of the coaching reign of George Little, new athletic director. Defeat of their time honored rivals would cause 10,300 Badger supporters who have seats for the fray to forget all else that has happened.

Maroons Need Victory.

Chicago has experienced a season of disappointments. Losing only to Illinois on a muddy field, but beaten by Pennsylvania and overwhelmed by Dartmouth, this Maroon squad, of which so much was early expected, is making its last stand, anxious and eager to vindicate itself and its coach, who is ending his thirty-fourth coaching season.

This is the last game of college football for Capt. Henderson, for McCarty, for Kernwein, for Lampe, for nine regular members of the squad. Tradition, sentiment, personal pride, every incentive to a game bunch of fellows, combine to negative the impression that the team has gone to pieces under the weight of unrealized ambition and ineligibility of five players, two of whom were regulars.

Wisconsin's team, which arrived from Madison yesterday afternoon and took a final workout on Stagg field, is expected to employ a passing attack.

Chicago Line Superior.

Chicago has not been a scoring team. That is the fear of its partisans. It showed against Dartmouth its best attack of the year, with Kernwein running the ends. The Badgers have two experienced ends, not so likely to be outflanked as were those of the Green. But Midway sources think that McCarty, with his line crashing; Kernwein, with his running, and again the weekly promise of a forward pass attack will match the Badger offensive. On defense Chicago has a slight edge in the line, but does not feel so confident of its secondary defense against passes. But weakness there will not be through lack of drilling all week.

In the twenty-eight previous battles thirteen have gone to Chicago, eleven to the Badgers, and four were ties.

BADGER ALUMNI MEET

Chicago alumni of the University of Wisconsin heard George Little, new Badger coach, at their annual football banquet at the Hotel La Salle last night. Coach Little didn't promise victory, but believed the Cardinal warriors would battle the Maroons at Stagg field today in a manner which will reflect credit on their school. Little spoke highly of Coach Stagg of Chicago, declaring him one of the craftiest of grid strategists.

Prof. J. F. A. Pyle and Ikey Karel were other speakers at the banquet, which was attended by more than 500. Charles L. Byron was toastmaster.

LANDIS GUEST OF HONOR ON 59TH BIRTHDAY.

Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, was the guest of honor yesterday afternoon at a party in honor of his 59th birthday, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Richard William Phillips, 5449 Cornell avenue.

Dick Williams Wins Long Run at U. of C.

Dick Williams, star miler at Hyde Park high last year, won the University of Chicago intramural department's two and one-half mile cross country run yesterday in 13:04. Of sixty-two men who competed, forty-two finished, several coming close to Williams' mark. Delta Sigma Phi fraternity won the organization trophy for placing the most men.

STANFORD GIVEN EDGE ON GOLDEN BEARS TODAY

80,000 to See Pacific Coast Classic.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Palo Alto, Cal., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—For the first time in many years Stanford enters the annual big game of Pacific coast football a favorite over California. Eighty thousand people will see tomorrow's tussle, which means to the west coast what the Army-Navy or Yale-Harvard contest means to society and sportdom of the east.

The Cardinals, with 200 pound Ernie Nevers recovered from injuries, have a backfield superior to the Bears in power, punting ability, and, according to past performances, in forward pass skill.

Bears Switch Backs.

California, whose team for two days has been in seclusion at Los Gatos, not far from the scene of tomorrow's tiff, will enter the game with a hurriedly revamped backfield.

Jimmy Dixon, half back; Glen Carlson, quarter, and Earl Jabs, hard hitting full back, all of whom played for California against Washington last week, have been benched by Coach Andy Smith, and the Golden Bear followers are not certain what the 75 per cent new backfield can do with only Capt. Imlay in the veteran class.

Stamford's Backs Heavier.

California's line, averaging 189 to Stamford's 181, is admittedly the stronger, but Stanford's backs average 183 to California's 170 and those who have followed both teams all season see a margin of victory in that.

No tickets have been available for a week and bids of $50 for two seats are being offered freely in San Francisco hotels.

Welsh Beats Mendelsohn at East Chicago

TRIBUNE DECISIONS

Decisions of Tribune boxing representatives are:

At East Chicago—Frankie Welsh beat Johnny Mendelsohn [10]; Ted Gartin won over Irish Danny Fagan by technical knockout [3]; Jack London and Al Cline fought to draw [6]; Willie Brown and Eddie Walsh fought to draw [6]; Joe Medill beat Joey Franks [6]; Sammy Ratner beat Ollie O'Neil [4].

At Philadelphia—Pat Haley beat Battling Willard [10]; Tommy Cooney beat Joey Reynolds [8].

At Detroit—Red Chapman beat Phil McGraw [10].

Frankie Welsh defeated Johnny Mendelsohn in a ten round bout at the East Chicago indoor arena last night. The Chicago wildcat won a clear cut decision in four of the rounds, and fought the Milwaukeean to a draw in all but one of the others. Mendelsohn had a shade in the sixth.

Ted Gartin of Denver, Colo., stopped Irish Danny Fagan in three rounds of a scheduled eight round bout. The referee stopped the match at the end of the third after Fagan had received a bad cut over the left eye.

In the feature fight the Chicago boy who has a reputation for his hard hitting, demonstrated that he has a dangerous left. In the seventh frame he crossed rights and lefts to the chin, compelling Mendelsohn to cover up. There was frequent clinching.

Jack London and Al Cline, both west side boxers, fought a six round draw. London finished up strong but was unable to overcome the advantage earned by Cline in the first part of the bout.

A six round fight between Joey Franks of South Chicago and Joe Medill of the west side ended with a clear cut victory for Medill. The west side boxer won all the rounds.

Sammy Ratner of St. Paul and Ollie O'Neill of South Chicago were in the curtain raiser with Ratner winning every round but the first, which was a draw.

CARR SELECTS HELPERS FOR BIG XMAS SHOW

The program for the great athletic carnival to be staged at the Coliseum and annex on the evening of Dec. 19 by County Treasurer P. J. Carr, proceeds of which will go into the various Christmas funds in Chicago, will be arranged by a committee named yesterday by Mr. Carr, who is to finance all expenses of the entertainment.

Ald. Joseph B. McDonough heads the committee on arrangements, with the following personnel:

P. T. Harmon, J. H. Coffey, James Mullen, Sam Wolff, Ed Kane, Jack O'Keefe, Chick Quinlan, Peter Stroth, Lawrence Rasmussen, Dave Barry, Nate Lewis, Jacob Lindheimer, Sylvia Ferretti, Kid Howard, Vincent Kasperski, Joseph Jabelka, Mique Malloy, Johnny Coulon, Phil Collins, Samuel Pian and Thomas Walsh.

NEW AND OLD ORLEANS AWAIT RECORD TRAVEL

Plenty to See by Day and by Night.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Below this wide old fashioned hotel window with only an occasional flicker of light to locate its narrow streets, lies Viuxcarre, the original French city of the south. By night it is a mysterious and somewhat sinister district which, freed from its persistent swarms of visitors, closes its long rows of shutters, locks its massive courtyard doors, and retires behind heavy, French window curtains to the privacy it deserves after two centuries of life in an alien country.

With one accord, New Orleans and its visitors seem to move across Canal street at sundown and leave the ancient French quarter to its own devices.

A few wistful spirits may be encountered about the doors of the old absinthe house, which has now fallen to the dispensing of orangeade, red pop, and like drinks, and an occasional taxicab may be met cruising over old pavements that can only handle two cars abreast.

The rest of New Orleans holds enough of night life and interest to make up for the curfew habit of its world famous parent-town.

The vanguard of the annual army of winter visitors this year have found the city prepared to give them anything they want in the way of hotel accommodations and entertainment.

A syndicate of New Orleans and Chicago interests is preparing to construct a new 18 story hotel, and negotiations are reported to be under way for another tourist hotel on the lake front. Eastward on the coast two more big hotels are rising. The Edgewater Gulf, going up at a point between Biloxi and Gulfport, is a southern counterpart of the Chicago Edgewater Beach.

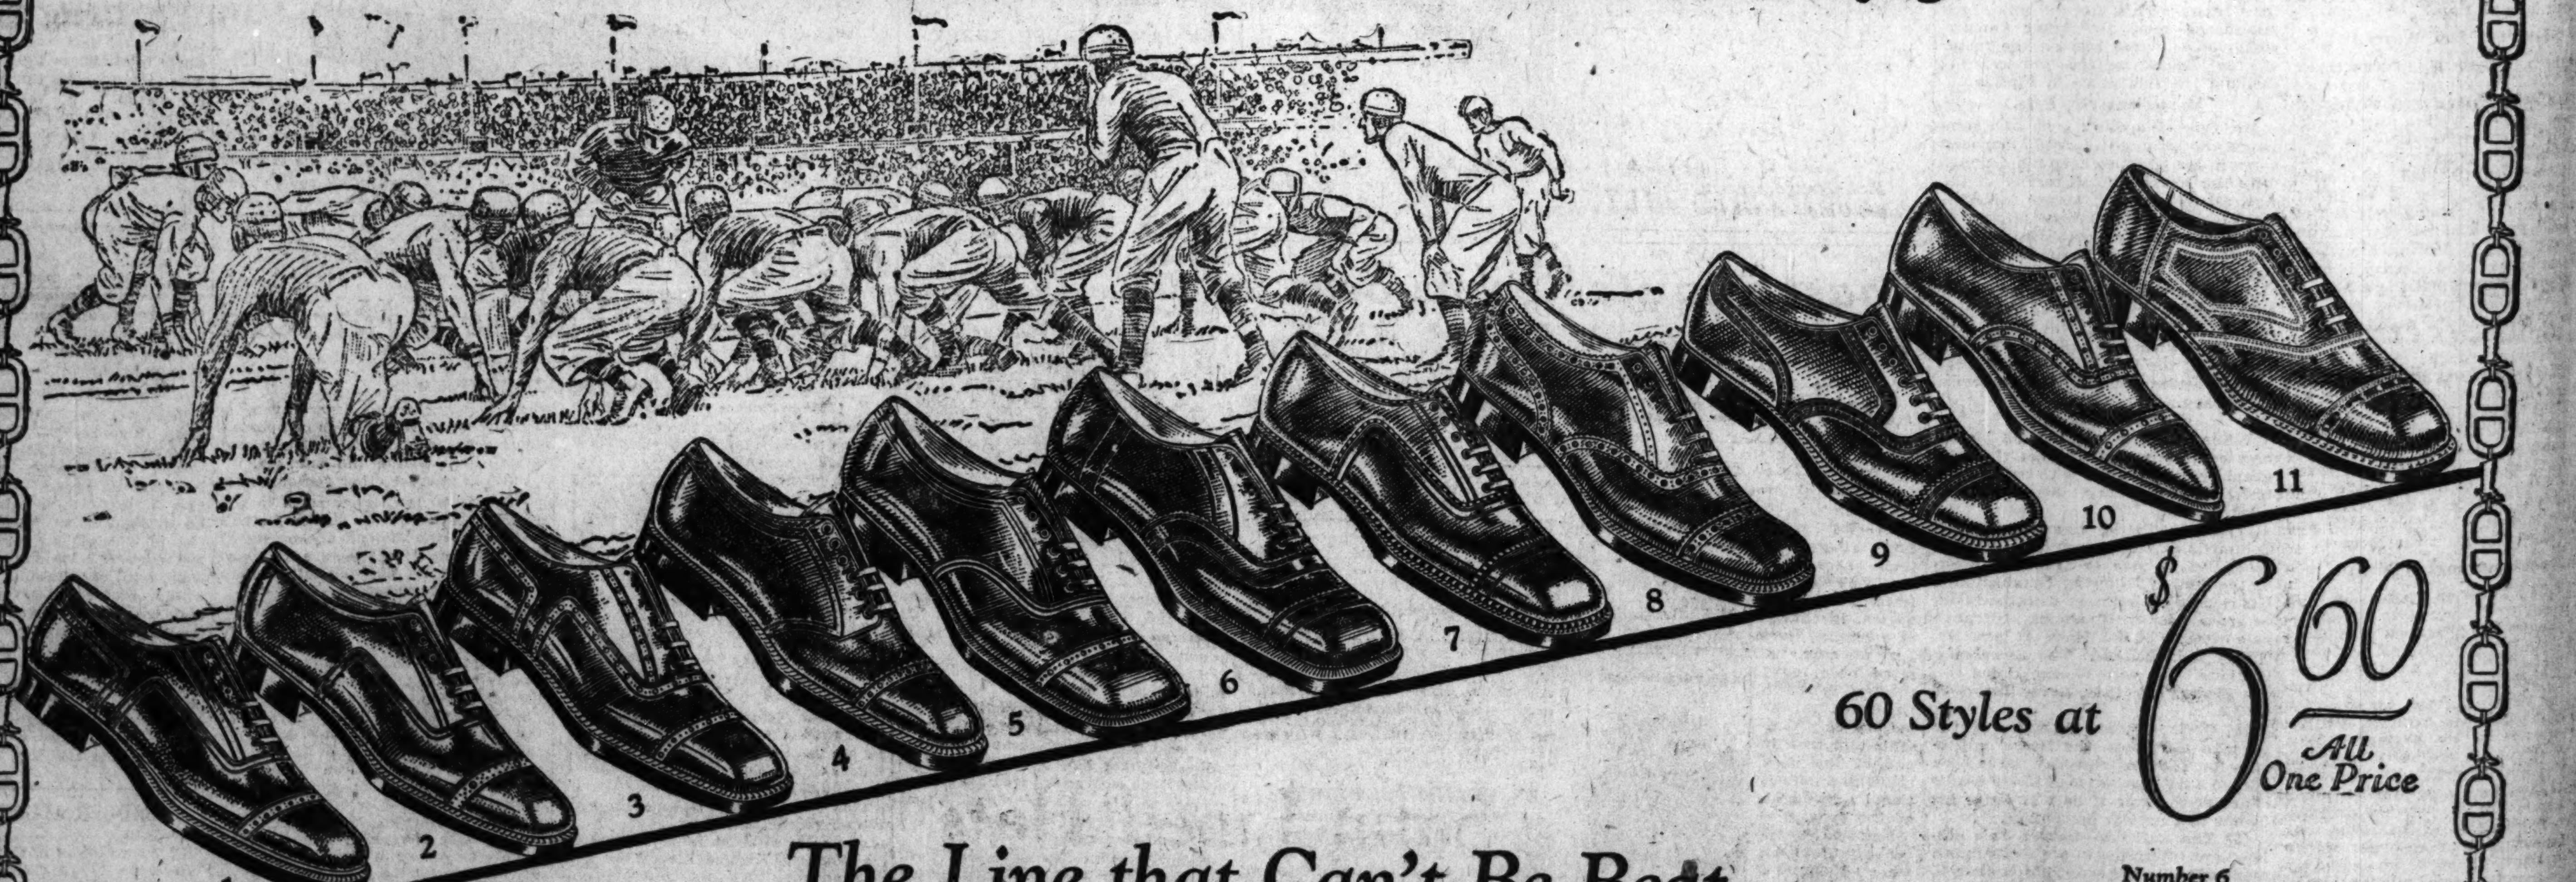
The All America Eleven—For the Season 1925



The Line that Can't Be Beat

HERE'S All America's Choice for the First Eleven, and they're all star performers. They've been up against all kinds of competition under all conditions in all sections of the country, and their consistent good showing during the entire season makes them the Choice of All America.

Now, if you want to get a closeup view of these Regal All America selections and get a little better acquainted with them individually, just step into any Regal store from New York to San Francisco. You'll see why the cheering section stand up when they appear, and the reason why they're the choice of the experts.

This lineup includes a variety of lasts and patterns in broad and narrow toes, short and long vamps, single and double soles, and the leathers include almost everything but Pigskin. You can make your choice of imported Scotch grain, Norwegian or Holland grain, or smooth calfskin in black and different tones of tan.

If you don't want to get cold feet in the last quarter when the sun is sinking and the wind is whistling, take a pair of these sturdy, double soled winter oxfords with you to the game.

$6.60 will put you in the cheering section.

The Line-up

Number 1
Imported Scotch grain. Double sole, storm welt. Black and tan.

Number 2
Marigold tan calf. Wide tread, medium toe. Also in black.

Number 3
Copper tan Norwegian grain. Wide French toe. Also in black.

Number 4
Black calf blucher oxford. Short, broad-toed last. Flanged heel.

Number 5
Cinnamon brown calf. Extremely short vamp. Broad toed last.

Number 6
Light tan calfskin. A regular college "he-vamp" with wide trousers.

Number 7
Tawny tan calf. Tiger striping. Storm welt. Also in black.

Number 8
"Guards"—Tan Scotch grain. Polo pattern. Rocker bottom. Also in black.

Number 9
Smooth tan calfskin. Short, broad-toed American brogue. Double sole, low flanged heel.

Number 10
Mandarin calf in black and tan. New English custom last. Slender, receding toe.

Number 11
Black Norwegian grain. Club pattern. Storm Welt. Flanged heel.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—On the eve of the annual homecoming game between Indiana and Purdue, Bloomington is thronged with thousands of returning grads and visitors.

GEN. HANSON ELY.

Fred E. Bryan, Chicago, presided as "Chief Mohican" at the men's powwow in the men's gymnasium tonight, approximately 3,500 alumni and students being seated at the festal board. Enthusiasm was boosted to the zenith degree and will be held there until the Indiana memorial stadium is formally dedicated an hour before the game tomorrow by Maj. Gen. Hanson Ely of the U. S. war college, Washington, D. C.

Old Oaken Bucket.

H. R. Kurrie, Chicago, president of the Monon railroad, representing Indiana alumni, and George Ade, representing Purdue graduates, presented the two teams with the "Old Oaken Bucket" to be awarded to the victorious team tomorrow. Each year a gold link will be attached to the bucket engraved with the name of the victor and the score, the links finally becoming the handle of the bucket. The university military band of 125 pieces and the men's glee club furnished music for the "Fight-Fest."

Automatic Plow to Make Farming One Sweet Song

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Iowa's manless and horseless plow, which is being developed at the state college at Ames, is gradually being taken out of the freak farm implement class and put into the field of practical agricultural machinery. Farm boys who have been walking the furrows day in and day out, swallowing dust and blistering their feet, may soon be able to sit on top of a fence post and watch the manless plow turn over a whole field without being touched after it is once started.

F. V. Collins, engineer, has been out on the college farm this week testing out some of the new improvements on the plow, which has two plow bottoms, one in front and one in the rear.

The plow is equipped with an ingenious gear shifting device, which is worked by the vacuum on the manifold, explains the engineer. When it reaches the end of the field and the control lever strikes the fence the clutch is automatically released, the plow immediately stops, turns around and starts off in the reverse direction.

Newly developed devices make starting and stopping smooth and whenever the direction of the plow is reversed the reaction is such, according to Mr. Collins, that it lifts the front plow out of the ground and starts the rear plow in the ground. The plow is guided by its own furrow after it has been steered across the field to make the first furrow. The plow is equipped with slatted moleboards to insure proper scouring.

Lindblom H. S. Meets Parker in Fray Today

PREP GAMES TODAY

FOR CITY LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP.
Parker vs. Lindblom at White City [2 p. m.].

CATHOLIC LEAGUE
De Paul at Loyola.
De La Salle-St. Philip at Normal Park.
St. Ignatius at St. Rita.

MISCELLANEOUS
Harrison at Mooseheart.
Englewood at Elgin.
Northwestern academy at Morgan Park.
Lansing (Mich.) at Oak Park.
Bloom at Clinton, Ia.
St. John's at Lake Forest.
Lane-Waller at De Paul field [10 a. m.].

Two of the city's high school football teams will battle this afternoon at White City park at 2 o'clock in the City league championship match race. Parker and Lindblom will be the principals with howling students and alumni the background in the circuit's grand finale.

For football fans who want to see future college stars in action, the game should offer everything that borders on the sensational. Each team has a back field of stars, expert in slashing the line, skirting the ends or tossing long accurate passes.

In Frary and Gustaval of Parker and Antonides and Biehl of Lindblom there is a quartet dangerous at all times. Around them, the attacks of their teams are built.

Lindblom Is Favorite.

Lindblom is conceded the best chance of coming through with a victory, having a hard charging line that has not met its equal this season. If Lindblom's forwards tear up the Parker line, the Lindblom stars are almost certain to eclipse the two Parker aces. However, Parker, though it will be slightly outweighed, has a scrappy line that may hold its own.

Catholic League Closing.

Except for a Thanksgiving day clash between St. Patrick and St. Mel, the Catholic league curtain will fall this afternoon with the playing of three contests, two of which have a bearing on the title. De La Salle meets St. Philip and De Paul opposes Loyola in the important games. De La Salle and Loyola are tied for the lead, and if either is defeated the deadlock will be broken.

Out at Oak Park Coach Frank Winters will put his gridders against the strong Central High of Lansing Mich. The teams are believed to be evenly matched, and neither has lost more than one game.

Bloom, another Suburban league team, is billed to travel to Clinton, Ia., to meet the high school eleven there.

Many fans will watch the outcome of the Harrison-Mooseheart engagement at Mooseheart. Harrison is not given much chance against Coach Oswalt's powerful warriors, who have a point a minute outfit.

NOTES OF THE CUE ROOMS.

In a Chicago Billiard league game at Mussey's last night, Thurnblad beat Morriarty [44], 40 to 38, in 59 innings. Each had a high run of 5.

Cornie trimmed Lippertt [36], 40 to 24, last night in a three cushion game at Foley's. The match lasted 83 innings.

It is your farewell game today,
It's been a glorious year, we say;
You've showed your prowess through and through,
The world expects great things of you.

You had them guessing, so they say;
Showed them how their game to play;
Upset the Penn, Chicago, too;
The world expects great things of you.

You've one more chance, DO save the day;
The Buckeyes cannot stop you, nay;
You've sent them limping; who would stop you?
Do it once more, Red, and then ADIEU.

Purple vs. Notre Dame.

Northwestern's Wildcats think they have better than an outside chance to down Notre Dame at South Bend today. Northwestern has finished its Big Ten schedule with three victories and one defeat, Chicago scoring two field goals. That is the Purple's best showing in a decade and its season already is a success.

Notre Dame did not lose a game in 1924. Northwestern in the final game of the year held Rockne's squad, including "The Four Horsemen," 13 to 6, the six representing two field goals by Baker. It was the hardest game of the year for the South Benders.

Notre Dame is not as strong as a year ago. Northwestern is stronger. But Notre Dame has lost only one game, to the Army early in the season, and has beaten Minnesota, present conference leader. On form, Northwestern has a better chance than a year ago. On the other hand, Notre Dame is expecting no easy foe this time, and the Wildcats may not reach that mental state which was a factor in their showing of 1924.

Iowa in Big Ten.

Dear Harve: While Iowa, the state where "the tall corn grows," cannot boast a Big Ten title team, she may get a lot of kick out of the fact that her corn fed high school graduates have starred in the conference, for instance:

Uridel and Marek, Cedar Rapids, at Ohio; Crofoot, Mason City, with Badgers; Besson, Davenport, at Notre Dame; Muhl, Oskaloosa, Illinois; Murrell, Cedar Rapids, Minnesota; Yeisley, Cedar Rapids, Chicago; and Friedman of Michigan received his early education in Oskaloosa.

What a team the Hawks might have had, added to the present Iowa squad!

WLIB AND W-G-N ON AIR TODAY WITH GRID TILTS

The two most important games in the midwest—the Michigan-Minnesota clash and the Notre Dame-Northwestern battle—will be on the air today

WLIB, the Liberty magazine station, will start broadcasting the Michigan-Minnesota game at 1 p. m., today, direct from Ferry field in Ann Arbor, with Quin A. Ryan at the "mike."

At 1:45 p. m., W-G-N, The Chicago Tribune station on the Drake hotel, begins the broadcast of the Notre Dame-Northwestern fight at Cartier field in South Bend, where Paul G. Neal will be at the miscophone.

Take your pick: Michigan-Minnesota over WLIB at 302.8 meters wave length: Notre Dame-Northwestern over W-G-N at 370 meters.

LANE TECH TIES TILDEN IN SOCCER

Lane Tech and Tilden yesterday battled to a scoreless tie in the game for the soccer championship of the city public schools. The contest was played at the Bricklayers' field, and was featured by close defensive work of both teams. Two overtime periods of ten minutes were played. It is planned to play off the tie next week.

Freeport's Title Claim at Stake This Afternoon

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Rockford and Freeport high schools, rivals for more than 25 years, will clash here tomorrow before the biggest crowd that ever saw a football game in Rockford. Victory would give Freeport the Big Seven championship, but a defeat would drop the Pretzels to a tie with Elgin.

Loyola Pilot Hurt on Eve of Carroll Game

Loyola's chance of victory over John Carroll university of Cleveland, O., in today's homecoming game at the north side school was given a backspin yesterday when Johnson, quarter back, was hurt in practice. He will not be able to play, and doubt was expressed last night whether he will be in shape to face the Haskell Indians at Soldiers' field on Thanksgiving.

Lundgoot, a half back, has been shifted to quarter to replace Johnson.

The Carroll team arrived yesterday noon and worked out on Loyola field. The rival coaches, Roger Kiley of Loyola and Mal Edwards of Carroll, are former Notre Dame stars. Line-ups:

N. Y. OUT AS NAVY CHOICE FOR ARMY GAME—NULTON

New York, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Rear Admiral L. H. Nulton, superintendent of the United States Naval academy at Annapolis, in a letter to the Brooklyn Eagle today stated that profiteering by New York theater managers on the night of the Army-Navy football game, Nov. 28, will eliminate New York from future games, so far as the Navy is concerned.

"I cannot find that hotel rates, as such, have been increased for the night of the game," he wrote. "In the theater situation many have increased their rates, some over 100 per cent, while many others are retaining them at their normal prices."

Under the present arrangement each of the academies select, on alternate years, the city in which the game shall be played.

Dave Luby, Booster of Bowling, Dies; Rites Monday

Funeral services for David A. Luby, publisher of the Bowlers Journal, who died yesterday afternoon, nationally known in bowling and baseball circles, will be held Monday at his late residence, 4835 South Michigan boulevard. Interment will be at Calvary cemetery. While his publication gave him national prominence in the bowling game, he also served in an official capacity in all of the major ten pin organizations through the east and midwest. For years he had been the Chicago representative of the American Bowling Congress. He also served as vice president of the Midwest, International and Central States associations.

BICYCLE CHAMP SEEKS HONORS IN TRIBUNE RUN

Gregory Flatow Enters Big X-Country Race.

BY MORROW KRUM.

The name of Gregory Flatow, a member of the Antlers' Sportsmen clique of athletes, was added yesterday to the roster of runners who will compete in The Tribune Athletic association's third annual cross country run, to be held Sunday, Nov. 29, in Washington park.

He is a youngster in athletics. His name first appeared in the head lines last year, when he captured The Tribune bike Derby. Other bike events found him close to the top of the list and when the season was finished Flatow was recognized as one of the leading riders in the state. Now, dismounting from his wheel, Flatow is out for cross country honors. He has a large backing among the Antler fans.

There were other entries yesterday, a score of them. Among them were Stanley Kurlo and Joseph White of the Alverno A. C.; Frank V. Coultry, Independence Park A. A., and Fred Anderson, Howe Place A. A.

The time for filing entries is growing short. The dead line is noon Wednesday, Nov. 24. If you have not filed your blank yet, do it now. The blank printed in this issue of The Tribune may be used. Clip it out, fill it in, and send to The Tribune A. A. Do it now.

LAYTON WINS TWO.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Johnny Layton took two National Three Cushion games from Gus Copulos today, 50 to 32, in 48 innings, and, 50 to 34, in 54 frames. Layton's high runs were five and seven.

STOCKS BREAK AT CLOSE ON HEAVY WAVE OF SELLING

YESTERDAY'S AVERAGES

	High.	Low.	Last.	Net chge.
25 railroads	90.32	89.04	89.15	—.27
25 industrials	177.15	173.80	174.29	—.27
50 industrials	133.73	131.42	131.72	—.27

New York, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Stock prices displayed a reversal of form in today's market, breaking sharply in the final hour after an earlier period of strength which was featured by the heavy accumulation of railroad shares and a selected list of metals, tobaccos and specialties. Closing quotations disclosed a large number of losses ranging from 1 to 5 points, interspersed with a smaller number of gains. Total transactions again exceeded 2,000,000 shares.

The reactions took place in the face of a large quota of favorable news developments. These included the speech of President Coolidge assuring legitimate business that it need have no fear of government interference, heavy oversubscription of the $100,000,000 Italian loan, retention of the 3½ per cent rediscount rate by the New York Federal Reserve bank, and conservative trade developments.

Profit Taking Starts Selling.

Heavy profit taking by professional traders who had bought stocks for a turn was believed to be largely responsible for the late selling movement. United States Steel fell from 133⅞ to 130¾, and then rallied to 131¼ for a net loss of one point. American Can reacted from 252½ to 247, Baldwin from 127¼ to 124½, and General Motors from 128⅝ to 125⅝. Du Pont dropped from 228 to 218 and then moved back to 222 for a net gain of 3 points.

Heavy selling of Hudson, which broke from 102⅝ to 94, closing slightly above the low figure for a net loss of nearly 5 points, reflected speculative disappointment over the failure of the directors to increase the regular $4 annual dividend. Other outstanding weak spots were American Brake Shoe and Foundry, United States Cast Iron Pipe, and United States Industrial Alcohol, all off 4½ to 7½ points. Radio corporation broke nearly 5 points to a new low record at 41⅛.

Some Industrials Strong.

There were several independent strong spots in the industrial group, Federal Mining and Smelting common standing out with a gain of 12 points at 71, a new high level. Other industrials to eclipse their previous 1925 high prices were Sloss-Sheffield Steel, May Department Stores, Tobacco Products, International Nickel, Calumet and Arizona, Willys-Overland preferred, United States Distributing, and the Liggett & Myers issues.

Rails lost part of their gains in the final hour, although Pere Marquette, Nickel Plate, Pennsylvania; New Orleans, Texas and Mexico; Norfolk and Western, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, Baltimore and Ohio, and Erie common all attained new peak prices. Chesapeake and Ohio was heavy throughout, closing nearly 3 points lower at 117⅝.

Call money held steady at 4½ per cent all day. Time money and commercial paper were relatively quiet, with rates unchanged.

Denver & Rio Grande Plans Record Improvements

Denver, Colo., Nov. 20.—(AP)—The Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad's 1926 budget provides for the expenditure of $9,358,972, representing the greatest improvement program in the system's history. Of the total budget $8,478,501 will go directly for additions, betterments and changes in the system. The largest individual appropriation calls for $2,556,957 for improvement and rebuilding of the present equipment. The budget also provides $2,450,000 for new locomotives and cars.

Federal Motor Truck.

W. S. I.—The Federal Motor Truck company has been successfully in business in Detroit since 1910. It manufactures busses and one to five ton motor trucks. It is issuing $1,500,000 of 5 per cent debenture notes, constituting its only funded debt. These debentures are the direct obligation of the company but are not secured by any mortgage. No mortgage, however, may be placed on the property of the company while they are outstanding. The balance sheet as of Sept. 30, 1925, after giving effect to this financing, shows net tangible assets of $6,282,664, or over 4 times the amount of this issue, and net quick assets of $4,936,983, or over 3 times this issue. Net profits, after depreciation but before federal taxes, for 1924 were $630,422, or 8.4 times the annual interest charges of $75,000 on these debentures, and for the last ten calendar years have averaged over 9 times such interest charges. Net earnings for the first nine months of the present year are $1,113,946, or nearly 15 times the annual interest charges. The equity behind these debentures is represented by 200,000 shares of common stock, having a present market value of around $7,000,000, or 4 2-3 times the present issue. These debentures are a high grade investment suitable for a business man's funds.

They Always Win

THE football team that wins most of its games is popular. Yet to win always, year after year, is impossible.

However, people who buy our First Mortgage Bonds, secured by North Shore Real Estate, are always winners. They have never lost a dollar of principal or interest. These bonds must measure up to high standards of safety before we buy them and offer them for sale.

May we send you our latest list of safe 6½% bonds?

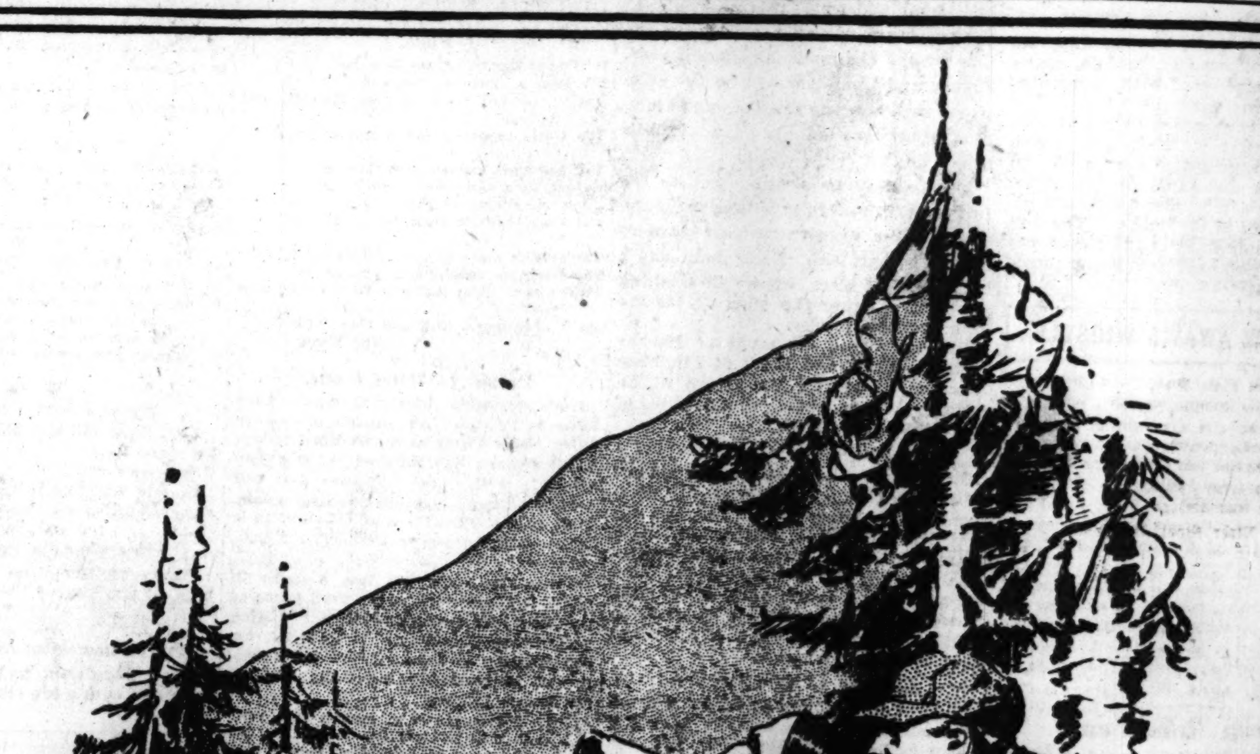
ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE



"The glorious privilege Of being independent"

—belongs to the man who now and again can put business aside, and "own himself"—away from the omnipresence of crowds, away from what Mr. Kipling calls "The meaner damnabilities of life."

The price of such independence is negligible when you buy self-ownership by making this experienced trust company your financial agent. Create a Living Trust with the company whose rule is, "No trading in securities."

Bondholders' Defense Committee

The Deposit Agreement has been prepared and can be obtained from the Secretary or Depositary of this Committee and deposits are now being received.

This Committee has been advised by its Counsel that there are legal grounds for intervening in the foreclosure actions and opposing the Kuhn, Loeb-National City Company plan of reorganization.

A sufficient amount of bonds having already been deposited to warrant such action, this Committee has instructed its Counsel to file a petition for intervention forthwith.

The amount of bonds represented by this Committee gives reasonable assurance that bondholders uniting in this effort to protect their rights, will not be penalized by refusal at this time, to deposit with other committees.

The Morris Plan is a straightforward, easily understood and practical business arrangement. A man needing money for some purpose, important to himself, who would be unwise to bind himself to repayment in a lump sum, say in 30, 60, or 90 days, may obtain that money in a manner that provides for spreading the repaying over a period of twelve months or less.

(And the charges and the security are equally reasonable and fitted to that same kind of a man's situation in life.)

WALL STREET NO

K.C.S. FORECASTS GAIN IN OCTOBER RAIL EARNINGS

BY O. A. MATHER.

Yesterday's news of business and industry was cheerful in the main. At the same time, however, there were items calculated to check unbridled optimism. In fact, the general situation appears to be one of gradual expansion without regard to the antics of the speculative markets.

Further improvement in the railroad situation and a promise of excellent earnings reports for October appeared in the statement of the Kansas City Southern, which usually is the first carrier to report monthly earnings. Net operating income last month was $559,905, an increase of $107,949 over a year ago. Operating income for the ten months was $4,313,479, an increase of $485,863 over the same period last year. But this result was accomplished by a reduction of $512,212 in operating expenses.

Increases in gross revenues, net railway operating income, and net income of the Nickel Plate road, and improvement in operating ratio are shown in the statement of operations for October, issued yesterday. Gross revenues were $5,156,440, an increase of $158,196 over October of last year. Net railway operating income was $1,208,804, an increase of $13,830, while the net income after all charges was $866,403, an increase of $13,680. The operating ratio was 69.76, compared with 70.43 for October last year.

Improvement in the textile industry was shown in the census bureau's reports on cotton spinning. Active spindle hours for October totaled 7,961,670,919, compared with 7,102,429,980 in September and 7,592,569,221 in October, last year. The average number of spindles operated last month was on a basis of 89.4 per cent of capacity, compared with 83.8 per cent in September and 85.4 per cent in October, last year.

On the other hand, the seasonal slowing down in the automobile industry is under way. New car sales have shown a marked drop during the last fortnight. Production has not shown a corresponding decline, but retrenchment is the rule at all factories, although this is expected to take some time after the record activity of last month. Current surplus of output over sales is not considered a danger sign, as most dealers have cleaned up their stocks.

Trade Reviews Conflict.

As to the course of general trade, the week-end mercantile reviews are somewhat conflicting. Bradstreet's finds "rather more irregularity and a slight let-down in buying and in some lines of industry, for which weather irregularities and some modification of crop reports seem to be mainly responsible." But Dun's says that "current reports and statistics unmistakably show that trade progress is unchecked, while the tightening of money rates at some centers is a phase which usually develops during periods of business expansion."

Corporation news was cheerful. Directors of the Fleischmann company voted to split the common stock on a three-for-one basis, this ratifying the stockholders' action increasing the issue from 1,500,000 to 4,500,000 non-par shares. The regular quarterly dividend of $1 on the old stock was declared.

Nizer Stock Dividend.

The Nizer corporation declared a stock dividend of 1¼ shares on each 100 common "B" shares outstanding on Jan. 5. The City Investing company declared a dividend of 10 per cent on its common stock, compared with 5 per cent paid on July 1. Extra dividends were announced as follows: Commercial Credit company, $3.50; Patchogue-Plymouth Mills, 50 cents on common stock; Ahumada Lead company, 17½ cents, the same as paid in the two preceding quarters; Provincial Paper company, 1 per cent on common stock.

WALL STREET NOTES

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Early strength gave way to irregularity in today's curb market. With the exception of Vacuum, which dropped 1⅝ points to 100⅝, most of the active oil shares moved within rather narrow and irregular limits. Electrical refrigeration issues, displayed a firmer tone, Nizer A and B showing substantial gains in reflection of the declaration of a stock dividend of 1¼ per cent on the B stock. Heavy buying of Nickel Plate new common caused an advance of nearly 4 points to a new peak price at 111.

The railroad group continued to provide the principal features of trading interest. Modification of the reorganization terms for the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul stimulated fresh buying of the road's bonds on the theory that plans for the lifting of the receivership will be expedited. Chesapeake and Ohio convertible 5s receded 3 points when they ran into heavy profit taking, and Erie convertible 4s D lost their early gain after setting a new high record for the year. Norfolk and Western convertible 6s, Rock Island 4½s, Delaware and Hudson convertible 5s, and Reading general 4s developed conspicuous strength.

Foreign exchanges moved within rather narrow and irregular limits. Demand sterling was slightly firmer at $4.84 3-16 and French francs and Italian lire held relatively steady around 3.96 and 4.00 cents, respectively. Polish zloty broke 20 points to a new low for the year at 15.00 cents.

Short selling of curb securities has been facilitated by the establishment of a loan post on the floor of the exchange. Previously, members have frequently experienced difficulty in borrowing securities to make deliveries on short sales. The formal announcement said: "The committee of arrangements calls members' attention to the loan post and suggests those desiring to borrow or loan securities, to make their wishes known to the clerk in charge on the floor."

Industrials, for which there was a good demand, were Canada Dry, Gillette Safety Razor, Federal Motors, St. Regis Paper, Purity Baking B, and Victor Talking Machine. Eisenlohr touched a record high at 15⅝. In the public utilities, net gains of one to 3½ points in American Light and Traction, American Super Power B, and International Utilities A were offset by losses of a point or more in Lehigh Power Securities, Northern States Power A, and Western Power preferred.

CHICAGO STOCK TRANSACTIONS

Friday, Nov. 20, 1925.

Day's sales..............33,000 Year ago...............48,000 Total, 1925..........12,392,292 Previous year........9,082,469

Trading in Chicago stocks was generally dull yesterday with irregularity as the tendency of the more active issues. Yellow Truck moved up 1½ to 29, while Thompson, Swift International and Real Silk Hosiery gained ¼ each. Yellow Cab, selling ex-dividend 33 1-3 cents, closed unchanged at 50. Bendix declined 1¼ to 32¾. Union Carbide was off ⅝. Consumers eased off ¼. The exchange's committee on securities ruled that the 650,000 shares of new $5 par common stock of Consumers to be exchanged for the 325,000 old shares of $10 par will be admitted to the list and trading on Nov. 23. The old stock will be removed on the same date. Stewart-Warner was off ⅛. On small sales, gains were: Great Lakes Dredge, 2½; Kraft Cheese and United Light & Power A common, 2 points each. Chicago Nipple A, 1¾, and U. S. Gypsum, 1½. National Electric Power A was off 1¼.

CHICAGO DISTRICT LEADS IN FACTORY ELECTRIFICATION

BY HARPER LEECH.

In this time of stock taking few figures are more significant to midwesterners than those gathered by the Electrical World, which show that the north central states now lead all other sections in the electrification of industry. Manufacturing in this region is now 64 per cent electrified, and 58 per cent of manufacturing buys its power from central generating stations.

The extent to which the new industrial revolution has proceeded may be gathered from the fact that industrial establishments in the north central west have 669,616 electric motors of 7,949,849 horsepower.

Although the greater part of the electrical energy used in these parts is purchased from public utilities there are 2,816 private industrial generating plants.

◆

With the total electric consumption of the United States short of 60 billion kilowatts, there are four industries in this section using more than one billion kilowatts per year—iron and steel, food, paper and printing.

Twenty-seven per cent of all the available industrial power in the section is required for the steel industry. This is probably just a starter—as the demand will grow apace as electric smelting increases. Pigless pig iron from slagless, gasless retorts is not impossible in a few years.

New England with an industrial history stretching back years before the first machinery was used in this section, is only 58.2 per cent electrified and the Middle Atlantic section with water power resources not available to the midwest is only 59.6 electrified.

◆

As the north central west leads the United States in the adoption of electric power with all its economies and added efficiencies, so the United States leads the world in the extent of its electrification, except for a few small countries with super abundant water power.

Since 1907 the increase in the consumption of electricity in America has been at the rate of 890 per cent, that of Britain 328 per cent, of Italy 314 per cent. Considering the previously attained industrialization of these countries the figures indicate tremendous strides for America and Italy—stagnation for Britain.

◆

It is interesting to observe that the same line of talk which we now hear about the power trust in this country was the line handed out in Britain early in the century. Britain took it seriously. It listened to the Webbs, Shaws, Wellses and all their kind. It followed their advice. It has no power trust today—merly inefficient and obsolete government plants. Will we make the same mistake?

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—COTTONSEED OIL—Moved up 1@6 points early on the relative firmness of crude and tallow, but later reacted sharply under selling by the west and south on the weakness in lard and cotton. Closing bids showed net losses of 11@17 points. Sales, 17,400 brls. Prime crude, 9.00c asked; prime summer yellow, spot, 10.25c; December closed 10.22c; January, 10.05c; March, 10.14c; May, 10.30c.

The Question Is: Who?

AGE in an institution may mean much to its clients. To be successful and to merit the confidence of its customers, an investment banking house must have real accomplishments to its credit. But most important are the energy, alertness, sound judgment and general responsibility of the men who make up its personnel. We believe Whiting & Co. is giving its clients unusually full measure in facilities and conscientious service in their investment banking requirements. And we welcome each new opportunity to demonstrate just that.

SHEEP — Fed western lambs, yesterday	14.75@16.00
One month ago	14.50@15.40
One year ago	13.25@13.85

Fancy 140@150 lb hogs sold in part loads yesterday at $11.50@11.55, with $11.40 practical top for 175@280 lb loads, being lowest top since late last month. Receipts at 22,000, while larger than expected, were 40,500 smaller than the corresponding Friday a year ago, when 62,574 arrived. The market started in weak at 10@15c decline, but finished comparatively steady at the break, with most of the 8,000 left over in possession of speculators. Shippers purchased with fair freedom, while big packers were bearish all day. Quality graded fairly good. Day's average was $11.15, against $11.25 Thursday, $11.40 a week ago and $8.90 a year ago.

Yesterday's catch as catch can cattle market was devoid of any outstanding features. Dullness characterized trading, which ended decidedly weak, with a lower tendency on beef steers. Quality was lacking and few loads were eligible to more than $9.00, with top at $10.25 obtaining 1,128 lb steers. Butcher stock held steady at the recent sharp decline. Bulls weak. Calves and stockers and feeders were unchanged. Cattle receipts this week promise to total about 68,000, the smallest since September.

Lamb Trade Brisk.

Activity characterized trading in the lamb market, with prices strong and in spots 10@15c higher, considering quality and weights. Several loads of 78@90 lb natives and fed westerns topped at $16.00 to shippers and city butchers. Packers paid up to $15.80 for fed westerns, highest of the week to larger operators. Dwindling receipts, which are smallest since July for the week, and urgent eastern demand were the two governing influences. Sheep were scarce and strong, handy ewes at $8.50 and two year old wethers at $10.50, with yearlings up to $12.75. Shorn lambs reached $14.65.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 1,500 cattle, 5,000 hogs and 500 sheep, against 1,971 cattle, 15,188 hogs and 718 sheep the corresponding Saturday a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 43,000 to 60,000. J. A. Bunyan marked 43,000, George Chandler 46,000, J. Holmes 51,000, W. S. Nicholson, W. C. White and H. Pattison 52,000, A. G. Whelhener 55,000, J. M. Waters 56,000, Lester Armour 58,000 and F. W. Young 60,000.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEWS

Marshall Field & Co. say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods was slightly less than last week, but exceeded by a considerable margin the volume recorded for the same week last year. Road sales were in excess of last week's figures and maintained approximately the same level as a year ago for the corresponding period. There were about the same number of customers in market as during the corresponding week in 1924. Collections showed an improvement over the same period last year."

Armour & Co. say:

"Beef trade is slow, as usually happens at this time due to the Thanksgiving holiday season. The supply of cattle is normal. A good clearance is anticipated within the next few days, and this will have a tendency toward firmer beef prices. Fresh pork prices eased up a bit this week. Receipts showed an increase over last week, which is to be expected at this time of the year. The trade in cured pork products continues active, and demand for dry salt meats is strong. Export trade conditions are on a moderate basis for lard and meats."

FINANCIAL NOTES

General American Tank Car company plans to redeem its outstanding equipment trust certificates out of the $4,000,000 cash in the company's treasury, part of which recently was realized from the private sale of 50,000 shares of common stock.

The Commercial Investment Trust corporation, whose business in financing merchandisers and manufacturers in the United States and Canada this year will amount to $140,000,000, announces that it is actively considering the extension of its operations into Europe to facilitate distribution of products of the American industries that it serves.

Articles of agreement have been signed for a merger of the O'Keeffes, Inc., John T. Connor company and Ginter company. The name of the new corporation will be known as the First National Stores, Inc. Authorized capitalization will be $5,000,000 7 per cent preferred and 600,000 shares of common. M. O'Keeffe, president of O'Keeffes, will be president of the new concern; A. F. Goodwin, president Ginter company, will be chairman of the board, and Charles F. Adams, president John T. Connor, will be treasurer.

Substantial traffic gains as compared with last year are reported by the Gary Railways company of Gary, Ind., an operating subsidiary of Midland Utilities company of which Samuel Insull is president. September passenger traffic gained 24.82 per cent over the same month last year.

October production of silver in North America and Peru is calculated at 16,090,647 fine ounces, by the American bureau of metal statistics, against 16,181,634 in September, bringing the ten months total to 156,355,649 ounces, a monthly average of 15,635,565. The monthly average last year was 15,950,003.

BIG LOOP STORE PLANS BRANCH IN EVANSTON

BY AL CHASE.

"State street a few years ago might have been compared to a whirlpool toward which retail business was drawn. Today it might be compared to the center of a rapidly whirling disc on which a great amount of retail business is being thrown out to the edge." Comment by E. H. Scull of the E. H. Scull company in The Tribune Nov. 19.

HENRY C. LYTTON.

Evanston is to get another big branch store of one of the loop's largest merchandise establishments. It was learned yesterday that Henry C. Lytton & Sons, operating The Hub at State and Jackson, are to open one of the largest stores of its kind in the country in the Orrington Hotel building in Evanston.

This follows close on the heels of the action taken by Spaulding & Co. in opening a branch jewelry store in the University town, the Washington Shirt company, and others. It is understood that several other big loop stores are negotiating for stores to house big Evanston branches.

Other Stores to Follow?

Whether this will lead ultimately to branches of Marshall Field & Co., Mandel Brothers, etc., remains to be seen. This has been hinted, but never confirmed. A branch of any one of the big State street department stores, it is pointed out, would be able to draw from not only the entire north shore suburban area, but also from Rogers Park—and some day from Niles Center.

Henry C. Lytton & Sons have leased about 10,000 square feet on the main floor of the Orrington hotel, at Church street and Orrington avenue, for ten years, at approximately $200,000 for the term.

To Occupy Former Drug Store.

The drug store formerly occupying the corner space already has made way for the remodeling force which, it is expected, will make The Hub north shore branch one of the most attractive stores in the country.

The new branch men's store will extend north along Orrington avenue to the mai nentrace of the hotel and back to the alley.

Will Spend $50,000.

It is said approximately $50,000 will be spent in fixtures and alterations in preparing the new store for Evanston patronage. One of the present hotel dining rooms also will make way for the new men's store.

The deal was closed by O. E. Tronnes, while he was with Victor C. Carlson, owner of the Orrington hotel property. Mr. Tronnes now is in business for himself under the name of O. E. Tronnes organization, with offices in the London Guarantee building, as recently announced in this section.

DRY GOODS AND GARMENT NEWS

[Copyright: 1925: Fairchild News Service.]

NEW YORK.—The local gray goods market registered no change. Business was reported fair.

NEW YORK.—Rayon houses reported no change in market conditions.

PHILADELPHIA. — Present indications point to Jan. 1, 1926, as the probable time when combed cotton yarn spinners will be back to full capacity operation. There is doubt as to whether or not the combed yarn output has increased in the south.

PRODUCE MARKETS

While 92 score butter here was ¼c higher, due to light offerings, the demand in the east was only fair, and the markets had an easy undertone. Sales of 71 cars storage standards for December delivery were made here at 44⅜@44¾c. Cheese slow, but steady.

Fresh eggs advanced 2c. Receipts, 2,758 cases. Sales of 505 cars refrigerator standards for December delivery were made at 34⅛@35⅛c.

Receipts of 124 cars potatoes were in excess of trade requirements and the market was weak, with sellers shading prices to find buyers. There were 354 cars on team track.

Live turkeys advanced 3c, while hens and ducks were 1c lower. Receipts 8 cars and 1,920 coops.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 20.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

The market is less active, but prices are fully firm and the tendency must still be said to be against the buyer. The goods market is steady.

The first fall Texas offering at San Angelo, Tuesday, resulted in no sale, all bids being rejected. Some wool is reported sold privately, bids ranging from 33 to 39 cents. The foreign markets have been a bit irregular, notably at the Melbourne sale and in South Africa. Mohair is steady and unchanged. Quotations:

Domestic—Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces: Delaine unwashed, 55@56c; half blood combing, 55c; three-eighths blood combing, 55c; fine unwashed, 50c. In bonds good luck is a good thing to dodge

A GRAIN OPERATOR was long on wheat when the market sagged. He faced a tremendous loss, for his reserves were bonds—but bonds that did not have a ready market, and he needed cash at once.

The eight Compton offices maintain a wide, national market for securities. Fortunately the Compton Company was able to take this investor's bonds off his hands immediately. That was luck—but, as he said, "If I had invested through you at first, I wouldn't have been tied up in bonds I shouldn't have owned."

It is part of Compton service to help you find the investments that suit your income, wealth and business needs. Every Compton salesman is an ambassador for a house which has spent thirty-eight years in acquiring a sound knowledge of investment facts for your benefit.

COTTON MARKETS

Cotton traders evened up for the government crop report due in Chicago at 10 o'clock today. Estimates on the government figures range from slightly below 15,000,000 to nearly 15,500,000 bales. The average of 79 members on the New York cotton exchange is for 15,318,000 bales, against 15,386,000 bales Nov. 1 and 13,628,000 bales last year.

Liverpool was lower, and there was liberal realizing and liquidation, with selling by the south against an increased country movement.

Closing trades were at nearly the inside of the day, with futures off 30 to 50 points in Chicago and 19 to 46 points in other markets, New Orleans leading. Spots in the latter market were 30 points lower at 19.80c and in New York 20 points lower at 20.80c. Prices in leading markets follow:

BULLISH REPORTS FROM ARGENTINA ADVANCE WHEAT

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Sensationally bullish news from Argentina, with private reports suggesting a yield as low as 200,000,000 bu wheat, or 35,000,000 bu less than the official estimates of a week ago, with an upturn of 3⅞@4½d in Liverpool and 7¼@7⅝c in Buenos Aires, led to general commission house buying, with an advance of 2@3½c over Thursday's finish to a new high on the present movement.

Extremely heavy profit taking, on the belief that the advance had been too fast, caused a reaction of 2@2½c from the top, but the finish was at net gains of ⅛@1¼c. December, after selling at $1.61⅝, closed at $1.59⅜ to $1.59¼, or 3⅛c over May, while July sold at $1.39⅝ at the top, a new high on the crop, and finished at $1.37⅜ to $1.37⅜.

Corn showed independent weakness and lost ½@⅞c, due to the excellent weather prevailing over the belt and the forecast for it continuing for several days. Oats were unchanged to ⅛c higher and rye ⅝@1c higher.

Argentine News Main Factor.

News other than from Argentina had little effect either here or abroad. Buenos Aires February wheat at one time during the day showed an advance of 8½c, or 15½c over the opening on Monday, compared with a maximum advance of 9c at Chicago during the same time. Rosario closed 10⅜c higher for the day. Nat C. Murray, who is now in Argentina, cabled that yields of wheat were proving disappointing, and lowered his estimate on the crop 20,000,000 bu., while Bryant cabled that many fields were being abandoned and indicated there was a possibility of the crop not exceeding 200,000,000 bu, compared with recent claims of as high as 270,000,000 bu. Another cable expressed the belief that the government estimate of 235,000,000 bu would have to be lowered 18,500,000 bu.

That Europe is placing considerable faith in the damage reports has shown by the upturn in Liverpool, and the sales of 2,000,000 bu Manitobas for export in all positions during the day. World's shipments were estimated at 13,080,000 bu, against 10,716,000 bu the previous week and 14,576,000 bu last year. There was some change in commission house sentiment during the day, with many local longs selling freely, having been good buyers lower down.

Corn Closes at Bottom.

Corn prices held within a range of ⅝c and closed at the bottom, with local traders decidedly bearish. The spot basis was 1@4c lower, with old leading, and weather conditions favorable for field work and the movement. The seaboard reported 100,000 bu sold for export. Expectations are for a material increase in receipts next week with favorable weather. Oats were dull, but somewhat firmer in sympathy with wheat. Shorts were the best buyers. Foreign shorts were credited with buying rye, while local longs were good sellers on the bulge.

Lard Leads Decline.

Selling of lard headed by cash and commission houses carried prices lower, and the finish was at net losses of 25@32½c. Shorts and packing interests bought on the break. Weakness in hogs and corn had considerable influence. Prices follow:

CASH·GRAIN N·E·W·S

The continent and the United Kingdom took around 2,000,000 bu wheat, largely Manitobas, in all positions, yesterday, the bulk of the business being done on overnight offers. Late reports indicated buyers were not following the advance. The continent bought 200,000 bu corn. Russia was reported as rebuying feed grain contracts, which is regarded as responsible for the unexpected demand for American corn in the last few days.

Chicago handlers sold 85,000 bu corn, 90,000 bu oats, and 6,000 bu barley to the domestic trade, with 100,000 bu oats and 300,000 bu rye sold to go to store.

Offerings of cash wheat on track here were not large, and the basis was easier, with No. 1 hard sold at 4c over and No. 2 red at 12c over December. At Kansas City the basis on hard was unchanged to 1c lower and at Omaha 1c lower. Minneapolis reported premiums unchanged to 1c higher.

Basis on cash corn here was 1@4c lower. Scarcely enough old is coming forward to make a market. New No. 3 mixed brought 5c over December, with No. 4 mixed ½c under to 1c over; yellow, 1½@2½c over, and white, 1c over the future, with No. 5 grades December price to 2c under. Old No. 2 yellow was 11@12½c over. Outside markets were unchanged to 3c lower, with Omaha leading the decline.

Offerings of cash oats were not large and the demand only fair, with No. 2 white 1¼@1½c and No. 3 white ¾@1c over December.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Friday: Wheat, 11 cars; corn, 245 cars; oats, 53 cars; rye, 1 car; barley, 12 cars.

RAW SILK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—SILK—Raw:

WORLD'S·GRAIN MARKET·NEWS

It was said at the close that while wheat prices are to work higher the advance here and in Argentina has been too rapid and a reaction is due. The disposition is to buy on breaks and to accept profits on the sharp advances. The jump of 8 to 10c in Argentine wheat markets with the close 7¼ to 7⅝c higher for the day, brought out a lot of profit taking and made a more mixed situation in some quarters. In others the sentiment was decidedly bullish.

Wheat traders who have sold on the bulge the last few days are bearish as the prices have advanced before they were able to get their wheat back. Those who believe the Argentine crop damage reports have not been discounted are said to be buying on every sharp dip in prices and talking $1.75 for May wheat before the end of December, and possibly before.

Jackson Bros. & Co. say they feel that the underlying influences in the wheat market are bullish, and that purchases on sharp setbacks will prove profitable.

WANTED—MALE HELP.

Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.

AMBITIOUS MEN.

100—MEN WANTED—100

SALARY,
BONUS, COMMISSION.

Your opportunity to make money is at hand!

No experience necessary. Leads furnished. If you work consistently you can increase your income more rapidly with us than with any similar organization. A. A. M., who earned only $4,000 a year before we hired him, received more than $25,000 last year, his second year with us.

You can do the same if you are intelligent, willing to work, and over 21 years of age.

Many of our highest paid men earned as little as $30 a week before coming to work with us. We are paying them five times as much. Now they own good cars and are enjoying big incomes every week.

YOU want the best things of life. Money will buy them, and we offer you the opportunity to earn MORE MONEY in one year than you might ordinarily earn in five.

We require 100 more men to help us handle our ever increasing volume of business, already amounting to more than $1,000,000 a month. We can double it if we get the right men right away.

That's why we will hire men inexperienced in selling and give them the best sales training in this business.

We are not a new firm; we have 27 years of success behind us and are now ready to start the most amazing sensational, price smashing sales campaign "RIGHT HERE IN CHICAGO." Our advance advertising amounts to more than $100,000 worth of publicity.

Cash in on this great wave of Chicago real estate activity and at the same time know down in your heart that you are selling the "best on the market," that you are building a clientele of customers who will be your friends for life.

This means a permanent position, a STEADY, high income, and the best opportunity to rise to an executive position. All our managers are chosen from our sales force. Never before has there been such a great money making opportunity offered in these columns.

It may never come again. We need 100 men. Apply TODAY.

WANTED—FEMALE HELP.

Saleswomen.

AMBITIOUS WOMEN WANTED.

We require high class women willing to work; experience in our line not necessary. If you are the RIGHT woman we will teach you every angle of our business. We train you to sell at once and furnish LIVE LEADS.

This means a permanent position, the best chance for promotion and increased earnings, with the largest firm in this business in Chicago today. Busy season is all the year round. In other words,

IT'S UP TO YOU.

If you are looking for a real opportunity to make money, then we are looking for you.

Salary—Commission—Bonus.

Many of our highest paid ladies never made more than $25 a week previous to coming with us. A. A. M., who is in our employ less than 3 years, made more than $25,000 last year.

The Same Opportunity Awaits You.

We repeat—if you're willing to work and mean business, APPLY AT ONCE.

ASK FOR MISS BROWNE.

AN UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY PRESENTS ITSELF FOR CAPABLE WOMEN IN THE SALE OF IVANHOE.

We are adding a women's department and believe it will be the most successful in Chicago.

All saleswomen, part or full time, who can sell what we believe to be the best real estate investment Chicago offers today should take advantage of this opportunity.

It would be impossible for me in this ad to tell you why we believe Ivanhoe to be the best buy in Chicago today.

A few minutes of your time, however, would convince you beyond a question of a doubt, upon hearing my story, that the foregoing statement is so.

See me today without fail for further particulars.

Decker & Sons of Mason City, Iowa, have exercised the option to redeem all bonds issued under a certain first mortgage and deed of trust, dated Sept. 1, 1922, said first mortgage and deed of trust running from Jacob E. Decker & Sons, a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Iowa, and having its principal place of business in Mason City, in the County of Cerro Gordo, State of Iowa, to the First National Bank of Mason City, Iowa, an association duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the National Bank Act of the United States, and having its principal place of business in Mason City, in the County of Cerro Gordo, State of Iowa, as trustee.

YOU AND EACH OF YOU are further notified that the redemption date is Jan. 1, 1926, and that the said Jacob E. Decker & Sons have deposited with the said the First National Bank of Mason City, Iowa, the trustee hereinabove named, the money required to pay the full amount of principal, interest and premium pursuant to the terms of said bonds and said trust deed, which will be due and payable thereon Jan. 1, 1926, the redemption date aforesaid.

YOU AND EACH OF YOU are hereby further notified to present to the said the First National Bank of Mason City, Iowa, as trustee, any and all of said bonds owned by you or any of you, together with unpaid coupons belonging thereto, and on such presentation and surrender of said bonds and coupons, the amount due thereon with interest and premium will be paid by said trustee.

AND YOU AND EACH OF YOU are further notified that on and after the first day of January, 1926, interest ceases on any of said bonds.

Dated at Mason City, Iowa, this 10th day of November, A. D. 1925.

JACOB E. DECKER & SONS,
By Jay E. Decker, Its President.
Attest: G. H. Harrer, Its Secretary.
THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK of Mason City, Iowa, Trustees.
By W. G. C. Bagley, Its Vice President.
Attest: R. P. Smith, Its Cashier.

THE BRYSON

One of Chicago's Fine Hotels.

LAKE PARK-AV., NEAR 50TH-ST.

THE BRYSON was formally opened Sept. 17, 1925. It has already created a record in attractive guests of discrimination and refinement.

Many time worn conventions of hotel life have been set aside in favor of hospitality and comfort. The quiet elegance and the unusual details of service make THE BRYSON unique among hotels.

The rooms are spacious and overlook Lake Michigan. Furnishings of quality invite relaxation and rest. The best transportation in Chicago is available. Ten minutes to the loop on Illinois Central express trains. Surface cars and busses nearby.

There is an excellent dining room in the hotel. Club breakfasts are served at moderate prices. Luncheon fifty cents, evening dinner one dollar.

A limited number of single rooms, suites and a few kitchenettes are yet available. The rates are very attractive.

Special Offerings in Type 61 Open Cars

For a limited time—complete winter sides on Type 61 phaetons and touring cars.

For a short time only, as a special offering, we will include a complete set of winter sides on all Type 61 touring cars and phaetons in our stock—at the regular price of $1,250.

The extra equipment makes these Type 61s even more attractive investments than before. With cold weather already here, winter side equipment is very desirable. On this special plan you can buy closed car comfort at the price of an open automobile.

The Type 61 Cadillac enjoyed great popularity as a new car. It was widely known for its almost unbelievable reliability, its smoothness and quiet and the ease with which it is handled. These qua[illegible]es are still retained in the [illegible]d Type 61s we are offering today.

This unusual opportunity is open to you for a limited time. We advise you to come in today and select your Type 61 touring car or phaeton. A delay may mean that the car which would suit you best will be sold.

Time payments on any of these Cadillacs.

PEERLESS
5 Pass. Sedan, 1922
This distinctive 5 passenger sedan should not be confused with the average used automobile. It was recently turned into us by a prominent business man of this city who has always taken great pride in his motor car possessions. The mechanical condition is perfect, as well as all interior and exterior details. It is finished in a beautiful Dustproof Gray, and the upholstery is of silk mohair. The equipment is very complete, including special Rolls-Royce head lamps, nickeled radiator, etc. We feel that a printed description will not do justice to this beautiful car, and therefore suggest an early call and trial ride, at which time you will easily appreciate the wonderful riding qualities and appearance. A very special value at only $850. Liberal terms if desired.
